

Coffee— A Question of Taste

Don't let anyone tell you what coffee to buy. Connoisseurs and expert coffee judges differ in their tastes. The point is to get a coffee that suits your taste. GILLIES' COFFEES—"the finest obtainable," are blended to suit different tastes—all tastes. There are four distinct flavors, characteristic of coffees from different parts of the world, consequently four different prices. These different prices mean that some coffees cost more to import than others. If your choice is the lowest or the highest priced—you may be sure that you have the very best of its kind. GILLIES' 35 cent coffee is mellow, aromatic and very delicately flavored, while GILLIES' 30c coffee is rich, full-bodied and delicious—the 25c or 20c blend each has a distinctive flavor which may please you.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

Digests what you eat. Dr. Williams' Little Early Risers The famous little pills.

GOVERNOR STUART has signed the bill giving trolley companies the right to carry freight. The present Republican State administration is making good the pledges made to the people before the election of last November.

We are sorry that we do not have time, this week, to review the Rockwood Leader's answers to our questions asked recently concerning trolley companies using public roads. We have not yet had time to read all of the Leader's reply, but a hurried glance has revealed some very nonsensical answers, nevertheless, and the same shall have due attention in our next issue.

GOVERNOR STUART has signed the bill increasing liquor license tax of retail dealers in townships twenty-five dollars, fifty dollars in boroughs and cities of the third class, and one hundred dollars in cities of the first and second class. This additional tax is for the use of the state, whereas it should be for the use of the townships, boroughs and cities that have to take care of the drunks and contend with the criminals and blackguards produced by the traffic.

In the course of about ten years, says the Altoona Evening Gazette, the country will be covered with a network of electric railways. The extensions of this means of travel and transportation will be the solution of many problems. Passenger and freight rates will be cheaper, and the latter will offer competition not only with the steam roads, but with the express companies. The trolley lines can carry small packages to every point reached by express, and to many which it does not reach. The granting of the right of eminent domain to companies will greatly aid in the development of the industry, making it much easier for the promoters to get rights of way. One of the problems which the extension of trolleys will help to solve will be that of the price of food products. No doubt one of the ways to cheapen the necessities of life is to give the raisers of produce every access to the centers of population possible.

ROBBED by Mr. Roosevelt of all his living issues, afraid to trust himself to his issue of government ownership of railroads, Mr. Bryan, desperately casting about for some idea with which his name may be identified in the popular mind, has fished up the ancient, battered, uninteresting and academic notion of the initiative and referendum. You might as well try to inspire the people by urging upon them a new method of extracting the cube root. The initiative and referendum has a deathless charm for raw minds. It is the last support of frayed and outworn political reputations. A theory which, if applied in private business, would result in universal bankruptcy, which has in every land been rejected by the founders of political institutions, which is applicable only to the affairs of small, primitive, and homogeneous communities, will not be transformed by Mr. Bryan into an issue about which the people will go wild.—New York Times.

DURING the past two weeks we have mailed a great many statements to persons owing us money on subscription, and to those who have responded with full or partial payments, we tender our sincere and grateful thanks. As usual, some who are the least able to pay were among the first to respond, while many who are perfectly able to pay such bills at any time, have not yet paid us a cent. This is not as it should be, and no person has a moral right to owe any man a just debt a day longer than necessary, after receiving a statement and knowing just what the amount of the debt is. It does not speak well for the business integrity of a man to carry a statement of a debt around with him for days, weeks or months without paying the slightest attention to it or making an honest effort to cancel the debt or make some sort of satisfaction. We have always made it a rule to respond promptly to statements or bills rendered to us, and we expect those to whom we have extended credit and placed confidence in to do business with us according to the same standard. Cash up, gentlemen, and don't think for a minute that we send out statements merely for the purpose of getting rid of cash for postage stamps.

A PETITION was circulated several days ago praying for the appointment of Theoph. Wagner as assessor of Salisbury borough. Mr. Wagner was a candidate for that office at the last Borough election, and on the face of the returns he was elected, but was not an eligible candidate for the office, owing to the fact that he served on the election board at the time, and THE STAR so stated immediately after the election. It is true that Mr. Wagner was the only candidate for the office, but any voter has a right to vote for whomsoever he pleases, in the blank space provided for that purpose on the official ballot, and at the election aforasaid some of the voters voted for William Kyle for assessor. Although Kyle was not a candidate for the office, he was nevertheless eligible thereto, and the only eligible person voted for at the last election for assessor. Therefore, the duty of the election board was to promptly issue to Mr. Kyle a certificate of election. And unless he has declined to serve as assessor, Mr. Wagner nor any other man can lawfully seek the office or be lawfully appointed thereto. "Billy" should not permit himself to be duped out of an office to which he was lawfully elected.

TROLLEY NEWS.

As we go to press litigation is still in progress between the two warring trolley companies. People who have been listening to the trial in progress, this week, think the old M. & S. company is beaten to a standstill, and that the injunctions against the P. & M. will soon be dissolved. In that event the P. & M. will have its line completed and in operation on short order, while Elder S. P. Maust will likely be kept busy footing bills for the mythical company he has been trying to aid. We feel sorry for him, for experience is a dear teacher, and we think Mr. Maust has been acting in good faith upon very bad advice. The old M. & S. has a few "hunkies" at work on its grade along Spruce Hill, near Boynton, this week, but that is only another bluff on the part of the old wildcat concern, and doubtless the poor "hunks" will have due bills for sale at a big discount, in a short time from now, as was the case the other time the M. & S. was in the grading business.

Berlin Schools Receive Fine Gift—Salisbury Schools Deprived of Same Thing by Stupidity of Our School Board.

A geographical collection or classroom museum has been installed at the Berlin High School, which will greatly assist in the teaching of geography, commerce and natural science. This museum is Collection No. 3, and is for use in schools of the higher grades. It is supplied by the Philadelphia Museums, and was secured for the Berlin schools through the recommendations of Representatives Endsley and Knepper. The exhibits have been placed in a temporary case for the present, but will be properly cased and shelved before the fall term opens, when we will give a complete description of the museum.—Berlin Record.

It is with much shame and regret that we announce the failure of the Salisbury school board to accept from Representative Endsley a gift of the same kind he and Hon. A. W. Knepper have procured for the Berlin schools. Mr. Endsley twice offered to arrange for such a collection for the Salisbury schools, and our school board was duly notified to that effect. Yet the board has stupidly ignored the offer, and thus are the Salisbury schools deprived of something of great value that was offered free of charge, and which other more progressive school boards throughout the county availed themselves of promptly, thus doing the schools under their jurisdiction a valuable service.

The members of the Salisbury school board ought to be ashamed of themselves, and the citizens of this borough ought to be ashamed of them, too, and hold them to strict account for the shameful neglect of their duties.

It isn't a great while ago that Janitor W. H. Boucher informed THE STAR that not one of our school directors had visited the schools at any time during the term. They may have done so since, but it is not likely. One thing is sure, and that is the fact that the truant laws have not been enforced during the present school term. Boys and girls whom the law requires to be sent to school have been allowed to remain away therefrom, at their own sweet will, owing to the negligence and unconcern of the board. The directors have also been lax in their duties in other respects, and in justice to the community they ought to resign.

There may or may not be instances where children are given a stone when they ask for bread, or a serpent when they ask for fish; but it is a sure thing that when valuable geographical and commercial collections are offered to the schools of Salisbury, free of charge, to aid in the cause of education, they are ignored, and the pupils are treated to inexcusable indifference and vaccination scabs instead.

Daniel J. Horner Dead.

Daniel J. Horner, one of the most widely known men in Somerset county, died last Monday morning, at his home in Somerset. He took sick on the 13th inst., and his death is ascribed to a complicated hernia, which caused him considerable suffering at times for many years.

Deceased was a very successful politician in his time, having served the county as Register and Recorder, Prothonotary and Associate Judge, and Somerset borough as tax-collector, councilman and school director. He also served one term as clerk to the County Commissioners and store-keeper and gauger in the Internal Revenue service.

He was twice defeated for nomination for office—once for Prothonotary, and once for Assembly, but on both occasions he received a flattering vote. Judge Horner was a genial, warm-hearted man, in every sense an optimist, and he was the same pleasant "Danny" to his political opponents and friends alike. He was always ready and anxious to do a good turn for anybody. He was a veteran of the Civil War, and lost a leg as the result of a wound received in the battle of Fredericksburg, Dec. 13th, 1862. He was a member of Company C, 142nd Pa. Vol. Infantry.

Deceased was a member of the Reformed church, the Grand Army of the Republic and numerous secret societies. His age was 62 years, 10 months and 25 days. The funeral takes place today at 2 o'clock p. m., conducted by his pastor, the Rev. Hiram King, assisted by the order of Odd Fellows and the R. P. Cummins Post of the G. A. R. Mr. Horner is survived by his wife, but no children.

Phineas Welfley Dead.

We regret very much to announce the death of Phineas Welfley, which occurred in a Pittsburg hospital, a couple of days ago, where he had been taking treatment for a cancerous affection of the bladder.

The body is expected in Salisbury this evening, and the funeral is to take place from the residence of R. S. Johns, tomorrow (Friday).

Deceased and family moved to Fayette county, recently, where they expected to take charge of a farm owned by Mr. Frank F. Zanchi, a son-in-law of Mr. Welfley who resides in Connellsville. Mr. Welfley took sick while en route to his new home, and by the time he reached Connellsville his condition was so serious that he had to be taken to a hospital at once. His health declined rapidly from day to day, until death came to his relief.

Deceased was twice married. His first wife died some twenty years ago but he is survived by the second wife and several children. He was aged about 60 years, residing practically all of his life in Salisbury, where he was greatly esteemed as a kind-hearted, upright citizen. He was a member of the Evangelical Lutheran church.
