When I'm weary, very weary of the tiresome city sheets With their putrid social scandals and their nauseating "beats" I enjoy the old home paper, though my comrades smile and sneer As they see me scan the items in the Plunkville "Pioneer."

Oh, I note with real pleasure that they're getting in the hay And that Uncle Billy Perkins was in town the other day. And I'm certainly astonished when I read that Abner Strong Raised a radish in his garden thirty-seven inches long!

Into fields of reminiscence all my thoughts are swiftly led When I see that Jabez Baxter has a buggy painted red. Once I owned a jaunty sidebar, painted strictly by the code, And the bay I had to draw it was the terror of the road.

But I'll throw aside the paper; it's a bore to you, perhaps, And you care not for the doings of a lot of country yaps. It is but a humble journal, and it chronicles small beer, Yet I like to read the items in the Plunkville "Pioneer."

Another Foul Murder.

Mrs. Wm. Stouffer, a widow 64 years old who resided in Stonycreek township, near Lambertsville, this county, was foully murdered between the hours of 1 and 2 o'clock, at her residence, last Friday morning.

The aged lady was found dead in her bed, with her skull crushed by a hammer in the hands of some unknown assassin.

Nothing in or about the house indicated that the murder was committed for the purpose of robbery, as nothing was disturbed, and a pocketbook in a bureau drawer containing $80 was untouched. The woman was evidently murdered by some secret enemy who sought revenge, and evidently by some person well acquainted about the Stoffer house and surroundings.

Grace and John Auman, aged 15 and 12 years respectively, who are grandchildren of Mrs. Stouffer, slept in the Stoffer home on the night of the murder. The children slept in separate rooms, and Grace, who is a well developed girl for her age, awoke while the murderer was in the house, felt a smothering sensation and found a cloth over her face saturated with what she believed to be chloroform.

She brushed the cloth aside and was about to get out of bed, when she was seized by a man and choked almost into insensibility. However, shortly thereafter she got up, aroused her brother, and as both saw the murderer, they fled from the house and aroused some of their neighbors.

Wm. P. Spangler, a son of his and a man named Boyce hastened to the Stouffer home, but by the time they reached there the murderer had fled. They tracked him from the house, thence through an old abandoned road to the Bedford pike, where the trail was lost.

The children who saw the murderer are not able to describe him, further than to say that he was a medium sized man. The township constable is now working on the case.

Salisbury to Have a New Union Depot.

The ladies of Salisbury will give a real up-to-date Union Depot in the opera house, Friday evening, Nov. 23d, 1906. This will be a genuine union depot with all the funny scenes and situations one is apt to see in the union depot in Chicago or any other city. The stage will be made up with its benches, slot machines, ticket windows, baggage room, lunch counter, train caller, ticket seller, newsboys, matron and scrub women. But the real interesting and amusing features will be the passengers with their crinolines, band boxes, bird cages and carpet bags. There will be old Uncle Josh Hayseed and his good wife Sarah about to take the "keers" to visit their daughter Mary Ann, who lives in New York city and puts on airs. There will be the long-faced deacon preaching several real sermons to the worldly passengers. There will be the woman abandoning her baby by thrusting it into the arms of a dignified gentleman and disappearing suddenly into the crowd. There will be a Mrs. Buttinsky, Carry Nation, and, indeed, everybody and every character you can think of.

The Union Depot will be the most amusing and entertaining entertainment ever given in Salisbury. About 80 of the best local talent will participate. The entertainment is simply a picture of a city union depot, with all the funny scenes and situations one is likely to see there. The drilling of the affair is conducted by Miss Ester Perkins, who makes a speciality of this entertainment, and who has had unbounded success wherever she has produced it. Miss Perkins is an elocutionist, graduated from Byron King's school of oratory, musical numbers will be given by local talent.

Sawmill Boiler Lets Go, Injuring Two Young Men.

Last Friday forenoon the boiler exploded at D. P. Miller's sawmill, which is located on Negro Mountain, in Elk Lick township, where Mr. Miller had been engaged in sawing lumber for the Anderson Lumber Company. The mill was badly wrecked by the force of the explosion, but fortunately no one was seriously hurt.

The following named persons were working about the mill when the boiler exploded: D. P. Miller and son, John Tressler, Clay Maust, Nathan Keim and Lloyd Brenneman. Three of them were buried under the wreckage, but none of the men were seriously injured.

Young Miller was slightly scalded and cut about the head, and John Tressler was also slightly hurt, but the other three men escaped without injury. It is a miracle that all of them were not killed or seriously injured.
