Bucklen's Arnica Salve
The Best Salve In The World.

SAVE THIS.

Put it in Some Safe Place, for it May Come in Handy Some Day.

Here is a simple home-made mixture as given by an eminent authority on Kidney diseases, who makes the statement in a New York daily newspaper, that it will relieve almost any case of Kidney trouble if taken before the stage of Bright's disease. He states that such symptoms as lame back, pain in the side, frequent desire to urinate, especially at night; painful and discolored urination, are readily overcome. Here is the recipe; try it: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

A well-known druggist here in town is authority that these ingredients are all harmless and easily mixed at home by shaking well in a bottle. This mixture has a peculiar healing and soothing effect upon the entire Kidney and Urinary structure, and often overcomes the worst forms of Rheumatism in just a little while. This mixture is said to remove all blood disorders and cure the Rheumatism by forcing the Kidneys to filter and strain from the blood and system all uric acid and foul, decomposed waste matter, which cause these afflictions. Try it if you aren't well. Save the prescription.

WOULDN'T there be a howl if "Uncle Sam" should advance the price of postage stamps, on "account of the increased cost of living?" And yet it is hard to think of any one whose living expenses have increased more rapidly.

AN English novelist is in this country looking for an American who can be utilized as the hero in her next book. Some one ought to introduce her to that man in Denver, Colo., who married his mother-in-law, last week.

"The pure food law ought to make them state on the bottle how many headaches there are inside," says the Baltimore Sun. No use; very few people would believe the label spoke the truth—either before or after taking.

MISS GLADYS VANDERBILT is to marry Count Ladislaus Szechenyi, a dashing Hungarian. Owing to the fact that the lady has a fortune of $20,000,000, it is probable that the Count will be able to keep right on dashing after the wedding.

"When Gladys Vanderbilt wants to call Count Szechenyi to breakfast," says the Des Moines Capital, "it will only be necessary to go to the foot of the stairs and sneeze." During the day, we suppose, the Count will keep her busy "coughing up."

GETS SPANKED AT 35.

A Model Father and a Model Alderman—More Power to Them.

Pauline Law, aged 35, was spanked in the good old-fashioned way by her father, William, aged 61, at her home in Pittsburgh, when she came home after 1 o'clock, Thursday night. The old gentleman placed her across his knee, just as he did in bygone years, and administered a slipper.

This was the story told by Pauline before Alderman Kirby. She had brought suit against her father for assault, and the latter appeared to tell his side of the story, which was to the effect that he would not let any "gal" of his gallivant around the streets until after midnight, no matter how old she was.

Alderman Kirby administered a rebuke to the woman and made her pay the costs. He said: "Just as long as you remain under your father's roof he has the right to chastise you when you deserve it. Mr. Law, your father, is discharged from custody."

A CERTAIN CURE FOR CROUP—USED FOR TEN YEARS WITHOUT A FAILURE.

Mr. W. C. Bott, a Star City, Ind., hardware merchant, is enthusiastic in his praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. His children have all been subject to croup and he has used this remedy for the past ten years, and though they much feared the croup, his wife and he always felt safe upon retiring when a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy was in the house. His oldest child was subject to severe attacks of croup, but this remedy never failed to effect a speedy cure. He has recommended it to friends and neighbors and all who have used it say that it is unequalled for croup and whooping cough. For sale at Miller's Drug Store. 11-1

The Saurkraut Would Convince Some People.

Johns Purdy, the Somerset barber, is somewhat a gardener. Last week he took from his garden a head of cabbage that weighed eighteen pounds, but he can't exhibit the head as proof, for the reason that it has been converted into sauerkraut.—Somerset Standard.

Purdy should exhibit the sauerkraut, which would be all the proof needed to convince some people of the truth of his statement. And this reminds us of the kind of proof given in support of the story that the devil once appeared in person before Martin Luther, whereupon Luther hurled an inkstand at his satanic majesty. A writer in the Somerset Standard last week made the following allusion to the Martin Luther fairy tale.

SOMERSET, PA., Oct. 11, 1907.
EDITOR STANDARD:—In the exposition of the proofs of the existence of a devil, made by Rev. Mr. Patterson in your last week's issue, I feel that he has overlooked the proof which ought to be most convincing to all Lutherans, namely, the well-known incident of the hurling of an inkstand at the devil by Martin Luther himself. The splashes of the ink which the devil dodged still remaining on the wall of the Monastery at Erfurt for the inspection of both the devout and the scoffers. SEARCHER.

HOW TO CURE A COLD.

The question of how to cure a cold without unnecessary loss of time is one in which we are all more or less interested, for the quicker a cold is gotten rid of the less the danger of pneumonia and other serious diseases. Mr. B. W. L. Hall, of Waverly, Va., has used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for years and says: "I firmly believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be absolutely the best preparation on the market for colds. I have recommended it to my friends and they all agree with me." For sale at Miller's Drug Store. 11-1

Acheson Tells Where He Stands.

"Washington county will elect three members of the Legislature pledged to vote for local option. We will also send a delegation to the next State convention that will introduce a resolution calling for a local option plank in the Republican platform, and we will fight for its adoption."

This statement was made one day last week by Congressman E. F. Acheson, of Washington. He says he understands the Washington county liquor interests are planning for a fight, but is certain the sentiment of his county is for local option.

A Justly Indignant Woman's Grief Properly Commended by a Justice of the Peace.

Beaver Falls, Pa., Oct. 20.—Mrs. J. Endling received a hearing before Justice of the Peace Westner, of North Sewickley township, yesterday afternoon, on a charge of assault made by Mr. Burns, a grocer. According to the testimony, Mrs. Endling's little daughter went to Burn's store and got a pound of butter which was of such quality that the woman took it back and dashed it in the grocer's face, almost blinding him, ruining his clothes and lacerating his feelings. Mrs. Endling pleaded in justification that the butter smelled so strongly that it set her wild.

"Acting on impulse," she said, "I swiped him one with the axle grease." Part of the butter was in evidence, labeled "Exhibit A."

"Pass up Exhibit A," said the justice, who cautiously took one smell. "Phew!" he exclaimed, with a look of disgust. "Case dismissed and prosecution pay the costs." Then turning to the woman, he said:

"You can go home, Mrs. Endling, and the next time anyone tells you butter like that, don't hit him with the butter—hit him with a brick."

QUINSEY, SPRAINS AND SWELLINGS CURED.

"In November, 1901, I caught cold and had the quinsy. My throat was swollen so I could hardly breathe. I applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm and it gave me relief in a short time. In two days I was all right," says Mrs. L. Cousins, Otterburn, Mich. Chamberlain's Pain Balm is a liniment and is especially valuable for sprains and swellings. For sale at Miller's Drug Store. 11-1

And This Reminds Us.

Garrett County Teacher—Now, Jimmy, repeat a sentence embodying the word, seldom.

Jimmy—My father used ter have a couple of pigs, but he took 'em to Frostburg and sold 'em.—Frostburg Mining Journal.

And this reminds us of the Berke county Pennsylvania Dutchman who was being examined for a teacher's certificate, and was sent to the blackboard to write a sentence containing the word "delight." He wrote and erased parts of sentences for hours, being greatly puzzled, and he remained at the blackboard until the shades of night began to fall. He was about to give up in despair, when all of a sudden a brilliant idea flashed over his mind, and with a triumphant smile he wrote: "It is getting dark; bring in de light."

In the same neighborhood a school teacher requested a little Italian pupil to write a sentence containing the word "disarrange," and here is the sentence the little fellow wrote: "A new stove range my papa buya villa not draw, and my papa say damn disarrange."

NOTICE TO OUR CUSTOMERS.

We are pleased to announce that Foley's Honey and Tar for coughs, colds and lung troubles is not affected by the National Pure Food and Drug law, as it contains no opiates or other harmful drugs, and we recommend it as a safe remedy for children and adults. Sold by all Druggists. 11-1

A Strange Animal.

Daniel Sweitzer, of near Swanton, this county, killed a very odd looking animal at his place, one day last week. Its tail was about 12 inches long, and flat, and its hind feet resembled the feet of an opossum with very long claws and stiff bristles on the ankles. It had teeth like a groundhog, and a head very much like a groundhog, and its front feet were very small. Its color was like a rabbit, and its fur was very soft, pretty, but scattering bristles made it look like a porcupine, and it weighed fifteen pounds. Its existence is a mystery, and we would like for some one to enlighten us as to what kind of animal it is.—Oakland Journal.

A copy of the above, in the shape of a newspaper clipping credited to the Oakland Journal, was mailed to The Star several days ago, accompanied by the following information:

October the 19th, 1907.
Mr. Edytur of The Star Paper—
You kin tell that their edytur on the Oakland Jernel paper that he ort to hev sence enough fer to know that the critter described is the tariff with Democrat speakers has ben warnin' us ov fer years an' years. Eye-fer I am glad the durn thing is kilt at last fer now its dead be gosh.
