Found a Spider In His Copy of the Paper.

When Mark Twain was editing the Virginia City Enterprise he received from a superstitious subscriber a letter stating that the writer had found a spider in his copy of the paper and wanted to know whether that was good or bad luck. Mark replied in his "Answers to Correspondents" column:

"Old Subscriber—The finding of a spider in your copy of the Enterprise was neither good luck nor bad. The spider was merely looking over our pages to find out what merchant was not advertising, so that it could spin its web across his door and lead a free and undisturbed existence forever and ever."

And Mark hit the mark. Does it hit you?

AMONG THE OLD-TIMERS.

The Henry Clay Club of Salisbury, in 1844.

It evidently required about the same kind of persuasion to influence some men's votes in 1844 as is made use of all too freely in this supposedly more enlightened era. In paging through one of the old store books of the late Christian C. Livengood, which book we have in our possession, we find the following charges:

"Henry Clay Club of Salisbury, Dr. to Jeremiah Miller, for gin, 1 gallon and 3 pints.

"Dr. to Jacob Wagner for one-half gallon."

"Dr. to C. C. Livengood for 3 quarts."

The price is omitted, but we suppose gin sold at about the same price in those days as the best rye whisky could be bought for, which was 50 cents per gallon. But it's no wonder that the great Henry Clay was defeated by James K. Polk, a man far Clay's inferior, if the great Kentucky statesman's campaign was conducted throughout the country in general on gin, the popular negro tippie, and easily the most abominable drinking stuff mortal man was ever cursed with. Now, if the "cullid gemmen" had been voters in those days, and the Clay campaign waged on gin, Polk would have been poking along so far behind in the race that he never would have gotten a glimpse of the great Kentucky's coat-tails. But gin isn't the stuff on election days for white men, as it keeps their kidneys too active to give them much time for voting and electioneering.

Following is a list of some of Mr. Livengood's store customers in 1844, as gleaned from his books, and while many of them are yet remembered by our older readers, the chances are that nearly all of the following named persons are dead, some of them for many years:

John C. Livengood, Wm. Glotfelty, John Arnold, Peter Gundle, John Newman, Israel Welfey, Polly Ringler, Philip Baits, Jacob Yoder, Jacob Summy, Jacob Christner, David Livengood, Joseph Vought, Jeremiah Hershberger, John L. GOOD HOME RECIPE.

Mix This Simple, Helpful Recipe at Home and Try it, Anyway.

Get from any prescription pharmacist the following:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Shake well in a bottle and take a teaspoonful dose after each meal and at bedtime.

The above is considered as the most certain prescription ever written to relieve Backache, Kidney Trouble, Weak Bladder and all forms of Urinary difficulties. This mixture acts promptly on the eliminative tissues of the kidneys, enabling them to filter and strain the uric acid and other waste matter from the blood which causes Rheumatism.

Some persons who suffer with the afflictions may not feel inclined to place much confidence in this simple mixture, yet those who have tried it say the results are simply surprising, the relief being effected without the slightest injury to the stomach or other organs.

Mix some and give it a trial. It certainly comes highly recommended. It is the prescription of an eminent authority, whose entire reputation, it is said, was established by it.

A druggist here at home, when asked, stated that he could either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription for our readers, also recommends it as harmless.

County Commissioner Specht to Retire from Business.

The old firm of Josiah Specht & Sons, which has done one of the most extensive lines of business conducted by any country store in the state, is about to be dissolved, according to report.

It is said the store will be taken over by a firm composed of D. B. Specht, and perhaps two others of the Specht brothers.

The Specht store is located at Kantner. It is conducted of the department plan, and has done a business of more than $100,000 per year for the past several years.

Josiah Specht, the retiring member, is a County Commissioner.—Rockwood Leader.

Meyersdale Man Accused of Improbable Crime.

Meyersdale, Mar. 1.—A sensation was created here today when it became known that Pittsburgh detectives had arrested M. W. Weimer, head of the Meyersdale Electric Manufacturing Company, and a well known citizen, on a charge of arson.

The allegation of the detectives is that they have evidence that Weimer hired a man named Peters, for $500, to burn down the plant of the T. W. Gurley Company, Weimer's rival in business.

This plant was destroyed by fire some months ago, and the loss reached about $10,000. T. W. Gurley decided that the fire was of incendiary origin, and employed detectives to investigate the matter. The result came with the arrest of Weimer, who was taken to jail at Somerset, this morning.

The detectives allege that they have secured a confession, while some of the prominent people of Meyersdale hoot at the idea of such a thing. Weimer has lived in Meyersdale more than 20 years, and it is said that his character is above reproach, which is more than can be said of some people who would like to see him ruined.

The institute will convene at 1 o'clock p. m. Come early to avoid the rush. A very interesting rally is anticipated. COMMITTEE.

Why March 4th is Inauguration Day.

There have been many objections raised to the date upon which the Presidents of the United States are inaugurated, chief among them being the usually inclement weather which prevails so early in the spring.

The first President Harrison contracted the cold which caused his death, soon after he assumed office, at the ceremonies attending his inauguration; and anxiety is always expressed lest the unhappy incident should be repeated. There was a reason for choosing that date, however, which few persons have ever heard of.

When the day was fixed upon the 4th of March, it was because that date set dom occurred on Sunday. But three times during our history has the inauguration day fallen on that day. The first was the second inaugural of James Monroe, the fifth President, March 5, 1821; the second was when Zachary Taylor was made President, March 4, 1849; the third was the inauguration of Rutherford B. Hayes, on March 4, 1877. This will happen three times during each century, or one year after every seven leap years. Except when passing from one century to another, there is a slight variation, as will be observed in the following dates of the past and future inaugurations, of the first six centuries of the republic: 1821, 1849, 1877, 1917, 1945, 1973.—Scrap Book.
