We are in receipt of a postal from E. Burt Trimpey, of Anderson, S. C. The postal presents an excellent portrait of "Big King," weight 425, the largest sheriff in the world. Mr. Trimpey conducted a photograph gallery in Rockwood a few years ago, during which time his health became impaired and he decided that the "Sunny South" would be more to his liking. He is now enjoying good health and is doing a prosperous business in the city in which he has permanently located.—Rockwood Leader.

Carpenters and painters are putting the finishing touches on Attorney J. C. Lowry's palatial country residence south of town. Palatial is the only word that fitly describes the Lowry place, since it is in a class of its own, nothing in the way of local architecture being comparable with it. About a year ago Mr. Lowry purchased the old Metzler mill property, and since then the big stone building has been remodeled under the supervision of E. W. Walker until it presents the appearance of a palatial colonial country home, resembling similar structures erected in Virginia and the other colonies before the revolution. The interior is being finished with almost perfect taste, and when all is complete, Mr. and Mrs. Lowry will have an ideal country place.—Somerset Herald.

It isn't much wonder that some of our public schools are on the bum order, and that pupils make little or no headway. There are some teachers who, if they devote any time to self improvement or preparation for their school room work from day to day, it is difficult to figure out when it is done, for they are on the gad from the time their schools close in the evening until a late hour at night. One township schoolma'am in particular is noted for this, and her school is said to be doing very poor work, the kind that causes a teacher to be rated as a failure. And there are other cases of the same kind. School directors everywhere should be on the alert and watch the actions and habits of teachers they employ. Teachers who gad about from early twilight until late at night, and those who put in all their spare time loafing, attending dances, etc., should be speedily discharged. School boards could employ "spotters" to good advantage.

Bursting of a Gun Seriously Injured Two.

The bursting of a gun, last Monday night, almost tore the hand off of one young man and drove a portion of the gun barrel several inches into the arm of his brother, besides inflicting other painful and serious wounds. Orin and Charles, sons of Theodore Rayman, of near Brotherton, started out to serenade Frank Musgrove and his bride, in the immediate neighborhood. They borrowed an old gun and proceeded to load it with powder and gravel, filling it nearly to the muzzle. When they reached the home of the bride couple, they found that the only cap they had brought with them failed to explode. They took the gun back home with them and secured another cap, which they placed on the nipple after priming the tube. The young men were a little afraid to fire the weapon, being loaded as heavily as they knew it was. But after a short consultation it was decided that the two Rayman boys hold the gun while young Welsh pulled the trigger. This was done, and the gun burst in the hands of the Raymans with serious results. Dr. W. P. Shaw was summoned, and upon examining the unfortunate young men, found that the index finger of Orin had been blown entirely off, and the palm of the hand torn completely away, while the ends of the remaining fingers that were held to the hand only by strips of flesh, had also been blown off. A gash some three inches long was also cut in his neck, part of his ear torn off and an incision of about four inches made in the scalp. Charles fared some better than his brother, but his injuries were serious enough. A piece of the gun barrel was driven several inches into the arm, while other bruises and lacerations were sustained. While the injury to Orin is considered most serious, yet he is doing as well as circumstances will permit, but he will never have the proper use of his hand again, even if it does not prove entirely worthless for manual labor.—Berlin Record.
