"Then perhaps often you have eaten one," she reassured him.

As he looked at the blackening meat and smelt the perfume of the horse, he shuddered.

"How?" he asked, quietly.

"There are many sausages," she responded. "But if you have been are fined six marks by the police.

G. K. Holmes, chief of the division of foreign markets of the Department of Agriculture, has found that the antomobile has replaced about 60,000 horses in this country up to the present time, and farm horses have never been in such great demand as at the present moment. In fact, the demand for horses for farm and other business uses has become stronger and stronger during the last two or three years, the farm horses alone in use on January 1, 1908, numbering no less than 19,992,000 in round numbers.

The Rabbit Was Stuffed.

The Rabbit Was Stuffed.

Paul Badorf of Littiz, is a practical joker as well as a hunter of local renown. He shot a rabbit last Saturday, and after carefully skinning the animal he set up the skin in a lifelike position in a field near the Warwick house. Several gunning enthusiasts were acquainted with the fact that a rabbit was there, and one of those so informed took gun and dog and went after it. The gunner watched and finally saw the pseudo animal. He blazed away and for awhile the air was filled with rabbit skin, cotton bothing and bad language.—Philadelphia Record.

Thoroughness in Education.
We ought to train our boys to be more methodical and more thoroughgoing in everything they have to do.
Constantly we hear complaint from business men that boys from the grammar schools, and even from the business men that boys from the grammar schools, and even from the higher schools, are very hazy about arithmetic. Now, if there is any subject requiring precision it is that which deals with figures. It boots litte that a boy has gone through a high school course if he cannot make out the extensions of an ordinary bill of lading. Yet the latter difficulty presents itself to business men continually.—Philadelphia Inquirer, . 40) @ 4 0) USES FOR BORAX.

No one should be without borax in the home. For the hands and face use one teaspoonful to a basin of water. It is fine for cleaning teeth, and false teeth should be kept sweet and healthy by standing over night in a glass of water to which has been added a little borax. For the head one cannot find a better scalp cleanser. Use half a cupful for the bath. A teaspoonful to a pint of boiling starch adds to the gloss and lessens the sticking. For moths—before laying carpets sprinkle borax around the edges and crevices. To drive away vermin, water bugs, etc.—Sprinkle borax in all corners, cracks, and infested places. To preserve fish, flesh or fowl—sprinkle dry borax or use a solution of it.—Boston Post.

Self-Examination.

It is my custom every night to run over all the words and notions of the past day; for why should I fear the sight of my errors when I can admonish and forgive myself? I was a little too hot in such a dispute, my opinion might have been as well spared, for it gave offense, and did no good at all. The thing was true; but all truths are not to be spoken at all times.—Seneca. Self-Examination.
