Catarrh of the Internal Organs. Theresa Bertles, White Church,

Miss Theresa Bertles, White Church, Mo., writes:
"I suffered with catarrh of the stomach, bowels and internal organs. Everything I ate seemed to hurt me. I never had a passage of the bowels without taking medicine. I was so tired mornings, and ached all over. I had a pain in my left side, and the least exertion or excitement made me short of breath.

"Now, after taking Peruna for six months, I am as well as I ever was. Peruna has worked wonders for me. I believe Peruna is the best medicine in the world, and I recommend it to my friends."

Parasite of the Flea

It was the famous Dutch philosopher Leeuwenhock, discoverer of bacteria, who first traced out the history of the flea, and found that it was subject to a parasite. This was a species of mite, which preyed on it in the chrysalis stage, and the discovery led to Swift's well-known lines.

lines:
Great fleas have lesser fleas upon their backs to bite 'em.'
In a recent number of the Journal of Hygiene Andrew Balfour gives an account of the various phases in the development of a protozoan parasite found by him in the guts of a species of flea. The parasites were found in fleas of both sexes, and in those which had not been fed with infected blood as well as in those that had.

DUN'S WEEKLY SUMMARY

No Complaints of Midsummer Dullness-Liberal Orders for Fall and Winter Goods

There is not the customary complaint of midsummer dullness in general trade channels. The demand for seasonable fabrics is rapidly depleting stocks that threatened to be carried over.

Brisk retail trade is accompanied Brisk retail trade is accompanied by more prompt collections. Many cities that were slow to respond to the better feeling now send satisfactory reports.

Jobbers and wholesalers are receiving liberal orders for fall and winter merchandise, and interior buyers are active in the primary markets. Manufacturing returns tell of large orders on hand, and heavy production during the first half of the year.

Lower prices for pig iron were due to the larger output and more prompt deliveries that reduced the premiums paid for early shipments.

WHY POTATOES RUN OUT.

It is comparatively only a few ears that potatoes have been largely grown for market. It is possible that under any conditions, the plants grown, as they are, from buds or eyes, would perpetuate the weak nesses of the parent stems, and thus tend to degeneration. But the evil has been greatly increased by the blight and rot diseases, and by the ravages of the potato bug. Whatever injures the leaves of a potato plant lessens it vitality and destroys its value for seed. It is hardly possible to entirely escape some injury to notato foliage. Every plant affected produces seed that is less vigorous, and as the beetle selects the less thrifty plants to deposit its eggs, the injury rapidly increases until a large part of the crop is made worthless for seed purposes. It is impossible to select the best seed potatoes from the bin. It can only be done by going through the field and marking the most productive plants as the crop

This is with the cow. She is hired to work for her owner and she should Veal calves 600 900 be expected to do a reasonable amount of work. It is not what she can perform in a week or a month that determines her value. It is what she is able to do in a year or lifetime. The cow has the advantage over the hired man on the average She can fail to do her for her owner and he is quite likely to know nothing about it. She may even give a very large mess of very poor milk for a short period and he will be convinced that she is one of the best cows on the farm. She will cut down the quantity and he forgets to keep account of that period when she gave the large amount. Keeping steadily at a thing usually produces the best results, and many of our best dairy cows are those which do not give the large amount for a brief period but give a fair quantity and keep it up for a long

A careful and prudent brother angler has devised a unique plan of winding his lines around a bicycle wheel, after the tire has been removed. Placing the bi-cycle upside down he works the pedals and winds it through an oiled rag. This softens the lines and keeps them moist and pliable, as well as prevents cracking. I refer to the oiled trout and salmon lines—plain silk or linen need only to be well dried before winding. Even the best and most expensive lines become weak and worthless through want of proper care and attention—it is impossible to prevent mildew or rot, unless a line is put away for the winter in ship-shape order. The sloven who throws his flies, leaders and lines all in a heap, with the idea of arranging them on arrival at the river, finds himself very miserable and ill-tempered—especially when in the company of friends who are kept waiting till his tackle is fit for work -From "On the Care of Tackle," by Louis Rhead, in The Outing Maga-
