MRS. LENOR'A BODENHAMER

Mrs. Lenora Bodenhamer, R. F. D. 1, Box 99, Kernersville, N. C., writes: "I suffered with stomach trouble and indigestion for some time, and nothing that I ate agreed with me. I was very nervous and experienced a continual feeling of uneastness and fear. I took medicine from the doctor, but it did me no good.

feeling of uneastness and fear. I took medicine from the doctor, but it did men good.

If found in one of your Peruna books a description of my symptoms. I then wrote to Dr. Hartman for advice. He said had catarrh of the stomach. I took Peruna and Manalis and followen his directions are actions as a summary of the same symptoms will take Peruna, as it has certainly cured me."

The above is only one of hundreds who have written similar letters to Dr. Hartman. Just one such case as this entitles Peruna to the candid consideration of every one similarly afflicted. If this be true of the testimony of one person what ought to be the testimony of hundreds, yes thousands, of honest, sincere people? We have in our files a great many other testimonials.

If You Are Lost in the Woods.

If You Are Lost in the Woods.

Let the man who is lost in the woods be very careful not to overexerf himself. His chief dangers lie in panie and oxer-exertion, and, though he may be in a great hurry to find sheiter, I must warn him to go slowly. Two miles an hour, on an average, through the snow in the woods, is all that a man in his condition will be able to stand without overfatigue and its attendant dangers, overheating and perspiration. By exercising caution, a may may live through a week of what he is undergoing. To make this article brief, however, we shall suppose that he regains the road by the afternoon of the first day. He doesn't yet know, of course, just where he is. He should examine the tracks of the person who last passed that way. It being afternoon, he must follow in the direction taken by the last passing vehicle or team, as shelter will be nearest in that direction. Had it been morning he would have taken the opposite direction, as whoever made the tracks must have come from the place where he obtained shelter the previous night.—Outing Magazine.

On Being Mean.

On Being Mean.

The question arises, can one be economical without being mean? A man who is naturally mean will atways be economical. If a man who is not economical attempts to become so he will learn that the easiest way is first to learn to be mean. If he has a generous impulse ne must curb it, During the first part of our lives we should be as mean as we can. we should be as mean as we can.
When we have accumulated more tipn we need we should devote the last part to cultivating our generous impulses. No successful man is a philanthropist before he is 50.

EAGER TO WORK Health Regained by Right Food.

The average healthy man or woman is usually eager to be busy at some useful task or employment.
But let dyspepsia or indigestion get hold of one, and all endeavor becomes a burden.
"A year ago, after recovering from an operation," writes a Mich. lady "my stomach and nerves began to give me much trouble.

"At times my appetite was voraclous, but when indulged, indigestion followed. Other times I had no appetite whatever. The food I took did not nourish me and I grew weaker than access."

petite whatever. The food I took did not nourish me and I grew weaker than ever.

"I lost interest in everything and wanted to be alone. I had always had good nerves, but now the merest trifle would upset me and bring on a violent headache. Walking across the room was an effort and prescribed exorcise was out of the question.

"I had seen Grape-Nuts advertised, but did not believe what I read, at the time. At last when it seemed as if I were literally starving, I began to eat Grape-Nuts.

"I had not been able to work for a year, but now after two months on Grape-Nuts I am eager to be at work again. My stomach gives me no trouble now, my nerves are steady as eyer, and interest in life and ambition have come back with the return to health."

"Seasonable weather has stimulated retail trade, while manufacturing plants are more active and numerous new undertakings have been started. Sentiment is more hopeful regarding the commercial future, orders being placed for remote delivery. Preparations for holiday trade are un a liberal scale, and there is a feeling of confidence that renders holders reductant to do business when concessions are sought. All the leading industries have increased output, some having already received large contracts, while others operate more freely in anticipation of orders to come. Commercial credits are excended more freely, and there is some improvement in mercantile collections. "Expected contracts for steel products are coming forward freely, stimulating the demand for pig iron, and a substantial tonnage has been ordered, including deliveries during the first half of 1909.

"Bradsteet's" says:
"Many industrial concerns have announced an increase of capacity and of running time, and sales of pigiron, structural material, cotton goods for spring and re-orders for fall and spring wear woolens, shoes and other lines have been enlarged.
"Practically all pig iron markets were animated this week, and the volume of business placed was heavy. Most of the tonnage was booked prior to the election and some of it was probably brought out by concessions in prices.

"Copper is higher, partly because of speculation and partly owing to better domestic demand.
"Business failures in the United States for the week ending November 5 number 205, against 241 last week, 226 in the like week of 1907, 146 in 1906, 166 in 1905 and 184 in 1904."

Traveling along a country road a man was attracted by frightful screams coming from a house not far from the road. Tying his horse he ran to the house and found that a little boy had swallowed a quarter, and his mother, not knowing what to do, was frantic. The man caught the little fellow by the heels, and, holding him up, gave him a few shakes whereupon the coin dropped to the floor. "Well, mister," said the grateful mother, "you certainly know how to get it out. Are you a doctor?" "No, madam," replied the man, "I'm a collector of internal revenue." Right in His Line.

In Austria "Ice sticks" are manufactured at a profit. A series of poles is arranged so that the water will fall slowly over each one in the series. TURNED HER HAIR WHITE

Queer Effect of Accident Suffered by a Chicago Woman.

In one day after a broken trolley pole fell on the head of Mrs. Julia Konold, her hair, naturally a chestnut brown, was turned completely white, and the expression of her face changed from the bloom of middle age to that of a woman fifteen years her senior.

The accident occurred on December 21, 1994. In Judge Tuthill's court a verdict for $17,500 was rendered in her favor against the Union Traction Company, owners of the line on which she was injured.

Creek Indians a Vanishing Tribe.

Creek Indians a Vanishing Tribe.
Once members of the great Creek family, the Seminoles of Florida have lost their tribe, their traditions and their homes. Their own people have forgotten them. The United States has ignored them since the Seminole war, when their roster was lost.
Payment of the government debt to their tribe made plutocrats of their brothers in the west, but never a dime reached the members of the little band who refused to be driven from their ancestral home. But their Spartan courage has departed and in the cowed and cringing remnant there is no spark of the fire that flashed in "The Seminole's Reply."

The government has no agent among the Seminoles, and the last guess at their number, made by the United States seven years ago was 355. That fragment of the tribe has now shrunk to 275.—Collier's Magazine.

The Wagging Tongue.

A prating barber came to train Kring Achelaus, and said to him. "How will you please to have me cut your hair?" Said the king, "Sleptily." And certainly, though a man has nothing to do, but to hear and answer, yet a boundless tongue is a strange breast to be worried with. And the misery is, that those who speak much seldom speak well; it is, a sign of ignorance not to know that long speeches, though they may please the speaker, are the torture of the hearer.—Owen Felltham.

He reversed and used his full braite power and stopped just short of the postruction.
