S LAXATIVE AND TAR

APPROVED BY CHICAGO, U. S. A. T. MILLER.

Cough keep you awake?

Our White Pine Cough Balsam with tar touches the tickle.

It is very unwise to let it run on. Many times a cough is nothing more than a slight cold, and can be stopped by the use of our Pine Balsam.

This is just the season of the year when the cool, blustering wind and nipping air are making coughs and colds pretty fast. If you are one of the victims, you need something, and we have that something. We are pretty positive about that.

MID-WINTER TERM BEGINS January 7th, 1907. Catalogue Free. THE TRI-STATE BUSINESS COLLEGE, Cumberland, Maryland. 1-3

The Happy Farmer. A certain class of newspaper men assert that a farmer is the most independent man on earth, and that he has nothing to do but to enjoy life. That when winter comes and the blizzard's on the wing he toasts his feet in the oven and reads the local newspaper, and the only thing that disturbs him is a call three times a day to a banquet of mince pies and other luxuries. It is a mistake. The industrious farmer begins work long before the sun thinks of getting up. With his soul shrouded in gloom he proceeds to build a fire and soften his boots with a sledge hammer. He then takes a lantern and shovels his way to the barn and feeds the hogs. It is then time to feed the newly arrived calf, which seems to delight in butting a pail of milk over the filler of the soil until he only needs to be stamped to pass for a package of oleomargarine. He crawls through a barbed-wire fence and digs the hay out of the snow, feeds the cows, cleans the stable, gathers up the frozen chicks, chases a stray pig worth 25 cents for four miles, and does not catch it, doctors a sick horse, freezes his fingers, gets kicked by a one-eyed mule, and when the gloaming comes and quietness broods over all the earth, he has a single half hour to meditate and wonder how he will pay his taxes.

Protect Your Town.

Protect your own town and thereby show that you are in favor of protection. If protection is good for the nation it is good for the town. As townspeople we should favor our town above every other, as the growth and development of it is what will enhance the value of all property, both in and about it. Then buy your drygoods, groceries, hardware, etc., at home; have your printing, your blacksmithing, etc., done at home; patronize home in every instance that you can. The success of our merchants and mechanics means new business houses and residences, additional demands for labor of various kinds. To the farmer a first-class town affords a better market for his grain, a better trading point, and such a town is bound to increase the value of his land. Unquestionably "in union there is strength." Let us protect our town.

A Silent Christmas.

It is not generally known that Christmas at one time was regarded as a superstitious festival, and put down in England by the strong hand of the law. The holly and mistletoe bough were ordered to be destroyed, root and branch, as "plants of the Evil One." It was Oliver Cromwell who ordered that throughout the principal towns in the country, Christmas should not be observed, "it being a hurtful custom."

In order to make people forget Christmas, he enacted that all markets should be held on the 25th of December. It was hardly to be expected that the people would quietly submit to so extraordinary a rule, nor did they. During the illness of Henry VIII, in the first year of his reign, it was decided that the Christmas should be a silent one. There were no bells, carols or merry-making.

Suggestion to Farmers.

There is no class of people more favorably situated for easily profiting by the growing of nuts than the farmers. They have the land in odd corners of fields, along lanes and public roads, about the farm buildings, where trees of any kind could be planted to improve the appearance of the farm and really enhance its selling value. In the selection of trees for shade or ornament, nothing fills the requirements better than the nut tree suited to the locality. In the New England states the hickory nut is available; in the Central states and along mountain ranges, even into southern territory, the chestnut is well adapted to the soil and climate; in the Central west and in the great river basins the walnut and hickory are important native forest trees, which have been ruthlessly destroyed, while farther south and along the South Atlantic and Gulf coasts the pecan is in its home. All of these trees will yield rich dividends in time, are ornaments for years to come and are all valuable for timber.—Ex.

Local Option Bill Likely to be Passed.

The Pennsylvania Anti-Saloon League has begun an active campaign among the members of the next Legislature for the passage of a local option bill similar to that which failed at the last session. This campaign is being conducted from the league headquarters in Harrisburg by Supt. Nicholson, who has managed similar campaigns in Ohio, New York, Maryland, Indiana and Illinois.

Mr. Nicholson claims the league elected more than two-thirds of the legislative candidates which it endorsed in the recent campaign in Pennsylvania. The league is maintained by private contributions, and has permanent headquarters in Harrisburg, almost within a stone's throw of the Capitol. Mr. Nicholson lives on the outskirts of the city, and will spend the winter there directing his campaign for the local option bill. He has made a census of the church vote in Pennsylvania, and expects to use this in efforts to reach legislators on the bill.

FLOGGED IN SCHOOL.

A parent complains that his boy was chastised by a school teacher with a piece of rubber hose. In good old birch-and-hickory days, a hollow rubber tube would have been a thing of joy for the truant boy. It would have encouraged and promoted the game of "hook."

It might be added that the boys of the late David Barnes' day did not tell their parents when the teacher punished them. "In the good old, rare old golden days, it was not like that at all." When a boy was birched at school, he kept the matter sedulously concealed from his parents, because in most cases they added another flogging. Our forefathers were thorough believers in the wisdom of Solomon, and followed his injunction to the letter and to the hilt.

Whether it was the result of the treatment or not, it remains a fact that more boys in that age grew up to be brave and honest, sober and industrious citizens, even if they were not so precocious as those of the present generation.—Connellsville Courier.

Will be Held in Harrisburg.

The Seventeenth Annual Convention of the Department of Superintendents of the Pennsylvania State Educational Association will be held in Harrisburg on Tuesday and Wednesday, February 5-6, 1907. The executive committee have presented a strong and interesting program covering a number of current problems in school superintendence. It is the hope of the committee that there will be an unusually large enrollment at the meeting.

Program and railroad card order will be mailed at a later date, one to each superintendent. Should further card orders be desired, they will be sent upon application to Supt. G. E. Downes, Harrisburg. County Superintendents, Normal school principals, high and graded school principals, school directors and all others interested are invited to be present.

Weevil and Moth—How to Kill Them.

Economic Zoologist Surface is daily receiving letters complaining of the ravages of the rice weevil, the grain weevil and the Angumole grain moth. These pests operate in much the same way, eating into the kernels of wheat and leaving nothing but chaff. Professor Surface says that $100,000 loss during the present year is a conservative estimate.

Threshing wheat immediately after harvesting will do much toward stopping the ravages of the weevils, he says, but that a sure way to prevent both the weevils and the moth from attacking grain is to put the crop into a tight bin, place therein one pound of bisulphide of carbon to each 100 bushels of grain, and cover the whole with heavy damp blankets. This will not injure the grain, but will keep out the bugs.

A TEXAS WONDER.

There's a Hill at Bowie, Tex., that's twice as big as last year. This wonder is W. L. Hill, who from a weight of 150 pounds has grown to over 180.
