A Midnight Raid. *********************************

W. THOMSON.

While residing in the Canadian Village of Chippewa, I happened one day, and, was too near the rapids for any July, 1864, to be detained very late t my office, on the south side of Chiplage of Chippewa, I happened one day, in July, 1864, to be detained very late at my office, on the south side of Chip-jewa creek, which discharges into Niagara river about two miles above the falls. The creek has two mouths separated by Hog Island, which is some three hundred yards below the bridge by which I must cross to reach my

Thirty feet from the south end of this bridge stood a large storehouse for bonded whiskey. The building rested upon piles driven into the bed of the stream, and its plank floor was about four and one-half feet above the water. Walking quietly, I had barely come upon the bridge when I heard above the drowsy murmur of the Falls a pe-culiar grating sound, coming appar-ently from beneath the warehouse. What could it be? Leaning over the railing, I listened intently.

railing, I listened intently.

The grinding noise seemed like that produced by a hand-turned auger boring through soft wood.

I surmised at once that some one was about to tap the lower tier of whiskey consisting of the casks containing one hundred and twenty gallons each. Who could it be? Probably smugglers from the American side of the Niagara were at work, not buying the Niagara were at work, not buying their stuff, as usual, but stealing it, their stuff, as usual, but stealing it.

At this time the United States import duty on spirits was two dollars a gallon. Common whiskey could be bought at the Chippewa distillery for seventy cents per gallon in gold, and readily sold across the line for five dollars in greenbacks; so there was large wroth in the contrabend trade even in the contraband trade, even when the smugglers paid for the liquor.

Men engaged in this nefarious traffic used to row down from the distillery to the mouth of the creek at night; then tow their boat up the Canadian side of the Niagara to a point opposite the head of Navy Island, push across to Buckhorn Island, and thence drop down to some previously selected spot om the New York State shore anywhere between Schlosser and Port Day. The mugglers always knew, by a prearranged shore signal, that no officers were in the way, and that a cash customer was waiting for the cargo.

I had listened scarce a minute to the mysterious noise, when a chug was heard, then a renewed and sharper grating. So I know that the auger had gone through the three inch pine plank loaded revolver from my office, then hurried away to the shanty of the duck hunters, and soon woke both. They readily agreed to help me, and brought their guns.

"It's sure to be the Schram boys," sald Bullamore. "No one else around here has grit enough for such a job. Them fellers has got rich since the beginning of the war; but I'll be hanged if I thought they'd steal whiskey! if I thought they'd steal whiskey!
Square, honest smugglin' isn't no great sin, I s'pose; but out an' out robbin'
—I didn't b'lieve the boys would demean theirselves to that."
Ignoring Bullamore's fashionable distinction between which tinction between robbing a government and a private individual, I led to the cut, which was about one hundred yards long and fifty feet wide, separating Hog Island from the mainland. We ing Hog Island from the mainland. We sat down under the clay-bank midway of its length. The night was not so very dark, but at a distance of ten feet the sharpest eye could hardly have distinguished our gray-clad forms from the background against which they rested.

We knew what the thieves must intend to do. Their scow was so heavily laden that they would, of course, not attempt to row it out on the Niagara here. They would tow it up the Canadian shore a couple of miles, conceal part of their cargo and use their long sweeps to row the scow disconsily. sweeps to row the scow diagonally across to Navy Island, where they would probably send small boats for the hidden whiskey. So somewhere in the cut they must put a rope and two men ashore. The third would stay on the scow to steer it while the others towed.

We patiently waited for more than

We patiently waited for more than half an hour. Then we dimly saw a shadowy black object floating slowly toward us.

Presently, on striking the current of the cut, it began to move faster, and we then saw a single row of kegs ranged on its deck. Two men were sitting on kegs; the third, nearest the stern, noiselessly worked a steering oar.

In a minute or two as the craft was

In a minute or two as the craft was abreast of us and the steersman trying to put it in touch with our shore, we rose to our feet, and I sald, "Land right here with that whiskey, men! I'm an excise officer."

to thunder!" yelled one of the ws in reply. "Keep quiet, if you're 's the Schrams, sure enough! That e's voice," whispered Johnson. he called out, "The game's up,! Run right in, or we'll fire on ullo, Bullamore! That's nice work ou, isn't it?" retorted Ike. "Fire and be hanged!" antime the steersman threw the

's head toward Hog Island.

our design was to capture the men out bloodshed, I now fired a pistol-over their heads. uess both sides can play that '!" exclaimed one of the thieves, three revolvers cracked, while owner instantly crouched behind mere chance, I presume, one of blindly aimed bullets grazed one ullamore's ears, which so incensed that he threw up his huge smooth-and pulled the trigger. Most of shot rattled against the kegs, but nothered and somewhat forcible ulation showed that a stray pellet hit one of the thieves. aty Niagara. We became frighten-ou tend to your business and we'll lives!" l ours!" was the defiant answer. I ose they did not know they were ear the river. But in another mothe clumsy hulk had cleared the nd entered upon the current of Nia, which strikes against Hog Island takes a strong outward trend. ubtless they thought they could, ightening their boat, work their diagonally up and across the m to a safe position; for now, as island hid them from view, we hear them pitching the whiskey oard and shipping their sweeps

lly one way, however, could they hands, funnelshape, ot nouth, Van Wyck, hailedurn your bow down stream you and scoot ashore just below the channel! That's your last chance!" reply was made to this friendly e and we heard the men begin to desperately. But not for one min-ould they hold their own against tremendous rush of water. A light needs strong arms there. Every nt they were swept farther down out, while the sound of their rap-r-strokes grew fainter and faint-

They would be at the head of the cataracts before we could bring a boat from the village and start to rescue them, which at best would be a desperate venturing of our own lives. The plashventuring of our own lives. The plashing of their heavy sweeps was still audible—but not long. Suddenly a sharp snap was heard, and we knew that one of the overstrained sweeps had broken short off. At this, breaking their silence, they shouted again and again for help. Too late! No human power could save them. We could not even follow them along the shore, because the broad creek intervened. Shuddering, we listened to their ever receding shrieks.

tened to their ever receding shrieks. Presently these ceased, and all was still save for the steady roar of the Falls. "Poor critters! They're gone," said

Johnson, as we turned sadly away. "There was lots of good in them fellers, and two of them was married men. They must have swallowed too much of the whiskey, or they'd a' known bet the whiskey, or they a known bet-ter than to go out in that tub. Drat the whiskey trade, anyhow! I'm blamed if I'll ever touch another drop of the stuff; not duck huntin', nor fishin', nor no time."

"Bullamore, I'm there, too," exclaim ed Van Wyck, and they shook hands men came over from Grand Island, inquiring for the hapless smugglers.

On learning the melancholy facts, the men went at once to the Whirlpool below the Falls, whose circling eddies sometimes carry to shore the remains of objects that have taken the great plunge. Here they found part of the broken oar, a fragment of the scow, one keg of whiskey intact, but no trace of human bodies. Indeed, the fearful rock-strewn depths above the whirl-pool do not always give up their dead. Having their worst fears thus confirmed, the messengers returned home with the mournful tidings, leaving me to feel almost like a murderer, though I had acted from a strict sense of duty. For months I brooded over the events of that terrible night. Whether waking or sleeping, the dying shricks of the unfortunate men seemed ever ring-ing in my ears, and I now thought of a dozen different ways in which I might have averted their fate. Vain regrets! The mischief was already

Late in November of that year, I leard that the wives of Isaac and Moses Schram, whose mourning for their departed husbands had be informant said, extremely violent, but brief, had sold off their household effect's and mysteriously disappeared For unknown reasons the widows had so artfully covered their tracks that no one was able or cared to trace them beyond Buffalo. I could not have told why this news comforted me, but it did, and I gradually recovered from m

One October afternoon, six and quarter years afterword, I was sitting in the office of a Minneapolis hotel, when I noticed a respectably dressed farmer-like man glancing alternately at the register and at me.

After a few words with the clerk, he seated himself by my side, making some commonplace remark about the weather. He seemed a well-informed, agreeable fellow, and we were soon engaged in conversation By-and-by, apropos of field sports, he Stranger, the clerk tells me you're out on a shooting trip. Now, I live about twelve miles out of town, and we're just overrun with prairie-chick-ens. If you like to come out and put up with us, it won't cost you a cent and you'll have loads of fun."

"Thank you—glad of the chance," said I. "And what is your name, my friend!" for he had repeatedly used

"Well," he laughingly replied, "if you call me Peters you won't be far out of the way."

Soon I jumped into Mr. Peters' spring wagon and away we went, behind a pair of lively trotters. After an hour and a quarter's delightful spin my driver stopped beside a handsome farmhouse, and ushered me into the great, cheery kitchen, where a bright-faced woman was busied in preparing supper, while two sturdy-looking men each dandling a child on his knee, sat waiting.

"Do you know who this is, boys?" She was fast nearing the asked my conductor, as both rose The men had no more than glanced at me then they placed the babies on the floor, rushed across the room and plored, as we kept pace with the "Come in and surrender. If run into the river, nothing can you from going over the falls."

warmly grasped my hands, while one of them fairly shouted,— "Guess we do, Pete! It's the man that did us the best turn of our whole

Then the woman who had been cook ing, and another one, who had mean-time come in, heartily joined in the hospitable greeting.

"Friends," I said, "you must mistake me for some one else. I never before saw one of you. What good could I have ever done you?"

The women laughed merrily "Tell him, Pete," said one.
Then, Mr. Peters, straightening his face said,—

"We three men are Ike, Mose and Pete Schram!'

At this astounding announcement such a feeling of joy thrilled me that, for a time, I could not speak. At last I managed to exclaim .-

'Why, men, what miracle is this? It is more than six years since the Schram brothers went over Niagara Falls."
"No they didn't," said he. "Pete got a couple of duckshot in his shoulder from Bullamore's gun, that's ail. We managed more by good luck than any-thing to land on the middle edge of Street's Island, which is actually in the rapids! "Then," he went on, "we shoved the out, while the sound of their rap-in-strokes grew fainter and faint-on purpose to make you folks think was impossible for us to aid them.

able trade was knocked in the nead, as we could never go back to Chippe-wa to buy whiskey, after being such fools, as to steal a cargo. ""So" we made up our minds to clear out secretly to Minnesota. We wrote to our wives by a roundabout way and bought this six hundred and forty acre section of land, and finished paying for it as soon as the women came with the bulk of our money. But that time we had the house ready for them.

"The land was wild prairie when we bought it; but you see, we've made a splendid farm of it. We're well fixed for everything: we're leading straight honest lives and are as happy as any folks can be. All of this has come about because you scared us away that night."

"But, Mr. Schram,' I asked, "how did you know that 'twas I who tried to ar-rest you? You couldn't see me."

"Why, man alive, don't you remem-ber saying, 'I'm an excise officer? We'd seen you around the distillery scores of times, too. Do you live in the old vil-lage yet? "
"No, I removed to the country town some time ago. But Bullamore and Vert Van Wyck are there yet. I have Vert Van Wyck are there yet. I have not seen them for a couple of years, though. They're prospering since they turned tectotallers."

"Tectotallers! Well, that is news," exclaimed Ike. "We sent old Bullamore and Vert each a good breechloading duck-gun last year. More than that; we've paid the Chippewa distillers full price and the Canadian excise duty on all the whiskey we stole that duty on all the whiskey we stole that night."

"Good for you," said I.
"Better still; we're sending 'conscience money' to Uncle Sam's treasury every month now, and we'll keep it up iii all our smuggling's paid for. We know to a cent what the debt was to begin with. When we're square with all the world, then we'll come to life again. Now, mohter, let's have sur per."

Nowhere could be found a happier party than that now gathered about the table. The two handsome matrons sisters, it seemed—had consigned Ike and Mose junior to their respective cribs and did the honors with charming heartiness.

I stayed two weeks with my hospita ble friends, and had "a good time" in-deed, as well as the best of chicken-shooting. So the whiskey stealing midnight raid had not turned out very badly after all.

QUAINT AND CURIOUS.

As a rule, the modern battleship is out of date after fifteen years.

Growers of the cocoa bean in South and Central America are planning a trust to control the price of cocoa.

The following is the shortest sentence containing all the letters of the alphabet: Pack my box with five dozen liquor jugg.

Vladivostok, the principal Russian port in the Far East, possesses a well-protected, landlocked harbor, with from thirty to ninety feet of water over an immense area.

South Africans are distinctly an oatmeal-eating people, over $300,000 worth of this American breakfast food being imported annually into South Africa.

At the woman suffrage bazar, re-cently held at the Hotel Martha Washington, in New York city, the receipts for the two days and evenings were over $900.

The government of South Australia has recently purchased 1,600 acres of land for the purpose of encouraging and demonstrating the best modern methods in dairy farming.

Cuba imports annually about 150, 000,000 feet of yellow and white pine, 80 percent of which comes from the United States. No suitable building lumber grows on the island.

French walnut growers in the neighborhood of Grenoble have form-ed an association to maintain the reputation and guarantee the quality of the walnuts commonly known as "Grenobles."

In England, in 1907, there were enacted b; Parliament 256 laws contained in 700 pages of printed matter. In the same year in a single American state, New York, there were enacted 754 separate laws, occupying 2,500 pages.

Mexico has now in operation a metallic cartridge factory with a daily capacity of 50,000 cartridges. The factory, which was constructed on the historic plains of the Molina del Rey, contains machinery of the best model in the world..

It is difficult to estimate the total loss on the Scottish grain crop of this season, but if we put the deterioration at the quite moderate figure of £2 an acre for 90 percent of the lands undthe total is a sum considerably

Old-time barristers in England did not openly receive fees for their services. An early method of collecting fees was the pocket which in medicaval times a barrister used to have placed in the back of his gown into solicitor would surreptitiously slip the fee.

A Real Genius.

Knicker-So Outlate has a good

Bocker—Yes, he starts a phonograph striking ten when he gets home. -New York Sun.

PEARLS OF THOUGHT.

Take time by the forelock.—Swift, A light heart lives long.—Shakes-

Be wise today; 'tis madness to defer .- Young

Arms and laws do not flourish together.-Caesar. The cock often crows without a victory.-Danish.

Ambition, like a torrent, ne'er looks back.—Ben Jonson. How use doth breed a habit in a man.—Shakespeare.

He bears misery best who hides it nost.—Shakespeare. A patient mind is the best remedy for affliction.—Platus.

In the place where the tree falleth there shall it lie.—Bible.

Silver is of less value than gold gold, than virtue.-Horace.

Anger begins with folly and ends with repentance.—Pythagoras. Among the virtuous disgrace is considered before life.—Euripides. Press on! If fortune play thee false today, tomorrow she'll be true.—Park

First relieve the needy; then need be, question them.—Rule of the Benedictines.

The best way to get a girl to like you is to get her brothers not to.— New York Press.

Sometimes a widow's heart is tend-r when warmed by an old flame.— Milwaukee Journal.

Man, let the evolutionists remem ber, advances and rises. The beast does not .- Goldwin Smith.

Precepts often heard and little regarded lose by repetition the small influence they had.—Herbert Spencer. A girl wants to stay in bed when she has a cold so that men can't see she has a cold so that men can't see the red nose that goes with it.—New York Press.

The best way for a woman to find out how good a temper her husband hasn't is for her to let him hunt his own shirts in the morning.-New York

A PAIR OF MYSTERIES SOLVED.

Fate of Old Trunks and Suit

"I used to wonder," said Mr. Mac-Swilliger, "what become of all the old leather trunks and suit cases and handbags and that sort of thing. Of course they must wear out and be thrown away, but you never saw an course they must wear out and be thrown away, but you never saw an old leather trunk on the rubbish carts of the Street Cleaning Department, did you?

"I never did, never; and still they must go somewhere; and I wondered where. Now I know, or I think I know. They go into meat pies and the stews and things that you get in boarding houses. I used to wonder where they got the beef that they put into these pies, it was so tough; but now I know. They buy these old leather trunks and cut 'cm up into suitable sized chunks and make this leather beef up into meat pies.

"It is true that I never yet found in a boarding house meat pie or beef stew a trunk lock or a piece of stew at trun leather beef up into meat pies.

"It is true that I never yet found in a boarding house meat pie or beef stew a trunk lock or a piece of a hinge or any rivets or corner clamps or other trunk hardware, but it isn't necessary for me to find these things in the pie to know; there's a whole lot of things that we may not be able to get any actual proof of that we know just the same are true, and this is one of them.

"I may not find any buckles or keys or casters in my meat pie, but I don't have to; I know what the meat in the pie is made of well enough to satisfy me, and this is to me a great, in fact a double satisfaction. I know now where the boarding house keepers get the meat for these pies, and I know also what becomes of the old handbags, suit cases and leather trunks. New York Sun.

The Halcyon.

The kingfisher is the halcyon of the ancients, who attributed to its spirit after death the power of directing the course of the winds. The week presolstice comprise the fourteen days that were known as the haloyon days, and it was during this time that the sea always remained extraordinarily calm in order that the king-fishers might more easily build their strange nests.

To their dead bodies was attributed the power of giving peace and plenty as well as strength and beauty and all the necessaries of a happy existence They were also supposed to be able to turn aside the thunderbolts and therefore any house in which one was kept was perfectly safe from lightning. In some parts of France even to this day they are often called "moth birds," on account of the supposed power which their dead bodies have to drive away and keep away moths from woollen cloths .- Suburban Life.

Nearly a Hero,

"Hands up!" The passengers on the Pullman car took in the situation at a glance, and did exactly what the train robber told them to.

At the point of his gun, he relieved them of their valuables. But at the sight of one woman, he paused with

Who are you, woman?" he demanded. "I," she quavered, "am Miss Fay de Fluffle, the well-known actress. Here are my jewels—take them all!"

"No," he replied, "I may be a robber, but I am no press agent. Keep

LUNG HEMORRHAGES

I TOOK PE-RU-NAJ

MISS NINETTE PORTER.

Ninette Porter, Braintree, Verwrites: "I have been cured by, mont, writes: "I have been cured by Peruna.

"I had several hemorrhages of the lunga. The doctors did not help me much and would never have cured me.
"I saw a testimonial in a Peruna almanae of a case similar to mine, and I commenced using it. I wrote to Dr. Hartman for advice. He kindly gave me free advice.
"I was not able to wait on myself when I began using it. I gained very slowly at first, but I could see that it was helping me.

ng me.

"After I had taken it a while I comnenced to raise up a stringy, sticky, substance from my lungs. This grew less and ess in quantity as I continued the treat-"I grew more fleshy than I had been for a long time, and now I call myself well."

for a long time, and now I call myself well."

A Bad Cough.

Mrs. Emma Martin, Odessa, Mo., writes:
"I cannot thank you enough for curing me.
"For two year I declored my cough, which cost me many dode-orded my cough was been to get worse. May cough was so had I could not sleep.
"Finally I purchased a bottle of Peruna. After the use of six bottles I feel that I am cured."

People who object to liquid medicines can now secure Peruna tablets.

For a free illustrated booklet entitled "The Truth About Peruna," address The Peruna Co., Columbus, Ohio. Mailed post-paid.

Sermon Factory Proves Failure. PAIR OF MYSTERIES SOLVED.

MacSwilliger Now Knows the Fate of Old Trunks and Suit Cases.

used to wonder," said Mr. Maclinger, "what become of all the old ther trunks and suit cases and defer the said of the latter were somewhat more expensive.

pensive

Always Keeps a Bottle in the House.

several applications of Stoan's Liniment and it cured me all right. I will always keep a bottle of Stoan's Liniment in my house."

Mr. J. P. Evans of Mt. Airy, Ga., says—"After being afflicted for three years with rheumatism, I used Stoan's Liniment, and was cured sound and well, and am glad to say I haven't been troubled with rheumatism since. My leg was badly swollen from my hip to my knee. One-half a bottle took the pain and swelling out."

Turkish Mines. The mineral wealth of Asia Minor is proverbial. In the Vilayet of Symrna there are about 60 mines being worked under firmans and 75 under licenses. On the shores of the Black Sea the coal fields of Heraclea form an actual source of vast potential wealth to the Tuylish ometics. an actual source of vast powealth to the Turkish empire $100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. Chenkry & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by all Druggists, 76c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Giant Cranes.

Giant Cranes.

Australia has few more curious creatures than the giant cranes—often five and six feet in height, with beautiful blue-gray plumage. These huge birds mate for life, and as mates are singularly and touchingly devoted to each other. Among their practices that of dancing together is the most remarkable.

Brown's Bronchial Troches are a simple and convenient remedy for Bronchial Affections and Coughs. In boxes 25 cents. Samples mailed free. John I. Brown & Son, Boston, Mass.

The city of Sheffield, England, famous for its cutlery, is the first municipal body in Great Britain to decide to provide a rifle range at public cost for the use of the community.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the guns, reduces inflamma-tion, allays pain, cures wind colic, 25c a bottle.

One of the fastest growing cities in the world is Kobe, Japan. Its popu-lation increased from 190,000 to 360,-000 in 10 years.

christre arm subj day phai man of the pear tain rose of the nose of

B R Ade Sun dle 1:41 broth We Rocc H is a pict stan ure warness right all i of a can man And a gr Chridarl trin the me, in the me, in the Solve the Solve the Solve to the Solve to the Solve to the Solve to the Solve the Sol abre ravi purit wall ness new new ever bilit that It g

tion indithis Chr B is h not dar is a gest mea