COL. AL SWARTZWELDER, although not a graduate of more than three or four colleges, occasionally gets off some very wise sayings. The other day, while discussing the propriety of leaving the inscription "In God We Trust" off of the new coinage $10 gold pieces, Al stated that in his opinion the time-honored inscription should have been put on the new coins, with one word added, so as to read: "In This God We Trust." The inscription with the word "this" added, would, without doubt, express the true feelings of the average money shark and note shaver a good deal better than the original inscription ever did or ever will. It is principally the poor and needy who trust in the living God, while most of the rich put their trust in the God of Gold, who, like the God of the Universe, will eventually know them not.

DANCING PROVES FATAL.

Many men and women catch colds at dances which terminate in pneumonia and consumption. After exposure, if Foley's Honey and Tar is taken it will break up a cold and no serious results need be feared. Refuse any but the genuine in a yellow package. Sold by All Druggists. 12-1

Dr. Bruce Lichty Struck by Locomotive.

Dr. Bruce Lichty met with what might have been a fatal accident, yesterday morning, by being struck by a locomotive. His father returned from the doctor's bedside, yesterday afternoon, and he reports that the injuries are not considered of a very dangerous nature, although they are quite severe, and it may be a considerable time before the patient will have recovered. The Meyersdale Republican gives the following account of the accident: "A serious accident occurred at the 'Slabtown' crossing, near Sand Patch, this morning, in which Dr. Bruce Lichty and his driver, Hez. Cole, of this city, had a miraculous escape from death. While crossing this death trap their rig was struck by a light engine. The driver escaped unhurt, but Dr. Lichty received injuries the extent of which could not be obtained at the hour of going to press. Horses unhurt, but buggy reduced to kindling wood.

PNEUMONIA FOLLOWS A COLD, but never follows the use of Foley's Honey and Tar. It stops the cough, heals and strengthens the lungs and prevents pneumonia. 12-1

OUR CANDIDACY.

What Some People are Saying About It.

Since the editor of this paper announced, last week, that he intends to be a candidate for legislative nomination at the next county primary, he has been greatly encouraged, not only by prominent citizens in this town and vicinity, who promise their loyal and active support, but also by prominent people elsewhere.

Following we reproduce some of the written and printed comments, and for the complimentary things said, we return our grateful thanks:

AN EDITOR'S CANDIDACY.

The Courier has always encouraged newspaper men to enter politics, and especially to seek legislative office, because they are as a rule equally as well if not better equipped for this public duty than lawyers and doctors and other professional men who seem to think they have superior claims to this preferment; but, either through their natural modesty or because of the fact that they are so busy saving the nation through the columns of their newspapers, editors have been most reluctant to enter politics. We therefore, note with pride and pleasure that Peter L. Livengood, the picturesque editor of the SALISBURY STAR, will offer himself upon the altar of public duty as a candidate for the Assembly in Somerset county. His announcement speaks for itself. It says:

I hereby give notice that I have decided to enter the race for legislative honors at the next county primary, as a Republican candidate.

My platform will be announced later, and when the announcement is made, it will leave no doubt as to where I stand on the vital questions that the people will demand the next Legislature to deal with.

I will not be a dodger of the questions at issue, but some time between this date and the day of the primary, I will "talk right out in meeting" and let the people know just where I stand and what they may reasonably expect of me if I should be nominated and elected.

In the meantime, keep your eye on THE STAR, and anything honorable you may be able to do to aid me in my candidacy will be duly appreciated. It is a long time since this locality has had a candidate for legislative or county office, and it's our turn now.

Editor Livengood has a reputation of speaking and writing "the words with the bark on." What he may lack in mollycoddled elegance he makes up in strenuous strength. If Somerset county people want a representative who will be "unawed by power and unbrubed by gain" and who won't be afraid to swat the "snakes," they will by their suffrages send to Harrisburg the always honest and never afraid Elk Lick editor.—Connellsville Sunday Courier.

LETTER FROM SERGEANT MARK A. PRYNN, OF THE STATE POLICE.

READING, PA., Nov. 24, 1907.
MR. P. L. LIVENGOOD,
Editor Star.

DEAR SIR:—The item that was published by you in last Thursday's STAR, pertaining to your candidacy for nomination for Assembly at the next county primary, was read by me with a great deal of interest, because I know you are in favor of a law-abiding state, and I know you will stand up for the policing of this great state, to suppress the many crimes that are being committed daily.

At present the State Police are unable to cope with the work that is expected of them, owing to a deficiency of men, and I know all law-abiding citizens are looking forward in anticipation of seeing the State Police force increased at the next term of the Legislature, in 1909, to enable them to cover a larger territory than at present.

Papers in different parts of the state say that the State Police is the only efficient organization that can perform their duties without fear or reservation, owing to politics being kept out of same.

Wishing that I could assist you in every possible way, and hoping that you will succeed in being nominated, I remain yours most respectfully,

MARK A. PRYNN,
Sergt. Troop C, State Police.

The ominous dry, hacking cough quit before the first bottle was used, and two more bottles made a complete cure." Nothing has ever equaled New Discovery for coughs, colds and all throat and lung complaints. Guaranteed by E. H. Miller, druggist, 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free. 12-1
