Many a woman goes out shopping, dressed in silk and enveloped in perfume, whose hard-working husband hasn't had a new suit of clothes or a decent meal in five years. Yes, and many a loafer stands on the street with a stinking pipe in his face, his tank full of "booze" and his mouth full of profanity, whose hard-working wife hasn't had a new dress or a kind word since she was married, says an exchange.

The Standard Oil Company, where pipe lines pass through the State of Pennsylvania a few feet north of the Maryland line, has connected up its eight-inch pipes at the top of Savage Mountain, near Finzel, the work having been completed a few days ago. This makes the greatest trunk line of pipes in the world, carrying fifty thousand barrels of oil every day to eastern cities. These pipes carry oil from Kansas, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, amounting in the aggregate to over $18,000,000 worth annually. A new pumping station for this line is being built near Finzel, says the Oakland Republican.

All stomach troubles are quickly relieved by taking a little Kodol after each meal. The scarcity of horses and men in the West is one of the most noticeable features in the progress of industry, says a St. Paul dispatch to the Boston Transcript. Good draught horses, which eight years ago were worth only $40, are now selling at $200 to $300 each; a good team is worth $500. These horses are needed in the lumber woods and on railway construction, but not enough can be had. Men to work in the woods are being paid $70 a month and board. A man with a good team commands wages of $9 a day, hauling lumber and logs. Never have the wages been so high or the prices of horses so great as now.

A man who is in perfect health, so he can do an honest day's work when necessary, has much for which he should be thankful. Mr. L. C. Rodgers, of Branchton, Pa., writes that he was not only unable to work, but he couldn't stoop over to tie his own shoes. Six bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure made a new man of him. He says, "Success to Foley's Kidney Cure." Sold by all Druggists. 7-1

One evening last week a young son of John Tedrow's took a drink of what he supposed was whisky, which he found in a buggy at the Valley House stable. The stuff proved to be something else, however, and it came very near killing the young lad. Dr. P. L. Swank was summoned promptly, and in a short time he had the boy out of danger. Boys should beware of tampering with things that belong to others, and it is extremely dangerous to take chances on drinking stuff without knowing what it is. And even when people know what they are drinking it is often dangerous, especially if the drink is the kind of doctored whisky that is generally sold these days.

George Rees, who had enlisted in the United States Marine service for a period of four years, returned home last week, having served the full period of his enlistment and received an honorable discharge. George is looking first rate, although for a time he had been threatened with tuberculosis, and "Uncle Sam" sent him to New Mexico to recuperate. He seems to have fully recovered, and we never saw him looking better. He is a good conversationalist, and it is interesting to hear him tell of his travels. He has seen much of the world during the four years he served our "Uncle Samuel," and while he has no hankering to re-enlist, he says the experience he has had he considers worth a great deal to him.

There is no case of indigestion, no matter how irritable or how obstinate that will not be speedily relieved by the use of Kodol. The main factor in curing the stomach of any disorder is rest, and the only way to get rest is to actually digest the food for the stomach itself. Kodol will do it. It is a scientific preparation of vegetable acids containing the very same juices found in a healthy stomach. It conforms to the Pure Food and Drugs Law. Sold by E. H. Miller. 7-1 here at the time Mr. B. was superintendent of the Standard Extract Works, and all will wish a long and happy career to the couple. Miss Buchanan was one of the most accomplished and highly esteemed young ladies that ever resided in this town, and we truly wish her an enormous share of all the good things of life. And, of course, the same good wishes also include her husband, whom we have no doubt is in every way worthy of such an estimable wife as has been his good fortune to woo and win.

Mrs. Eliza Enos.

This estimable woman died at the old Enos homestead, in Black township, Tuesday last, aged about 80 years. She was the eldest daughter of Peter Lichty, who was the pioneer homesteader on the farm now occupied by John M. Wright. She was a sister of the editor's mother, and the wife of Simon Enos, who died some years ago. Aunt Eliza Enos was well known to many of THE STAR's readers, and was highly esteemed by all who knew her. She is survived by four sons and two daughters, also by one brother, M. P. Lichty, of North Dakota, and one sister, Mrs. Susan Neiman, of Illinois.

Funeral today, at the late residence of the deceased, at one o'clock p. m. Interment in the Rhoads cemetery. Deceased was a faithful and consistent member of the German Baptist Brethren church. During the past few years she was practically blind, and suffered much from various complications; but she bore her affliction bravely to the end.

It is an antiseptic liniment and prevents blood poisoning resulting from a cut, bruise or burn. It also causes the parts to heal without maturation and in much less time than when the usual treatment is employed. It allays the pain of a burn almost instantly. For sale at Miller's Drug Store. 7-1

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Cures Colds, Croup and Whooping Cough.

B. & O. Men Must Keep Sober.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company intends to get better service and prevent accidents seems to be determined upon, as 43 men have been discharged from the service on the Connellsville division of the road since last pay day. The company states that they will not tolerate having a man who uses intoxicants to run on the road, thus preventing the loss of life and property. The callers have been warned that they are not to ask a man to report for duty if he is found in a saloon, or if he is under the influence of liquor. The company is under the impression that many of the recent wrecks and disasters have been caused by the inebriety of the men while under the influence of drink, and that is about the size of it, too.

CURED HEMORRHAGES OF THE LUNGS.

"Several years since my lungs were so badly affected that I had many hemorrhages," writes A. M. Ake, of Wood, Ind. "I took treatment with several physicians without any benefit. I then started to take Foley's Honey and Tar, and my lungs are now as sound as a bullet. I recommend it in advanced stages of lung trouble." Foley's Honey and Tar stops the cough and heals the lungs, and prevents serious results from a cold. Refuse substitutes. Sold by all Druggists. 7-1

Building Large Dam.

Workmen have commenced the construction of the immense dam the Manufacturers' Water Company, of Johnstown, will construct at Stanton's Mill, and from which a supply of water is to be secured for the operation of the Cambria Steel Company. The site of this dam embraces the Ringer and Stanton tracts, for which such fabulous prices were paid some months ago. The dam will be constructed according to scientific principles, and the breast of it will reach a height of about seventy feet. The water will be backed up the Quemahoning Valley for miles, but experts say there will be no danger of the dam giving away, as did the South Fork dam, years ago.—Somerset Standard.

DO NOT NEGLECT THE CHILDREN.

At this season of the year the first unnatural looseness of a child's bowels should have immediate attention. The best thing that can be given is Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy followed by castor oil as directed with each bottle of the remedy. For sale at Miller's Drug Store. 7-1

President Roosevelt in Rockwood.

The Rockwood Leader gives the following interesting account of President Roosevelt's recent brief stop in Rockwood:

President Theodore Roosevelt passed through Rockwood, Saturday morning, on his return from his trip to Canton, O., where he attended the funeral of the widow of the late President McKinley.

Early Saturday morning a rumor spread over Rockwood that the Chief Magistrate would come East on fast train No. 6, but not many persons believed it to be true. But, notwithstanding, a large crowd of people gathered at the depot in spite of a driving rain that was falling almost throughout the forenoon.

Train No. 6 was on time promptly at 11:05 o'clock, but the extra coaches of the Presidential party elongated the train so as to make it reach almost to the bridge over Cox's creek. The train pulled in and, sure enough, the President was on it. There was a big rush for the rear car, and soon President Roosevelt came out upon the rear platform and commenced shaking hands, smiling, talking and shaking hands from the platform. It rained faster than ever, and the rain came down over the President's bare head—which isn't bald yet—only a few stray, gray hairs are visible in the President's topknot—but he didn't mind the rain any more than hundreds in the crowd outside who had no umbrellas. The President shook hands with every man, woman and child in the crowd. He was careful not to miss the children, and made the mothers and fathers lift up the youngsters to him. Rev. Landis proposed three cheers, and there was an awful noise, as the cheers were given. These were followed by cries: "You must run again; Rockwood is solid for you!" The President answered: "Oh! no; we must let some other man run next time." But the crowd answered: "No; you must run!" All the while the President was shaking hands and saying funny things about the "Teddy bears," etc. The train pulled out as the crowd was still growing larger, and, as the President waved his "good-byes," three more prolonged cheers rent the air.

The President seemed impressed by the great number of women in the crowd, because he said: "I know the average American is a good man; but his wife is generally better than he is." Most of the Rockwood ladies had their babies with them, and not a single kid missed getting a "shake" from the President.
