FINANCE AND TRADE REVIEW

WEEKLY BUSINESS REVIEW

ted-Purchasers of Steel Are Conservative Collections Irregular.

New York.—R. G. & Company's "Weekly Review of Trade" says: "Seasonable weather stimulated retail trade materially, and the better distribution to consumers brought a larger movement in wholesale and jobbing departments, but in most leading industries there is still hesitation. On the whole there is improvement in mercantile collections, yet in many lines, especially in the East, irregularity is noted.

"While new business comes most conservatively to the steel mills, orders on hand are sufficient to maintain the current rate of production during October. Railway buying continues limited. Recent car contracts and two new ore vessels call for a large tonings of plates and other steel shapes. Only a fair demand for pig fron is noted; with quotations barely maintained on forward business, but orders are chiefly for shipment before the end of the will be seen that the narrow-minded bigots and persecutors who cannot refrain from denouncing Wm. H. Taft on account of his religion, should have lived in the his religion, should have lived in the days of Cotton Mather and the other detestable religious fanatics who lived and flourished in that age. Nothing else in all New England was so utterly rotten and depraved during the days of the Salem witcheraft as Puritanism and the clergy thereof. United States history tells us that the Puritan elergy and the medical profession were more to blame for the Salem witcheraft deto blame for the Salem witchcraft deusion than any other agencies.

When the Phariseeical clergy wanted to get rid of people who did not hold to the narrow and hideous Puritan religion, all they had to do was to charge the property of the pro them with being witches, and then the Puritan officers would speedily declare the poor wretches guilty and execute them as speedily as possible. Not only did they forture and put to death the Quakers and other non-Puritan re-ligionists, but in time they began to visit their iniquities and murderous intolerance upon each other, as petty jealousies and dessentions arose, and in these things they were actively aided by the doctors of medicine.

When a doctor was not skillful enough to cure a patient of disease, and for some reason wanted to put an enemy out of the way, all he had to do was to charge the enemy with having bewitched his patient, and then the clergy and other men in high authority in the church would bring about a speedy trial, conviction and execution of the person accused. We should be devoutly thankful that religious bigotry, intolerance and per-secution have to a great extent died out, but there still exists a deprayed remnant of the human race that would imprison, burn, torture on the rack and hang others for honest differences in religious opinions, if the rest of hu-manity would permit it. And to that remnant belong at least some of those who are so narrow as to write letters to newspaper, and therein admonish people not to vote for Mr. Taft because he is a member of the Unitarian church, a denomination which has ever numbered among its membership some of the greatest and cleanest mer

Religious bigots who become so thusiastic in Christ's cause as to show an intolerant spirit towards others meek and lowly Nazarene in their make-up, and hence are followers of Jesus Christ in name only, while in reality they are directly the opposite o all that Christ tried to impart to men.
"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace and good will to men," has no part with those who are ready to cause he does not believe according to the teachings of my church."

The religious fanatics, bigots and persecutors are not all dead yet, but thank fortune they are no longer pow erful and numerous enough to burn, flay, torture, imprison and put men to death in other cruel ways for worshipping God according to individual con science; at least not here in free and enlightened America. However, we regret to note that there are still far found him wedged in the bucket, only his head and feet exposed. The child was grabbed from his terrible position and disrobed, the skin coming off with his clothing.—Somerset Herald.
