

CATARRH

To prove unquestionably, and beyond any doubt that Catarrh of the nose and throat can be cured, I am furnishing patients through druggists, small free Trial Boxes of Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure. Do this because I am so certain, that Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure will bring actual substantial help. Nothing certainly, is so convincing as a physical test of any article of real, genuine merit. But that article must possess true merit, else the test will condemn, rather than advance it. Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure is a snow white, healing antiseptic balm, put up in beautiful nickel capped glass jars at 5c. Such soothing agents as Oil Eucalyptus, Thymol, Menthol, etc., are incorporated into a velvety cream like Petrolatum, imported by Dr. Shoop from Europe. If Catarrh of the nose and throat has extended to the stomach, then by all means also use internally, Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Stomach distress, a lack of general strength, bloating, belching, biliousness, bad taste, etc. surely call for Dr. Shoop's Restorative. For uncomplicated Catarrh only of the nose and throat nothing else, however, need be used but

A PROMPT, EFFECTIVE REMEDY FOR ALL FORMS OF RHEUMATISM

Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Kidney Trouble and Kindred Diseases

GIVES QUICK RELIEF

Applied externally it affords almost instant relief from pain, while permanent results are being effected by taking it internally, purifying the blood, dissolving the poisonous substance and removing it from the system.

DR. S. D. BLAND

Of Brewton, Ga., writes: "I had been a sufferer for a number of years with Lumbago and rheumatism in my arms and legs, and tried all the remedies that I could gather from medical works, and also consulted with a number of the best physicians, but found nothing that gave me any relief. I then procured 'S-DROPS,' I shall prescribe it in my practice for rheumatism and kindred diseases."

DR. C. L. GATES

Hancock, Minn., writes: "A little girl here had such a weak back caused by Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble that she could not stand on her feet. The moment they put her down on the floor she would scream with pain. I treated her with 'S-DROPS' and today she runs around as well and happy as can be. I prescribe 'S-DROPS' for my patients and use it in my practice."

USE OF THE DIVINING ROD.

Numerous devices are used throughout this country for detecting the presence of underground water—devices ranging in complexity from the forked branch of witch-hazel, peach, or other wood, to more or less elaborate mechanical or electrical contrivances. Many of the operators of these devices, especially those that use the home cut forked branch, are perfectly honest in the belief that the working of the rod is influenced by agencies—usually regarded as electric currents following underground streams of water—that are entirely independent of their own bodies, and many uneducated people have implicit faith in their ability to locate underground water in this way.

In experiments with a rod of this type, one of the geologists of the United States Geological Survey found that at points it turned downward independently of his will, but more complete tests showed that the downturning resulted from slight and—until watched for—unconscious changes in the inclination of his body, the effects of which were communicated through the arms and wrists to the rod. No movement of the rod from causes outside the body could be detected, and it soon became obvious that the view held by other men of science is correct—that the operation of the "divining rod" is generally due to unconscious movements of the body or of the muscles of the hand. The experiments made show that these movements happen most frequently at places where the operator's experience has led him to believe that water may be found. The uselessness of the divining rod is indicated by the facts that the rod may be worked at will by the operator, that he fails to detect strong currents of water running in tunnels and other channels that afford no surface indications of water, and that his locations in limestone regions where water flows in well-defined channels are rarely more successful than those dependent on mere guesses. In fact its operators are successful only in regions in which ground water occurs in a definite sheet in porous material or in more or less clayey deposits, such as the pebbly clay or till in which, although a few failures occur, wells would get water anywhere.

Ground water occurs under certain definite conditions, and as in humid regions a stream may be predicted wherever a valley is known, so one familiar with rocks and ground-water conditions may predict places where ground water can be found. No appliance, either electrical or mechanical, has yet been successfully used for detecting water in places where plain common sense or mere guessing would not have shown its presence just as well. The only advantage of employing a "water-witch," as the operator of the divining rod is sometimes called, is that skilled services are obtained, most men so employed being keener and better observers of the occurrence and movements of ground water than the average person.

Power of The Press.

As a regulator of personal morals, the newspaper far exceeds the police force. Men fear public criticism and shrink from having their crimes emblazoned to the world. The thought of a loving mother or a kind father reading the name of their loved one in the list of criminals, a sweet, innocent sister heart-broken over the downfall of an idolized brother, has kept many a young man from treading crooked paths. Among others, the newspaper reaches a class that has little time for the reading of books; it should supply their place by wholesome, edifying thoughts to stimulate the ambition and industry of our youth. Its merits have been tested and proved, and it has become an integral part of an educational system; condemning that which is demoralizing; commending that which is worthy of praise. Its aim should be not to bring all men to a level, but to lift as many as possible to attainable heights, that the multitude may be drawn to follow them.—Ex.

Value of Walking.

There is hardly an instance of a long-lived man who has not been for the best part of his life a brisk walker, and for some reason or other has had to take exercise pretty well every day. Riding is all very well, and so are other exercises, but there is nothing like a good walk, because it stimulates the blood and the muscles and necessitates being in the open air. If those who complain of being stout would only think of this, and never omit a daily constitutional they would be amply rewarded. It will keep them young and their figures presentable. It is simply a remedy that no one needs to. Sitting about in the open air is all very well, and is far better than sitting in the house, but it does not keep you in good health. It is quite another thing to over-fatigue oneself. There is nothing better than to get into a healthy perspiration by walking. It is just like drinking a glass of cold water in the morning. It is so simple no one believes in it.

This may not suit everybody, but those it does suit, it will keep in health.—Pittsburg Press.

A RELIABLE REMEDY FOR COUGH.

With the dry, cold weather of the early winter months, parents of croupy children should be on the alert for ominous symptoms. There is no cause for anxiety, however, when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is kept in the home. If this medicine is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even after the croupy cough has appeared, the attack may be warded off. Mrs. S. Rosenthal, of Turner, Michigan, says: "We have used Chamberlain's Cough medicine for ourselves and children for several years and like it very much. I think it is the only remedy for croup and can highly recommend it." For sale at Miller's Drug Store. 12-1

Be Natural.

Heaven help the man who imagines he can dodge enemies by trying to please everybody! If such an individual ever succeeds, pass him over this way that we may have one look at his mortal remains ere he vanishes away, for surely this earth cannot be his abiding place. Now, we do not infer that one should be going through this world trying to find beams to knock and thump his head against, disputing every man's opinion, and elbowing and crowding all who differ from him.

That again, is another extreme. Other people have their opinions, so have you. Don't fall into the error of supposing they will respect you for turning your coat every day, to match the color of theirs. Wear your own clothes in spite of wind and weather storms and sunshine. It costs the ir- resolute ten times the trouble to wind, and shuffle, and twist that it does honest, manly independence to stand, says an exchange.

The Man (catching boy fishing on Sunday)—Don't you know what happens to people who go fishing on Sunday?
The Boy—No.
The Man—They go to a bad place.
The Boy—Guess you're right. I never struck such a bad place for fishin' as dis is in all my life.

Knew His Game.

Miss Kidder—Miss Milyuns pays several thousand dollars for a gown. You should try to land her.
Lord De Broak—I should rather land her dressmaker.
