THE SUNDAY CRANKS.

Mayor of Dubois Proposes to Give Them Enough Sabbath Observance to Make Them Sick.

For some time the Sabbath observance fanatics have been very active in Dubois, Pa., and now Mayor Louis Boyer proposes to give them all the Sabbath observance they are looking for. He recently issued an order to go into effect last Sunday to stop almost everything on Sunday.

Street cars must stop running, no wagons must appear on the streets. Sunday newspapers must cease publication, and everything else that bears the least semblance of work must stop.

But the Mayor goes further, and orders that paid church choirs must stop singing, organists stop playing, and that worshipers must not drive to church. He is opposed to the new Sunday observance law, and his order is aimed at its supporters.

He threatens to stop the taking up of collections in church, declaring this has the spirit of commercialism as well as being work for those who pass the plate.

Should he not also try to make paid ministers stop preaching on the Sabbath? One of the Ten Commandments tells us that on "that day thou shalt not do any work." What right has a preacher to work for wages on the Sabbath any more than any other man? We have known some of the clergy to get angry when told that preaching isn't work, yet they insist on working on the Sabbath, and for wages, of course. Why, it is even hard work to keep up one's patience to listen to some of the labored efforts at preaching some men have to make every time they want to talk, and many talk for an hour without saying much of anything.

What this state needs is less Phariseism, and more true religion. The man who is a Sabbath observance fanatic is usually a man who will bear watching on week days—a mere Sunday Christian wearing religion as a cloak, one who delights to preach his own virtues and piety from the housetop.

All the Sabbath observance we need is the kind that will keep us within the bounds of decency, and which will not interfere with the rights of others who may not wish to spend the day as their neighbors do. We do not believe in Puritanic Sunday observance, nor anything that in any way resembles it. The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath. People should enjoy themselves on that day, and thereby get recreation and rest in its true sense. Christ and his disciples were even accused of being Sabbath breakers, and their accusers were fanatics of the same order as those howling for more Sabbath observance now.

TEN YEARS IN BED.

Extracts from President Roosevelt's Speech at Provincetown, Mass.

What I have said about desirable and undesirable citizens remains true.

Ultimately the national government must pass laws which, while increasing the supervisory and regulatory power of the government, also permit such useful combinations as are made with absolute openness, and as the representatives of the government may previously approve.

Almost every big business concern is engaged in interstate commerce, and such a concern must not be allowed by dextrous shifting of position, as has been too often the case in the past, to escape thereby all responsibility either to state or nation.

We have found by actual experience, that a jury which will gladly punish a corporation by fine, for instance, will acquit the individual members of that corporation if we proceed against them criminally, because of those very things which the corporations which they direct and control has done.

During the last few years we have taken marked strides in advance along the road of proper regulation of railroad corporations, but we must not stop in the work. I believe in a national incorporation law for corporations engaged in interstate business.

There is, unfortunately, a certain number of our fellow countrymen who seem to accept the view that unless a man can be proved guilty of some particular crime he shall be counted a good citizen, no matter how infamous the life he has led, no matter how pernicious his doctrines or his practices. Such a view is wicked whether applied to capitalist or labor leader, to rich man or poor man.

MEN PAST SIXTY IN DANGER.

More than half of mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of prostate glands. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Rodney Burnett, Rockport, Mo., writes: "I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years, and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure I feel better than I have for twenty years. Although I am now 91 years old." Sold by all Druggists. 9-1

The Lash in Delaware.

The resignation of a prison warden in Delaware who gave up his position on account of his opposition to the whippingpost, will probably revive the agitation over that form of punishment in the state. The warden in question, who is a penologist as well as a state officer, frankly acknowledges that while he did his duty, that duty was most abhorrent to him personally, but that his opposition comes not so much on the personal unpleasantness of administering the lash as on a conviction, based upon observation and experience, that instead of producing any good results, the punishment aggravates matters by rousing all that is passionate and revengeful against the law in the prisoner, and acts as a deterrent rather than as an aid to reformation.

To a certain class of criminals, such as wife-beaters, abusers of children and wilful torturers, the lash seems the only appropriate form of punishment, as such criminals are too hardened to be affected morally by it, and the pain endured acts beneficially in making them wary of repeating their offenses, and so protects their victims. But when the lash is used for ordinary and petty offenses, as it is in Delaware, and on boys and men capable of suffering tortures from its degradation, and who might be easily reformed by other means, it is simply a relic of barbarism and unworthy our enlightened legislation. Delaware is only disgracing herself, as well as her prisoners, in keeping such a brutal form of punishment in her penal system. Only in the extreme cases cited, where brutality fears brute force only, can its use be justified.

PENNSYLVANIA GAME LAWS.

A Number of Important Changes Made by Last Legislature.

The last session of the Pennsylvania Assembly made a number of important changes in the game laws. Of great interest, says a Pittsburg exchange, is the Brann amendment to the general game law of 1905. Its principal provisions are as follows:

The open season for woodcock and ruffed grouse or pheasants is from October 1 to December 1; wild turkeys, prairie chickens, English, Mongolian or Chinese pheasants, October 15 to December 1.

The quail season is unchanged, November 1 to December 1, but additional provisions for the protection of birds are made. It is unlawful to shoot or injure quails when bunched upon the ground; or to kill any game birds at night; or kill any game at all by the use of any gun other than the kind usually raised at arm's length and fired from the shoulder.

By another act rabbits may be taken or killed from October 15 to December 1 in any manner except with the aid of a ferret.

The change in the deer law is important. The open season is from November 15 to December 1, but hereafter only male deer with horns may be killed. Does and fawns are absolutely protected. This became necessary by reason of the fact that the number of hunters is so great that deer in season are practically driven from cover to cover as if they were pursued by dogs. The penalty for violation of the law is $10 or a day in jail for each dollar. It will be safest to leave the head on the carcass to prove the deer killed had horns.

Besides the incidental tabooing of heavy duck guns and other weapons that cannot be fired from the shoulder, the Legislature, passed an act specifically prohibiting the use of automatic shotguns.

HAD AN AWFUL TIME.

REUT CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC, CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY CURED HIM.

"It is with pleasure that I give you this unsolicited testimonial. About a year ago when I had a severe case of measles I got caught out in a hard rain and the measles settled in my stomach and bowels. I had an awful time, and had it not been for the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy I could not have possibly lived but a few hours longer, but thanks to this remedy I am now strong and well. I have written the above through simple gratitude and I shall always speak a good word for this remedy.—SAM. H. GWIN, Concord, Ga. For sale at Miller's Drug Store. 9-1

Child Labor and Child Idleness.

Enthusiastic advocates of antichild labor legislation may find food for much thought in the published results of certain investigations made by Speed Mosby, pardon attorney of Missouri, as to the causes of crime among the youth of the land. In an article in the North American Review, Mr. Mosby contends that most criminals are such because they have never learned to earn a living, and he offers the suggestion that there is danger of carrying the prevention of child labor to a harmful extent. "Before making it impossible," says Mr. Mosby, "for the youth to acquire practical as well as theoretical knowledge of gainful pursuits, we should reckon the latent dangers that lurk within the possibilities of a generation brought up without effective knowledge of useful work."

Mr. Mosby's conclusions are based upon statistics secured from the penal and reformatory institutions of the country. He shows that of 52,894 convicts in the penitentiaries of the country in 1890, 31,426 were ignorant of any trade. In one institution, where 3,154 boys were confined, not one had any knowledge of any trade. In the largest penitentiary in the country, containing 2,000 convicts, more than 65 per cent. of the prisoners are without acquaintance with any means of living except crime. The general rule holds, says Mr. Mosby, that criminals are not made out of working boys and girls, but out of those who are idle and whose energy finds vent in mischief, which leads to crime.—Omaha Bee.
