A Good Farm Tool House.

I notice in last week's Farmer a writer under the heading of "Farm Machinery of the United States," gives an interesting comparison of the work performed by machinery and without. It seems that the use of machinery comes nearer solving the scarcity of labor problems of anything that I know of.

But with high priced implements as with high priced stock it has to be taken care of if we are to get the best results, hence the necessity of good shelter for it while not in use.

It believe after a lot of thinking and planning that I have a house nearly "filling the bill."

Most of the tool houses are constructed in a way that is inconvenient to get the tools in and out. Such houses usually have the doors in the end of the building and you have to run probably half of your tools out to get the one wanted. Not so with this one, as you can put mower, plow or any other implement in or take it out without disturbing the rest of machinery; a wonderful help when you are in a hurry or tired and think you will put off running that binder into the dry.

The house I have is eighteen feet wide and thirty-two feet long although I would prefer one longer if any difference was to be made. To build the house cut ten oak posts nine feet long and of a size as large as you would use for end post of wire fence, or smaller, will do.

Spiders That Weave Silk.

Most of us have read of the fairy princess who wore a spider-web gown, but we never expected to see that fabric in reality. Now Signor Gallieni, governor of the island of Madagascar, off the southeast coast of Africa, sends word to America that he has opened a factory where the workers are weaving the webs of certain spiders of the island into beautiful silken fabrics which are shipped to Paris and made up into ladies' gowns. Thousands of spiders work day and night in their cages in the big room in the factory given over to them, and they industriously spin millions of yards of their strong silk threads, which are carefully wound and taken to the weaving rooms.

WORKS IN THE GARDEN.

Eighty-seven Years Old, But Has a Sound Back.

Robert Scollan, 87 years old, of 55 Garden St., Seneca Falls, N. Y., a fine, sturdy old gentleman, who works in his own garden, gives thanks to Doan's Kidney Pills for his sound back and kidneys. Mrs. Goethchous, his daughter, says: "Father had a severe attack of kidney trouble and lumbago, which caused him much suffering. He began taking Doan's Kidney Pills and was soon cured. We always keep them on hand. My husband was cured of bad pains in the back by taking only part of a box."

The Emergency Juror.

There should be a thirteenth juror in criminal cases involving all the time and expense of the one now in New York. Sickness and death in these uncertain times, barring any superstitious feeling he might have in regard to being "it," make the extra juror essential. He would prevent delays that the public would surely appreciate, and to avoid "queer" trials he might be placed in a box by himself only to be used in an emergency. It is a wonder when trial by jury was instituted they did not think of hitching on a spare man after the manner of the automobile's extra tire.—Boston Herald.

Was Hamlet Fat?

Was Hamlet fat or slender? M. Catulle Mendes, who held the latter view, was nearly killed by a sword thrust of M. Vanor, who leaned to the former. Unfortunately, the rapier only pierced the skin of the duellists and not the mystery which was the cause of the dispute.—Paris Revue Generale.

NO RELIEF FROM ECZEMA

For Over Two Years—Patent Doctors, Quack Cures, and Even Doctors Fail—Cuticura Succeeds.

"I was very badly afflicted with eczema for more than two years. The parts affected were my limbs below the knees. I tried all the physicians in the town and some in the surrounding towns, and I also tried all the patent remedies that I heard of, besides all the cures advised by old women and quacks, and found no relief whatever until I commenced using the Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent. In the Cuticura Remedies I found immediate relief and was soon sound and well. C. V. Beltz, Tippecanoe, Ind., Nov. 15, 1905."

Testing the Breeds For Merit.

Of one fact the breeder is assured, and that is that certain families excel, and are more successful than others, among all classes of stock, and, fortunately for both the breeder and the farmer, the pedigrees enable them to arrive at some degree of knowledge as to the proper families from which to select. The farmer who desires to grade up his stock is enabled to breed from animals of certain strains, or from families that have produced a certain large proportion of extraordinary individuals, and to increase the yield of his herds or flocks by grading the flock to a higher standard. The farmer should select from the best families of the breed he desires. While pedigrees are essential in knowing how to breed for the best, yet pedigree and outward points should be compared with the records of the animals. The horse that trots, the cow that yields the most milk and butter, and the sheep that produces the heaviest fleece, whether possessing a noble pedigree or not, will stand at the head until their records are beaten. The animals that have secured records are not superior in points, nor is the color of any consequence. Actual work, or performance, must be the test, and on such a foundation all classes of stock will be rapidly improved.

Turkey Shelter.

In colder climates, where shelter must be provided, a house may be built that is fashioned after many of our poultry houses, with the slanting roof; and an open ventilator should be placed in front, close to the roof, and never be closed except in cold weather. The roost should be placed on a level in front of the house, with a sliding or rolling door in the rear. Only light enough is needed for the turkeys to see the way to and from the roosts. The door should be left open all day that they may come and go at pleasure. Within this house they may be fed in cold, snowy weather. In the cold northern climate of Canada one of the most successful turkey growers has a double enclosed apartment house for his breeding stock in winter, connected with which is an enclosed run, that will protect them from the elements, at the same time furnishing opportunity for open-air exercise during the day. This kind of house is most useful in cold climates, but it might be used in all localities and prevent midnight marauders of all kinds from carrying away the turkeys.—T. F. McGrew, United States Department of Agriculture.

Hauling Manure Daily.

Experiments made by the Ohio station prove that when manure was thrown into the open barnyard and permitted to lie there for five months before being hauled to the field it had a value of $2.40 per ton. When drawn directly to the field as fast as it was made the value was $3.20 per ton. When the manure was sprinkled with ground phosphate rock as fast as it was made in the stable, thus preventing loss from ammonia, the value was $5.18 per ton. The claim is made that at least one-third of the value of the manure is lost as it is usually put on the land with a fork and that ten loads put on with a manure spreader go as far and do as much good as fifteen loads put on in the old fashioned, careless way.

Feed For Sheep.

Corn is not wholesome food for sheep, and should be given sparingly. Good clover hay and some roots will keep sheep in excellent condition. The small gain—if any—from regular grain feeding for a breeding flock will not pay for the food. Regularity in feeding is worth more to the flock than a good deal of grain given by "fits and starts." Sheep do well in a well littered floor without removing the manure all the winter. All the manure is saved, and the constant trampling keep it from heating and fermenting. Forty or fifty sheep will make a large quantity of manure in this way, and clover hay and bran cannot be turned into plant food in any cheaper or easier way.—New York Witness.

No Rules for Success.

There is no such thing as a single, particular proposition in business. No doubt this was always true in a measure; but it becomes more inclusively, more vitally, true every day with the increasing co-ordination of business. The whole business web knits ever closer, and each particular concern is bound more tightly in it. What other people do reacts more quickly than formerly upon your own affairs. A martial blast sounded in Buenos Ayres blew some very peaceful Boston gentlemen out of Union Pacific. Stockholders in Kansas banks got better dividends because some Russian grand dukes wanted war with Japan. The peculiar operations of the dual brain cells made wheat higher. Who will pretend that he can reason out what a grand duke is going to do?—Everybody's Magazine.

Truth About Mysterious Everglades.

Our experience was that one meets delay in the Everglades, but not danger. The water is pure and sweet and food plentiful enough. Limpkins taste like young turkeys; all members of the hero family are likely to be found in the Glades and most other birds are fair food. Snails which abound, are delicacies when called periwinkles; you would pay a dollar a portion in New York for the frogs that are yours for catching in the Glades. There are plenty of turtles, which possess all the good qualities, except cost, of the green turtle or terrapin. A few fruits can be had for deserts—cocoa plums, custard apples and pawpaws—while the leaves of the sweet-bay make a fragrant beverage. Crossing the Everglades of Florida in a canoe is not an adventure; it is a picnic.—Harper's Magazine.

Of Interest to Women.

Every woman naturally should be healthy and strong, but a great many women, unfortunately, are not, owing to the unnatural condition of the lives we lead. Headache, backache and a general tired condition are prevalent amongst the most of to-day, and to relieve these conditions women rush to the druggists for a bottle of some preparation supposed to be particularly for them, and containing—nobody knows what. If they would just get a box of Brandreth's Pills, and take them regularly every night for a time, all their trouble would disappear, as these pills regulate the organs of the feminine system. The same dose has the same effect, no matter how long they are used. Brandreth's Pills have been in use for over a century and are sold in every drug and medicine store, plain or sugar-coated.

The Religious East.

The fact is that the Oriental races are fundamentally religious, and that the mainspring of their lives is their religion, whereas in modern Europe people have succeeded in dividing their lives into religious and secular departments.—London Post.

Hunt Diamonds in Kentucky.

From present indications there is no longer a doubt as to the existence of a splendid showing for diamonds in Kentucky, says the Glasgow (Ky.) correspondent to the Nashville "American." For many years those versed in such matters have insisted that this State offered flattering prospects for diamond mining, but capitalists were timid, and it has taken a long process of reasoning to get them interested. At last the work is fairly under way, and the results will be eagerly watched. The plant to do the mining is now in process of installation in Elliott county, and January 1 an immense diamond washing pan and its accessory machinery, built from South African models began an exhaustive test of the Kentucky Kimberlite deposits, which geologists say are practically identical with the olivine pyroxene rock in the Kimberley fields in South Africa.

Elliott county is the first and only place in the United States which has made an effort to determine the possibilities of diamond mining in this country. Most of the finds so far have been in alluvial deposits, and one of the best was a 24-karat stone of fine quality picked up in Virginia some 50 years ago, but the source of those has never been found. Geologists believe that the wholesale washing operations will determine whether these deposits carry true gems and in paying quantities.

Golden Relics Found.

Jerusalem papers report that on the opening of the graves at Pergamos a number of rare relics were brought to light. In one grave lay a golden Rosary. In two other tombs two wreaths were found, representing artistically made gold imitations of oak leaves. A wolf's head of gold was discovered, as well as various farming utensils, swords and other weapons. The antiquities have been sent to the Museum of Constantinople.

An Accommodating Butcher.

The Indianapolis News tells the story of a parson's wife who sent an order for a leg of mutton and received in reply the following note: "Dear Madam—I have not killed myself this week but can get you a leg off my brother, if that will do. Your affectionate butcher, John Smith."
