LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

The Benefits of the Temperance Wave to the South.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., Feb. 24, 1908.
EDITOR STAR.—I have received your campaign calendar and read your political pronouncement in THE STAR. The calendar was so unique and interesting that some son of Belial swiped it off my desk, and I have not been able to locate it since.

Your statement of principles upon which you propose to wage your campaign for the Assembly certainly leaves no doubt as to where you stand on the Local Option question. I am very glad to note that you are so unalterably opposed to the liquor traffic. Most politicians are so afraid of offending the saloon interests that it is refreshing to see a candidate for office who is not allied with the Prohibition party, come out in the open and speak his sentiments as emphatically as you have done in regard to the damnable traffic.

I have never believed that national prohibition would be brought about by the Prohibition party. I have always believed that Local Option was the best solution for the liquor question. I believe that the people of a municipality, county or state should have the right to regulate or prohibit them manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors within their boundaries as they see fit. I am fully in accord with your views on the question, and hope to see you win a seat in the Legislature on that platform.

You and your readers are no doubt aware of the prohibition wave that has been sweeping over the South. Georgia, you know, has gone completely dry, and Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas and other states are rapidly falling into line to do away with the drink evil. In Alabama the saloons have been closed in every town and county in the state, excepting, I believe, the cities of Montgomery, Mobile, and Birmingham, and by legislative enactment prohibition is to go into effect throughout the entire state, Jan. 1, 1908. The few saloons left here now are under very strict police regulation. They are compelled to close their doors at 9 p. m., and stay closed until the following morning.

The principal cause for the South's conversion to Prohibition is to keep liquor away from the colored population. The saloons were rapidly making criminals of a large proportion of the blacks. Many of the negroes did not work so long as they had a little money to spend for booze. It was charged that intemperance among the blacks was largely responsible for the many crimes that were committed by the members of that race. Strong drink degraded them and brought out all their vicious tendencies, and made them a menace to the white population. Through enactment of Local Option laws the white families gradually drove the saloon out of the rural districts, and the sentiment in favor of doing away with the traffic entirely in the states where there is a large colored population grew until Prohibition is almost universal in the Cotton States at the present time. The traffic is confined almost entirely to the large cities.

There is no doubt that Local Option has greatly decreased the consumption of alcoholic beverages in this and other states where Prohibition laws have been enacted, and in the course of time I think the traffic will be almost entirely stamped out, and the moral tone of the population be greatly improved.

I sincerely hope that the next session of the Pennsylvania Legislature will grapple with the saloon question and do away with the many "doggeries" that are now debauching the youth of that state.

Wishing you success in your campaign, I am fraternally yours,
W. S. LIVENGOOD.

GIVEN UP TO DIE.

B. Spiegel, 1204 N. Virginia St., Evansville, Ind., writes: "For five years I was troubled with kidney and bladder affections which caused me much pain and worry. I lost flesh and was all run down, and a year ago had to abandon work entirely. I had three of the best physicians, who did me no good and I was practically given up to die. Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended, and the first bottle gave me great relief, and after taking the second bottle I was entirely cured." Why not let me help you? Sold by all druggists. 4-1

Most Logical Plea Against Licensed Saloon He Has Ever Read.

UNION BRIDGE, MD., Feb. 23, 1908.
Mr. P. L. Livengood, Elk Lick, Pa.

DEAR FRIEND:—Enclosed find a tangible expression of my appreciation of "The Great Luminary," in the form of a check for a year's subscription. I read your position on the Liquor question with much interest. I have read much in other papers in favor of prohibition, but regard your article the most logical and argumentative plea against the licensed saloon that I have read anywhere.

If the people of your district want this deadly foe driven out of existence, they will surely give you their hearty support at the coming primary. I regret that I cannot cast a vote for you, but here are best wishes for your success. Very sincerely,
E. J. EGAN.

The above letter is doubly appreciated because it was written by one of the grandest young men Elk Lick township has ever produced. Prof. E. J. Egan is both a scholar and a gentleman of the highest type. He was born in poverty and obscurity, and when a boy was what you might call a homeless waif. He grew up in the employ of the farmers of Elk Lick township, and all who ever employed him will tell you that he is a young man of the most honorable type. Through his own efforts, although being handicapped in many ways, he managed to secure a good education, and for the past few years has been one of the instructors in the Maryland Collegiate Institute. Had he been a "booze-hoister" or even a defender of the saloon business, he would not now be occupying so responsible and enviable a position.

THIS IS WORTH REMEMBERING. Whenever you have a cough or cold, just remember that Foley's Honey and Tar will cure it. Do not risk your health by taking any but the genuine. It is in a yellow package. Sold by all druggists.

Kind Words from Across the State Line.

GRANTSVILLE, MD., March 3, 1908.
Mr. P. L. Livengood, Elk Lick, Pa.

DEAR EDITOR:—Even at this late hour I must write to you and congratulate you on your very interesting letter of February 20th. It is the best of its kind I ever read, and truth from beginning to end. It cannot help but accomplish great good. We all wish you abundant success, and haven't the least doubt that you shall be sent to the Legislature. It is only such men as you who should get into office, and it's soon time the people are awakening to the facts. The paper was given me recently by a friend, and I have kept it going ever since. Nothing like keeping up the agitation.

All join in sending kindest regards and very best of wishes. Sincerely,
ELLA BEACHY.

Longs for a Thousand Votes to Cast for P. L. Livengood.

ROANOKE, VA., Feb. 25, 1908.
Mr. P. L. Livengood, Elk Lick, Pa.

DEAR FRIEND:—I was very much interested in your open letter published in THE STAR, regarding the Local Option question. It was the truth from start to finish. I thought of that old hymn, "Oh! for a thousand tongues to sing my great Redeemer's praise."

Oh! for a thousand votes to cast for P. L. Livengood, I'd vote every one of them, and I want to say to my friends in Elk Lick and vicinity, vote for and stand by a man (P. L. Livengood) who has backbone enough to step out and confront the biggest enemy this nation has today. Strong drink is an enemy that has killed more people in this nation during the last forty years than were killed in the War of the Rebellion, and there isn't a person who has been widowed or orphaned through the liquor traffic that has ever received a cent of pension therefrom.

We all want to remember that we are accountable to God, and not to man. When Pay day comes (and it is coming sure) we will be paid according to our works.

The man who will at this day and age, knowing the evils of the drink curse, vote for a man who will uphold, protect or license the saloon, will in due time find a place open for him, and I need not name the place. But it is not Heaven. Yours truly,
S. C. BROADWATER.

DO NOT CROWD THE SEASON.

The first warm days of spring bring with them a desire to get out and enjoy the exhilarating air and sunshine. Children that have been housed up all winter are brought out and you wonder where they all came from. The heavy winter clothing is thrown aside and many shed their flannels. Then a cold wave comes and people say that grip is epidemic. Colds at this season are even more dangerous than in mid-winter, as there is much danger of pneumonia. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, however, and you will have nothing to fear. It always cures, and we have never known a cold to result in pneumonia when it was used. It is pleasant and safe to take. Children like it. For sale at Miller's Drug Store. 4-1
