

A Woman's Back

Has many aches and pains caused by weakness and falling, or other displacements of the pelvic organs. Other symptoms of female weakness are frequent headache, floating before the eyes, gnawing sensation in stomach, dragging or bearing down in lower abdominal or pelvic region, disagreeable drains from pelvic organs, faint spells with general weakness.

If any considerable number of the above symptoms are present there is no remedy that will give quicker relief or a more permanent cure than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It has a record of over forty years of cures. It is the most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nerve known to medical science. It is made of the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots found in our forests and contains not a drop of alcohol or harmful, or habit-forming drugs. Its ingredients are all printed on the bottle wrapper and attested under oath as correct.

Every ingredient entering into "Favorite Prescription" has the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice—more valuable than any amount of non-professional testimonials—though the latter are not lacking, having been contributed voluntarily by grateful patients in numbers to exceed the endorsements given to any other medicine extant for the cure of women's ills.

You cannot afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for this well proven remedy of known composition, even though the dealer may make a little more profit thereby. Your interest in regaining health is paramount to any selfish interest of his and it is an insult to your intelligence for him to try to palm off upon you a substitute. You know what you want and it is his business to supply the article called for.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original "Little Liver Pills" first put up by Dr. Pierce over forty years ago, much imitated but never equaled. Little sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

The Limit.

A rich man out in the suburbs who owns a large place has among the many people employed to keep it in shape an Irishman of whom he is particularly fond on account of his unconscious wit. This Irishman is sometimes a hard drinker, and, as his income is limited, he is more particular as regards the quantity than the quality of his liquors. The other day the employer, who had been awaiting a good opportunity, remarked in a kind tone, as the closing sentence of a friendly lecture:

"Now Pat, how long do you think you can keep on drinking this cheap whisky?"

To which Pat instantly replied: "All my life if it doesn't kill me."—Harper's Weekly.

TEN YEARS OF PAIN.

Unable to Do Even Housework Because of Kidney Troubles.

Mrs. Margaret Emmerich, of Clinton St., Napoleon, O., says: "For fifteen years I was a great sufferer from kidney troubles. My back pained me terribly. Every turn or move caused sharp, shooting pains. My eyesight was poor, dark spots appeared before me, and I had dizzy spells. For ten years I could not do housework, and for two years did not get out of the house. The kidney secretions were irregular, and doctors were not helping me. Doan's Kidney Pills brought me quick relief, and finally cured me. They saved my life."

Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

A Healthy Monarch.

The Emperor of Austria belongs to that category of persons who throughout their lives never ever suffer from headache. The approach of age is not visible. The Emperor who formerly smoked 10 to 15 strong Virginia cigars daily, now contents himself with two light ones; he drinks daily about two glasses of beer and some light wine; he sleeps much, and great care is taken during his sleep that cold is avoided.

The Small Buyer of Paint who takes care that the Dutch Boy trade mark, shown below, appears on every keg of white lead he buys, is perfectly protected; as perfectly as if he were a railroad official buying hundreds of tons, and with a corps of chemists at his back to see that no adulterant is palmed off on him.

Pure White Lead and Pure Linseed Oil are absolutely necessary to good painting.

LONG TRIP WITH OX TEAM.

Aged Ezra Meeker Making His Way to Washington to Establish Markings of the Oregon Trail.

Making a journey of 3,000 miles behind a team of oxen, Ezra Meeker, who started from Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 22, 1906, has reached Ohio on his way to Washington, D. C. The object of his expedition is to establish monuments along the old Oregon trail, in honor of the pioneers who first used it to travel west. He owns a large estate in Washington, and has a wife and five children, 21 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

His family and neighbors protested against the long journey, but he was determined. Twenty monuments have been erected through Meeker's efforts, one costing $500, and he advocates the establishment by Congress of a national highway from the Missouri river to Oregon over the trail of 1852.

Meeker's wagon is one that was used on the old Oregon trail. It is a typical prairie schooner, and he calls it his "oxomobile." He lectures from the rear of his wagon. He has not slept outside of his wagon since he started on the long trip. To President Roosevelt Meeker will present his plan, which he says has the backing of all the congressmen of the west.

Guessing at Sphinx's Age.

The great Sphinx of Ghizeh bears no inscription by which we can tell its date. In 1816 Cavaglia, who in modern times was the first to clear away the sand, found between its paws a stele of the reign of Thothmes IV., and, therefore, it was believed that the Sphinx was carved by that monarch. But in 1858 the excavations of Mariette uncovered a stele bearing the name of Cheops, on which is a reference to the Sphinx. The inscription is evidently of a late period, but is supposed to be an exact copy of an ancient carving, and the translation seemed to place the Sphinx earlier than the Pyramids, and consequently to prove it the most ancient piece of work in the world. Still there remained four lines carved on the base which could not be read, but M. Daressy has now deciphered them, and it appears that the inscription is in two parts. In the earlier lines there is no mention of the Sphinx, but the lines, which date from the Persian occupation, mention the repair of the Sphinx. There is, therefore, nothing by which we can tell the date of the monument, and the only evidence we have is the headress of the colossus. Its hood is ornamented behind with three bands, a large one between two smaller bands. Now this is a fashion which existed only toward the end of the twelfth dynasty in the reigns of Usurtasen III. and Amenemhat III. As the family showed much zeal for the god Harmaklin, whose portrait the Sphinx is, it is probable that the monument is the work of Amenemhat III.—London Globe.

FRIENDS HELP St. Paul Park Incident.

"After drinking coffee for breakfast I always felt languid and dull, having no ambition to get to my morning duties. Then in about an hour, or so a weak, nervous derangement of the heart and stomach would come over me with such force I would frequently have to lie down.

"At other times I had severe headaches; stomach finally became affected and digestion so impaired that I had serious chronic dyspepsia and constipation. A lady, for many years State President of the W. C. T. U., told me she had been greatly benefited by quitting coffee and using Postum Food Coffee; she was troubled for years with asthma. She said it was no cross to quit coffee when she found she could have as delicious an article as Postum.

"Another lady, who had been troubled with chronic dyspepsia for years, found immediate relief on ceasing coffee and beginning Postum twice a day. She was wholly cured. Still another friend told me that Postum Food Coffee was a Godsend to her, her heart trouble having been relieved after leaving off coffee and taking on Postum.

"So many such cases came to my notice that I concluded coffee was the cause of my trouble and I quit and took up Postum. I am more than pleased to say that my days of trouble have disappeared. I am well and happy." "There's a Reason." Read, "The Road to Wellville," in 10c.

THE FUTILITY OF PHILANTHROPY.

By Mrs. Rose Pastor Stokes.

I sometimes think that it would be a good thing if this whole philanthropic system could be swept out of existence, because it blinds people to the real issues. It is not true philanthropy. Philanthropy is love of man, and it is not love of man to take from him what is his, and then, when he is lying robbed and wounded upon the Jericho road, to put him on a beast and take him to a soup kitchen. There is little use in trying to relieve poverty while we are creating it. Just so long as we go on leaving men and women on the Jericho road we will have these problems.

It is a curious psychological fact that people should want to relieve distress while they are careless about what they do to create it. Not long ago Mr. Stokes refused to become trustee for a vast estate. He told the two men who tried to persuade him to accept the trust that if he did he would feel bound to see that those who created that wealth received it again. He didn't think that the dividends mattered. Now, these two men are very philanthropic. They believe that they are so, and others believe it of them. But they were very much surprised and hurt at this attitude. They told Mr. Stokes that it was not at all his business how the dividends were produced. His only concern was to see that those who trusted him with the estate received them, and finally they said, as if concluding the whole matter: "Our duty is to God and not to the workers."

This attitude is very common among the sustainers of great philanthropies and churches. They do not see that taking dividends is taking from the worker. They live in luxury, denying themselves nothing, and what they have to spare they give in philanthropy. They do not see that poverty can be cured only by doing justice and seeing that those who create wealth get it and that all help to create it.

The care of the public health is the subject in which you are particularly interested, and sickness is one of the greatest of our problems under the present social system. Most of our treatment of it is merely on the surface. Only a few forces are trying to remove the cause. There is a section of our city known as the lung block. Many efforts have been made to have it torn down and replaced by a park, but nothing can be done because the proposition touches vested interests. Even the priest of a nearby church objects because it would remove his flock. To be sure, death removes them anyway, but he doesn't seem to think of that.

Many of our workshops are so bad that if people don't get tuberculosis in them they get something else. It is inevitable. Recently, in Philadelphia, I met in a settlement which he himself sustained a wealthy mill owner. He employed 1200 girls, and he was much concerned over the way they dropped off and died. It was terrible to see, but he didn't know how to help it. He said they came to him well and rosy, but in six months or a year they grew pale and thin, and after dropping out and returning to work a few times they died of tuberculosis. I expressed surprise that he couldn't find a way to prevent this, but he explained that he couldn't ventilate the weaving rooms, because the dust from the colored fabrics blew onto the white ones and marred their purity. I thought that human beings were more important than cloth, and if his heart hadn't been hardened by business he would have thought so, too; but it didn't seem to me necessary even to sacrifice the cloth. He might have woven the different colors in different rooms. That would have necessitated more supervision and more expense, and perhaps wouldn't have left him any money for philanthropy. This man really wanted to be philanthropic, but couldn't see that he was responsible for the killing of hundreds of girls. And yet I do not blame him or any individual. I blame the competitive system back of it all.

Our Voices Deepen.

The primitive inhabitants of Europe had tenors; their descendants of the present time are baritones, and future generations will have semi-bass voices. The voice has a tendency to deepen with age. The tenor of twenty becomes the baritone of twenty-eight and the bass of thirty-six. The inferior races have higher pitched voices than the more cultured. The negro has a higher voice than the white man. Among white races the fair complexioned man has a higher voice than his darker skinned brother. The former is usually a baritone or a tenor, the latter a contralto or bass. It is asserted that tenors are usually of slender build, whereas basses are stout, but there are too many exceptions to such a rule for it to be reliable. The same remark applies to the statement that thoughtful men have deep-toned voices and vice versa. The tones of a voice are perceptibly higher before than after a meal, for which reason tenors are generally careful not to sing too soon after dinner.—Pearson's Weekly.

FINANCE AND TRADE REVIEW

DUN'S WEEKLY SUMMARY

Demand for Steel Exceeds Supply and Offers of Premiums Are Often Refused.

Spring retail trade is backward because of the unusually late season. Tardy distribution of merchandise is also causing complaint of delay in mercantile collections, but there is a confidence that most of the postponed business will be made up when thermal conditions become normal.

Dealers purchased freely from manufacturers in anticipation of a record-breaking season, and deliveries are still coming from the mills and factories, with shipments being facilitated by improved traffic conditions. Manufacturers are active in all leading industries.

The outlook in the steel business could hardly be brighter. Projected building operations promise a good demand for all materials, but numerous small labor disputes retard activity in this department. All controversies over wages and hours are not extensive or alarming.

Only favorable reports are received from the iron and steel industry. New business is coming to the mills as rapidly as orders are filled. Few producers are able to take advantage of premiums offered for prompt delivery.

Ore has begun to move freely on the lakes. Arrangements have been made for a record year, many new vessels enlarging the carrying capacity.

Pig iron furnaces are producing as rapidly as possible, and new plants are in course of construction, but deliveries are tardy. Most concerns have sold their entire output for this year.

Large orders for cotton ties were placed at an advance of 10 cents a bundle. The season's needs will be provided for without delay. Improvement in woolens has received a check. The market is awaiting developments. Mills are fairly busy, but the late season is retarding progress. Extensive preparations were made for early business, which has not materialized. Duplicate orders are chiefly for the better lines of woolsens.

SCIENCE ECLIPSED.

A New York Man's Invention Surpasses Expectations.

New York.—On July 3, 1906, letters patent were granted A. O. Leonard on an invisible antiseptic car-drum, on the megaphone principle, for relief of deafness, head noises, &c., which is proving far more successful than the inventor ever anticipated. Mr. Leonard was deaf for thirty-five years and invented this drum for his own benefit. Ear specialists, family physicians and scientists are amazed at the results, and a very prominent ear specialist says it will make more deaf people hear than all other devices for aiding hearing combined.

Mr. Leonard is sending as promptly as possible full information by mail to those who write him at his office, 1171 Broadway, Suite 231, to try the drums.

The greatest African demand for motor boats of all descriptions comes from Zambesia, where there are hundreds of miles of navigable rivers, and where a greater part of the transportation is by water. The greatest corporation interested in the means of transportation in Zambesia is the Campanhia de Zambesia, which has its head office in Europe, at No. 53 Rue de Valenciennes, Lisbon, and its head office in Africa, at Tete, Zambesia. Alfred Obrist, of Chinde, at the mouth of the Zambesia, is also interested in river and lake transportation in that region.—The Engineer.
