Home Trade Versus Roam Trade.

Home trade! Home trade!
It's better far than roam trade.
So keep your dollars in the town.
Lend them, spend them,
But never, never send them
Around the world to wander up and down.

The celebrated American poet who penned those immortal lines might have added a prose footnote to the effect that roam trade will cease when home trade makes the same effort to get business as roam trade makes. In other words, when the home merchant advertises adequately in the home paper.

Did THAT ever occur to you?

SAID TO BE FINE.

This Simple Home-Made Treatment Will Overcome Rheumatism.

Few people here know that you can cure that dread American disease, Rheumatism, with just common, everyday drugs found in any drug store. The prescription is so simple that any one can prepare it at home at small cost. It is made up as follows: Get from any good prescription pharmacy Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime. These are all simple ingredients, making an absolutely harmless home remedy at little cost.

Rheumatism, as every one knows, is a symptom of deranged kidneys. It is a condition produced by the failure of the kidneys to properly filter or strain from the blood the uric acid and other matter, which, if not eradicated, either in the urine or through the skin pores, remains in the blood, decomposes and forms about the joints and muscles, causing the untold suffering and deformity of rheumatism.

This prescription is said to be a splendid healing, cleansing and invigorating tonic to the kidneys, and gives almost immediate relief in all forms of bladder and urinary troubles and back-ache.

Lookout for Foot and Mouth Disease Among Your Cattle.

HARRISBURG, November 20, 1908. Foot and mouth disease has appeared or has been reported among cattle in the counties of Montour, Northumberland, Union, Snyder, Juniata, Lehigh, Lancaster, Delaware and Montgomery. In each case the outbreak has been traced to cattle shipped from Buffalo, New York, during the last week of October or the first week of November. Since then the stockyards at Buffalo have been thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, and it is stated by the federal authorities that there is now no danger from that source. Many cattle came to Pennsylvania during the two weeks mentioned. All of these shipments are being looked up as far as possible, but some have been dispersed and are hard to trace. Hence there is the possibility that foot and mouth disease may occur anywhere in the state, even in a place least to be suspected.

It is of the greatest importance that outbreaks shall be promptly reported, so that all necessary precautions may be taken. Reports should be sent by telegraph—charges collect—to the State Veterinarian at Harrisburg. All citizens should consider it their duty to make such reports, in the interest of the public welfare. Just at this time any unusual disease affecting the mouths or feet of cattle should be regarded with suspicion. If such disease spreads from animal to animal, there can be little doubt as to its nature.

In repressing this disease, the United States Department of Agriculture is co-operating, and is assisting the State Livestock Sanitary Board. As a result of such co-operation it is possible to pay to owners full value for all cattle that may have to be destroyed, on account of this disease, provided the owners co-operate with the public authorities and do their part to prevent the further spread of infection.

Every veterinary practitioner and every cattle owner should be exceedingly alert to detect the first evidence of this disease and to report it. Where cattle are known to be affected, visitors should be kept away, for the disease is one that may easily be conveyed by persons who have been in contact with or near affected animals. Persons who are known to have been on infected premises should be debarred from places where cattle are kept, until after their clothing has been disinfected. The disease is one that causes enormous losses, and must be dealt with in a firm and effective way.

MILLIONS FOR BARRELS.

Washington, Nov. 30.—The farmer with his potatoes and his apples, the miller with his flour and meal, the hardware man with his nails, the cement manufacturer, and the many other users of the faithful slack barrel, that combination of staves, hoops and heading, which is not intended to hold water or something stronger in fluid form, used forest products last year having the enormous value of $15,800,253.

The average man would little suspect that the humble barrel plays so important a part in the expense accounts of the American farmer and manufacturer, yet figures compiled by the Census in co-operation with the United States Forest Service, develop this interesting truth. Moreover, statistics taken directly from reports from 850 cooperage mills in all parts of the United States show an increase of $1,669,588, or 11 per cent., in the value of last year's product over that of the previous year.

In distinct contrast to tight cooperage stock, which in the main requires oak timber for its raw material, slack cooperage stock, particularly staves and heading, utilized in greater or less degree, most of the commercially important trees in the country, and for this reason its manufacture was far more widely distributed than is the case with that of tight cooperage stock. Twenty-one species of wood contributed to the total slack stave production last year. Nearly two-thirds of the output, however, was manufactured from the four species, red gum, pine, elm and beech, in the order named.

The figures disclose an interesting movement in the industry in the substitution of less expensive woods for those which for many years were drawn upon most heavily for slack stave material, but which, owing to growing scarcity and advancing cost, are rapidly being displaced. In 1906, elm staves were manufactured in larger quantities than those from any other wood, and constituted nearly one-fourth of the total production for that year, with pine and red gum occupying second and third places, respectively. Last year gum jumped to first place, pine to second, while elm, with a falling off of 39 per cent. in production, dropped to third place. Beech, maple, spruce, chestnut and ash followed in the order named.

While slack stave and heading production was reported last year from practically all the states engaged in the manufacture of lumber, a considerable percentage of the stock, in fact, being turned out as a by-product of lumber, the industry was to an extent localized, the five states of Pennsylvania, Missouri, Michigan, Arkansas, and Virginia, in the order named, contributing 53.8 per cent. of the total production. The distribution of the industry of hoop manufacture is much more limited than that of staves and heading, and is due primarily to the fact that this commodity is made chiefly from elm timber. Ohio led in the quantity of hoops manufactured, closely followed by Indiana, the output of these two states forming 67.3 per cent. of the total production.

MEDICINE THAT IS MEDICINE.

"I have suffered a good deal with malaria and stomach complaints, but I have now found a remedy that keeps me well, and that remedy is Electric Bitters; a medicine that is medicine for stomach and liver troubles, and for run down conditions," says W. C. Kiestler, of Halliday, Ark. Electric Bitters purify and enrich the blood tone up the nerves, and impart vigor and energy to the weak.
