Indigestion Causes Catarrh of the Stomach.

For many years it has been supposed that Catarrh of the Stomach caused indigestion and dyspepsia, but the truth is exactly the opposite. Indigestion causes catarrh. Repeated attacks of Indigestion inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach and exposes the nerves of the stomach, thus causing the glands to secrete mucus instead of the juices of natural digestion. This is called Catarrh of the Stomach.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

relieves all inflammation of the mucous membranes lining the stomach, protects the nerves, and cures bad breath, sour risings, a sense of fullness after eating, indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles.

THE PRIMARY ELECTION.

Last Saturday's primary election was the first to be held under the Uniform primary act. There was a down-pour of rain which lasted about all day, and the vote was the smallest polled in many years. In some districts scarcely any votes were polled, as there was practically no contest for any of the offices.

The Republicans polled about 1500 votes in the county, and the Democrats and Prohibitionists about 200 each. John S. Miller defeated A. C. Holbert for the Republican nomination for District Attorney, and W. W. Baker is the successful man for Poor House Director. The Democrats nominated no one for these two offices.

EVERY MAN HIS OWN DOCTOR.

The average man cannot afford to employ a physician for every slight ailment or injury that may occur in his family, nor can he afford to neglect them, as so slight an injury as the scratch of a pin has been known to cause the loss of a limb. Hence every man must from necessity be his own doctor for this class of ailments. Success often depends upon prompt treatment, which can only be had when suitable medicines are kept at hand. Chamberlain's Remedies have been in the market for many years and enjoy a good reputation. They sell for 25 cents a bottle.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, for bowel complaints. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. Chamberlain's Pain Balm, (an anti-septic liniment), for cuts, bruises, burns, sprains, swellings, lame back and rheumatic pains. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, for constipation, biliousness and stomach troubles. Chamberlain's Salve, for diseases of the skin.

One bottle of each of these five preparations cost but $1.25. For sale at Miller's Drug Store. 7-1

Somniform is no secret or patent preparation, but the result of true scientific experimentation.

TO THE YOUNG FOLKS.

We want to give you a little advice—because it is cheap, and we have nothing better to give.

We want to tell you how to have friends, and how to have people say nice things about you. And you won't have any enemies.

That's worth while, isn't it?

Well, here's the receipt. Read it carefully:

Just drift with the crowd, and agree with the crowd.

If the crowd goes where you think they ought not to go with them anyhow, they might get mad if you don't.

If they get into mischief, you get in, too.

If they take a few apples that don't belong to them, you eat some, too.

If it's a watermelon patch, you might as well get the benefit of it. If you don't, they won't like it.

By all means be friends. If your conscience hurts you when they want you to take just one drink, that doesn't make any difference. Don't break up the friendship just on account of a little conscience.

If they want you to go next time, by all means go. Don't let your conscience bother you. What is conscience between friends?

Then, too, think like the crowd and talk like the crowd.

If you've been thinking certain things are wrong, don't say so in the crowd; somebody might not agree with you. Better agree with your friends for friendship sake.

In short, don't do anything unless the crowd is with you. If it is not popular, just keep quiet—put it off.

Popularity, that's it. It's so nice to have friends with whom you are popular.

Life is so short to have enemies. Now, to give you an example of how nice it is not to have enemies, we are going to name some of those men who never had an enemy?

Walter Oliver, Thomas McBane, Jonathan Crawford, John T. Hall, Edward Todd, William Porterfield.

You never heard of them? Don't know what they did? I don't either. Trouble is they never did anything, just drifted with the crowd, afraid to do anything; might make enemies. That's the reason you never heard of them—they were cowards.

You've heard of Patrick Henry, though, haven't you? You know why? Because he did not care if he did have enemies.

You've heard of Jesus, haven't you? He did not care if he did have enemies.

When a man has enemies, it's because he's doing what he thinks is right.

If he has no enemies, he may be a pretty good fellow in most things, but he's a coward. Nobody is enemy to a bad man, except himself.

Good folks hate evil, but don't hate bad people.

Bad folks needn't have enemies.

God deliver us from the man without an enemy.—The Idea.

Wm. J. Davis, of Somerset, Owner of a Famous Gun.

Our friend Wm. J. Davis, of Somerset, was a welcome caller at THE STAR office, yesterday. He came over here yesterday to attend to some business, and visited his parents, Elder and Mrs. John N. Davis, who reside in the village of Springs.

William took a gun home with him which was presented to him by his father, and the weapon was at one time considered the handsomest gun in this vicinity. It was made to order for William Enfield, by our old fellow townsman Samuel Mier, who followed gun-making and repairing in this town for many years. Enfield, however, was a man of eccentric character, and before he had the gun very long he traded it to Elder Davis for a wheelbarrow and a soldier's uniform which Mr. Davis had worn while in the War of the Rebellion.

The famous weapon was probably the handsomest gun Mr. Mier ever made. It was of the full stock pattern, the wood work extending the entire length of the barrel, and the stock was made of curly maple, inlaid with many silver ornaments. Near the butt of the gun is a silver plate on which are inscribed the words, "My Country."

The price of the weapon was $75.00, but Enfield was never entirely satisfied with it, because one of the ornaments was a figure of a deer with its head pointed toward the muzzle of the gun, whereas Enfield always contended that it should have been made to point in the opposite direction. He therefore disposed of the gun to Mr. Davis, about 45 years ago, and after the trade, when Enfield realized that many persons would have given him a more valuable consideration for it than he received, he always declared that "the durned gun has of no account, as I was shootin' up hill with it and strained the durned thing."

But Elder Davis never found any defect in it, and he pronounced it one of the best rifles he ever saw. He killed much game with it in his time, and his son, the present owner, would not part with the handsome old relic at any price.
