LINCOLN EXERCISES.

The Lincoln exercises given by the Salisbury schools, last Friday, were attended by a great many of the patrons of the schools, and the universal verdict is that the program was a rare treat, reflecting great credit on pupils and teachers alike. The exercises were to take place a week earlier, but were deferred on account of the funeral of Sergeant Mark A. Prynne, of the State Police.

It is indeed appropriate to fittingly celebrate the birth of Abraham Lincoln, one of the greatest and grandest men that the world has ever known. His greatness and goodness are more and more appreciated as the years roll by, and even the people who fought for the Southern Confederacy and taught their posterity that the cause of Secession was right, are at last beginning to realize that Lincoln was their best friend, and that it was well to abolish slavery. Therefore, it is not strange that the Lincoln birthday anniversaries are beginning to be appropriately observed in many places in the South.

Following we reproduce Lincoln's favorite poem, by William Knox, which is one of the most beautiful literary gems that ever was penned, a poem in every way expressive and indicative of the mind and heart of the great, gentleman who so much admired it, the immortal Lincoln. Read it, fathers, mothers, sons and daughters, yea, read and memorize it. Here it is:

WHY SHOULD THE SPIRIT OF MORTAL BE PROUD?

Oh! why should the spirit of mortal be proud?
Like a swift, fleeting meteor, a fast-flying cloud,
A flash of the lightning, a break of the wave,
He passeth from life to his rest in the grave.
The leaves of the oak and the willow shall fade,
Be scattered around and together be laid;
And the young and the old, and the low and the high,
Shall moulder to dust and together shall lie.

The infant and mother attended and loved;
The mother that infant's affection who proved;
The husband that mother and infant who blessed—
Each, all, are away to their dwellings of rest.

The maid on whose cheek, on whose brow,
In whose eye,
Shone beauty and pleasure—her triumphs are by;
And the memory of those that beloved her and praised,
Are alike from the minds of the living erased.

The hand of the king that the scepter hath borne;
The brow of the priest that the miter hath worn;
The eye of the sage and the heart of the brave,
Are hidden and lost in the depths of the grave.

The peasant, whose lot was to sow and to reap;
The herdsman, who climbed with his goats up the steep,
The beggar, who wandered in search of his bread,
Have faded away like the grass that we tread.

The saint that enjoyed the communion of heaven;
The sinner that dared to remain unforgiven;
The wise and the foolish, the guilty and just,
Have quietly mingled their bones in the dust.

So the multitude goes, like the flower or the weed,
That withers away to let others succeed;
So the multitude comes, even those we behold,
To repeat every tale that has often been told.

For we are the same as our fathers have been;
We see the same sights that our fathers have seen;
We drink the same stream and view the same sun,
And run the same course our fathers have run.

The thoughts we are thinking our fathers would think;
From the death we are shrinking our fathers would shrink;
To the life we are clinging they also would cling;
But it speeds for us all, like a bird on the wing.

They loved, but the story we cannot unfold;
They scorned, but the heart of the haughty will come;
They grieved, but no wail from the slumber will come;
They joyed, but the tongue of their gladness is dumb.

They died—ay! they died. We things that are now,
That walk on the turf that lies over their brow,
And make in their dwellings a transient abode,
Meet the things that they met on their pilgrimage road.

Yea! hope and despondency, pleasure and pain,
We mingle together in sunshine and rain;
And the smile and the tear, the song and the dirge,
Still follow each other, like surge upon surge.

'Tis the wink of an eye, 'tis the draught of a breath,
From the blossom of health to the paleness of death,
From the gilded saloon to the bier and the shroud,
Oh! why should the spirit of mortal be proud?

CURES INDIGESTION.

All Distress from Stomach and Indigestion Vanishes in Five Minutes.

Take your sour stomach—or may be you call it Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gas-tritis or Catarrh of Stomach; it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 22-grain Triangles and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your stomach misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the Digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowel, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, biliousness, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness and many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is fickle, and nothing tempts you, or you belch gas, or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself, after your next meal, that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop that fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take a little Diapepsin.

Meyersdale Business Men to Banquet in Salisbury.

The business men of Meyersdale have arranged for a swell banquet to be held in this city, tonight. It will take place at both hotels, and the indications are that it will be the swellest event pulled off in Salisbury in a long while. The menu will be the best that the markets afford, and that the banquet will be greatly enjoyed by all the participants, is a forgone conclusion.

The STAR was called by telephone, yesterday, for the purpose of informing the editor that the Meyersdale business men extend him a cordial invitation to be their guest at the banquet, and, furthermore, expected to eat at both hotels.

Thank you, gentlemen, we'll try to be on hand; but if we're to eat at both hotels, who will edit our paper next week? Our associate editor is sick abed now, and considering our great take-in for good estates, there's danger of the editor in chief being laid up, too, for a week or more.

HEXAMETHYLENETRAMINE.

The above is the name of a German chemical, which is one of the many valuable ingredients of Foley's Kidney Remedy. Hexamethylenetetramine is recognized by medical text books and authorities as a radical solvent and antiseptic for the urine. Take Foley's Kidney Remedy as soon as you notice any irregularities, and avoid a serious malady. Elk Lick Pharmacy E. H. Miller, Proprietor. 3-1

Policeman Walker Found Guilty of Assault and Battery.

Geo. B. Walker, Salisbury's policeman, was arraigned before Judge Kooser, this week, on a charge of assault and battery, and was found guilty in manner and form as indicted. The prosecutor was Fred Wahl, a minor son of Perry M. Wahl. At the time of writing this item, sentence had not been pronounced, but it will likely be the payment of a small fine and the costs of prosecution, which will foot up to a snug sum.

Walker has often been accused of going beyond his authority in trivial matters with boys, and of being lax with men able and willing to do battle with him, and those constantly seeking trouble. The outcome of his trial with young Wahl would seem to indicate that the assertions so freely made as to his utter unfitness to police this town are all too true. We magnify full particulars of the Walker-Wahl case in our next issue.

PNEUMONIA FOLLOWS LA GRIPE.

Pneumonia often follows la grippe but never follows the use of Foley's Honey and Tar, for la grippe cough and deep-seated colds. Refuse any but the genuine in the yellow package. Elk Lick Pharmacy, E. H. Miller, Proprietor. 3-1
