

Coffee— A Question of Taste

Don't let anyone tell you what coffee to buy. Connoisseurs and expert coffee judges differ in their tastes. The point is to get a coffee that suits your taste. GILLIES' COFFEES—"the finest obtainable," are blended to suit different tastes—all tastes. There are four distinct flavors, characteristic of coffees from different parts of the world, consequently four different prices. These different prices mean that some coffees cost more to import than others.

There's a blend for YOU

If your choice is the lowest or the highest priced—you may be sure that you have the very best of its kind.

GILLIES' 35 cent coffee is mellow, aromatic and very delicately flavored, while GILLIES' 30c coffee is rich, full-bodied and delicious—the 25c or 20c blend each has a distinctive flavor which may please you.

In Pennsylvania, last year, 2,484 people died of diphtheria, in spite of the state's free anti-toxin humbug, which, next to vaccination, is about the greatest superstition on earth. The local statistics of this vicinity show that about all the diphtheria patients that were not given anti-toxin, recovered, while about all the deaths that occurred were cases in which anti-toxin was used. It is therefore pretty certain that anti-toxin kills more people than diphtheria. Away with it!

We are still anxiously awaiting the trolley injunction decisions, but the wheels of justice move exceedingly slow in old Somerset county. In the meantime the P. & M. company is busy at work on its road, while the old M. & S. is having a hard time to keep a few men at work without money, and all for the sake of keeping up a bluff. When a few irresponsible schemers can go into a court and sprag the wheels of justice, common sense and the business interests of several communities, there is something radically wrong somewhere.

On June 25th two clergymen started on a five-day debate on baptism, in Confluence, and like all harrangues of that kind, no good will come out of it. All such debates are good for is to stir up strife and animosity among the various churches, and when the "pav-laver" is all over, people will hold the same opinions they held before. The right mode of baptism, or whether any mode of it is necessary or not, all depends on how people are raised, and how far they are capable of thinking for themselves, or how far they are willing to let the preachers do their thinking for them. The wrangles on baptism used to be very popular from 25 to 50 years ago, and the average man of mature years has heard enough of them to know that such debates are productive of no good whatever. A whole lot of people who delight to be continually disputing with each other on how much or in what manner water is to be used in baptism, will some day go to where they will never see a drop of it, and the sooner some of them go there the more peace and real religion there will be in this world.

Don't advertise, if you think you are wasting money. Let your competitor waste his money on advertising, and perhaps you can put him out of business. "Fix his clock" for him. Just stand back of him and laugh when you see him squandering his money for printer's ink. Once there was a boy named John Wanamaker, or maybe it was money-maker. Anyway, his name was John with some kind of a maker attached to his last name. He owned fifty yards of calico, three pairs of jean pants, and five pairs of boots. He called it a dry goods store through a Philadelphia newspaper, and offered to sell a pair of socks for 39 cents. The don't-believe-in-advertising merchants just laughed. Young John spent $35 in advertising through the Philadelphia Ledger, just once, and he had less than $100 worth of goods. He was cautioned by the merchants who "knew it didn't pay." It was through sympathy that they offered him advice. But John did not listen, and blew his money foolishly. Today poor John sees the result of his misdoing—he has so many dry goods stores he can hardly find time to study his Sunday school lesson.

MORE EVIDENCE OF UNEQUAL COAL LAND ASSESSMENT.

The indignation over the present unequal coal land assessment is beginning to spread, and since THE STAR fired the first gun, other county papers are beginning to ventilate and condemn the unfairness shown to the coal men. In speaking of the matter in its issue of this week, the Somerset Herald very truthfully says:

"There can be no good reason why the farmer who prefers to hold his minerals for a better market should not pay relatively the same rate of tax as the operator. The latter is satisfied with the profit he can make today, while the former is holding off for something better."

Right here THE STAR will cite its readers to another glaring case of unfairness in the present rascally assessment. Wm. Kinninger, father of the chief clerk to the County Commissioners, has 160 acres of coal land in Quemahoning township, with valuable buildings, two coal openings, also a valuable limestone plant, and the entire property is assessed at only $2700. The adjoining lands are assessed at $60 to $70 per acre. If such unfairness is permitted to stand, then indeed is justice not only sleeping, but dead in Somerset county.

INCREASED WAGES FOR TEACHERS.

New Law Fixes the Minimum Salary at Forty Dollars Per Month.

The Legislature has given school teachers another increase in wages by making the minimum salary forty dollars per month. The law went into effect the first day of this month. Following are the conditions of the act.

Section 1. That from and after the passage of this act, the salary of common school teachers, in districts of this Commonwealth receiving State appropriation, shall be no less than fifty dollars per month in all cases where the teacher holds a professional, permanent, or normal certificate, and has had two years practice, and presents a certificate of proficiency in said practice, for said time, from the superintendent in charge of said teacher.

Section 2. That the minimum salary shall be forty dollars for all teachers holding certificates of less grade than required under section one of this act. And that the State shall pay the amount of increase in all salaries that are provided for under this act, and over the amount of salary paid in each school district in this Commonwealth in one thousand nine hundred and six, and said increase shall be paid out of the increased appropriation for the common schools.

Section 3. The president and secretary of school districts, where the prescribed salary is greater than that paid for the school year beginning June, one thousand, nine hundred and six, shall certify under oath to the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, on blanks prepared by him, the number of teachers, with the salary paid to each, for the year for which the report is made; also the number of months in the school term for said year. In order that any district may participate in this additional appropriation its report must be filed in the Department of Public Instruction on or before the first Monday of October, one thousand nine hundred and seven, and at the same time annually thereafter. The total amount payable to all the school districts in the State, on account of the increase of teachers' salaries as provided for in this act, shall first be deducted from the total annual school appropriation, and the balance of said appropriation shall be apportioned and distributed among the several districts, as provided for under existing laws. The State Superintendent of Public Instruction shall, at the usual time of paying the regular appropriation, pay to those districts, from the annual school appropriation, an excess equal to the difference between the salaries of the teachers for the school year one thousand nine hundred and six and the minimum salaries prescribed by this act.

NEW PENNSYLVANIA PURE FOOD LAW.

The Tustin bill, approved June 1, 1907, and popularly known as "The New Pennsylvania Pure Food Law," makes some important changes. Its general provisions, as to adulteration of foods, are substantially the same as those contained in the former act of June 26, 1895. Its provisions are substantially in accordance with the Federal Pure Food Law, approved June 30, 1906. It gives relief to retail dealers when they protect themselves by a guarantee of the quality of goods purchased in writing, procured from the vendor, and provides that the manufacturer, wholesaler and jobber selling food products shall be responsible for violations of the law. The penalty for violations of the law has been changed from fifty to sixty dollars, and the procedure is by summary convictions, while under the old law the remedy was a prosecution for a misdemeanor. The new law is much less drastic than the old. It is intended primarily for the protection of the public, and its provisions shall be rigidly enforced. The Commissioner asks the cordial co-operation of manufacturers, wholesale dealers, jobbers and retail dealers in the enforcement of the law.

In order to give the retail dealer the protection intended to be furnished by the statute, it is important, as already stated, that he shall protect himself by the written and signed guarantee of the vendor. Rules and regulations have been formulated and will be printed at length in the Monthly Bulletin, and a copy can be had by addressing the Commissioner at Harrisburg. The importance of the guarantee to the retail dealer must not be overlooked. The rule relating to the guarantee is as follows, to wit:

GUARANTEE.

The guarantee referred to in the New Pennsylvania food law, approved June 1, 1907, should in all cases be a written or printed invoice guarantee upon each bill of goods purchased, signed by the vendor and substantially in the following language, to wit:

I, (or we) the vendor of the articles mentioned in the foregoing invoice, hereby guarantee and warrant the same to be in full conformity with the Federal Act of June 30, 1906, popularly known as "The Food and Drugs Act," and also further hereby guarantee the same to be in full conformity with the act of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, popularly known as "The New Pennsylvania Food Law," approved June 1, 1907, in that the said articles are not adulterated within the meaning of the aforesaid act of Congress, or the aforesaid act of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, and that the said articles are not misbranded within the meaning of either of the said acts.

With respect to goods now in the possession of retail dealers, they should immediately take the precaution to obtain a guarantee from the vendor in the form above designated upon the invoice now in their possession, or obtain from the vendor a duplicate invoice of the goods with the guarantee stamped, written or printed thereon, and signed by the vendor from whom the goods were purchased. If this is not attended to, the retail dealer will be held responsible for any adulterated goods sold by them.
