A Look Into the Future.

We sincerely believe that what is best in Rooseveltism will be safeguarded in law and in policy, and become accepted as permanent and valuable under a course of firmness, patience and good nature that will go uninterruptedly on. There will be a change of temperament in a change of men, a change of methods, but not a change of messures. The rough but necessary work has been largely and peremptorily done. Conservatism can readily displace combat or contention, and, we think it will. The people are united, hopeful and expectant. No administration ever went into power with higher hopes or finer desires. That they may be realized is the wish of every patriotic American.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Egg-shells as Flower Pots.
Cucumbers, gourds and other plants that are hard to transplant, can be grown in egg-shells in the house. As soon as the plants are large enough and the ground warm enough, the shells can be carefully broken away without the dirt falling from the roots. When thus transplanted, the growth of the plant is not checked.—Suburban Life.

Copper in Alaska.

Alaska gives promise of becoming in time a large producer of copper. The Bonanza mine in Montana has an ore body 300 feet wide, which was cut at a depth of 225 feet by a crosscut tunnel, in which there is 120 feet of ore averaging 22 per cent copper, the middle 25 feet being almost pure copper glance running from 60 to 70 per cent of copper and 28 ounces of silver a ton.

IDEAL FARMING.

Dedicated to President Roosevelt's Farm Commissioners.]

If strawberries grew without weeding, If cherries were rubies aglow, If plum trees bore turquoise, the farmer Would no longer bend over the hoe.

If each apple sold for a dollar,
And peaches would sell for a dime,
If each cabbage head were a diamond,
Wouldn't the farmers have a good time?

If farmers didn't have to do chores,
If milking machines all would work,
If cow stables all were self cleaning,
Then farming would boom with a jerk.

If farmers made hay in wet weather,
If drought did no harm to the grain,
If bugs ate nothing but thistles,
Then farm hands would pick up again.

If cobs were covered with gold coins, Instead of with kernels of corn, We would spend our last days on the homestead, And never look blue or forlorn.

If farmers were rich like Rockefeller, If lard paid like Standard Oil, We might play with Carnegie, And shirk from a lifetime of toil.

But farming is not all a poem,
We must work, we must sweat, we must glean.
So all we have said in this story,
Is much like a summer night's dream.

band is traveling toward the Tanana River. The news was brought to Dawson by Chris Williams, who says that last year and during the summer the herd trampled down the forests and went to the White River slope.

Later it turned back and passed across upper Sixty Mile and then seemed to turn westward toward the head of the Tanana slopes. They are traveling in a procession twenty miles wide. All that are left in the vicinity of Dawson are some straggling bands. Indians have followed them and are bringing some of the meat to Dawson, but on the whole the herd is getting too far away to get carcasses back to Dawson with any profit it.—Dawson Correspondence Nome News.

Tousled But Happy.

Hunting the hare with beagles is a particularly attractive cport for women. The outskirts of the London women. The outskirts of the London suburbs ring with the shouts of women beaglers on Saturdays. It is a curious sight to see fifty or a hundred women rushing pell-mell behind the beagles after a hare. Round and round they go, tousled, bedraggled and faces all aglow. No wonder their complexions are the envy of the world. The sight of an Englishwoman chasing a hare on foot through bramble and thicket, over hedges and stiles, helter skelter over everything would make a German hausfrau sit down in the middle of the road with her hands folded helplessly in front of her.—Town and Country.

FINANCE AND TRADE REVIEW

GENERAL TRADE QUIET, BUT IMPROVEMENT NOTED

Better Feeling Reported in Iron and Steel and Increased Demand.

Demand.

New York.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s "Weekly Review of Trade" says:
"Milder weather will stimulate spring sales, but general trade continues quiet. Conditions are better in the West than in the East, but everywhere there is still lacking the desired animation.
"Some progress toward more settled conditions is noted in iron and steel. The most encouraging feature is the better sentiment, and this has been followed by an increased demand in some lines. Best news comes from the structural divisions orders from material aggregating a good volume while the new prices are firmly maintained. The advancing season is also expected to increase the tonnage for building work. Demand from railroads has not expanded to any extent, although additional inquiries for steel rails are reported. In wire products orders are somewhat heavier, while bids for east iron pipe were opened in this city early in the week, but therewise this division is generally quiet.

"Western distributors of dry good."

in this city early in the week, but otherwise this division is generally quiet.

"Western distributors of dry good, particularly jobbing houses in the northwest and Missouri river territory, report a satisfactory business, but conditions are less satisfactory in the coal and iron section of the middle West and among local jobbers. Some falling off in activity is normal at this season. Prints are are moving slowly, but sales of staple and dress ginghams continue fairly large. In the woolen division there is a disposition on the part of clothiers to send salesmen on the road unusually early. One of the most marked features of the season thus far has been the growing demand for serges and unfinished worsteds. The dress goods market is fairly active with a good demand for staple worsteds. The yarn market continues dull with buying confined to filling in immediate requirements, while prices are fairly steady and strong.
"Extreme dullness prevails in the hide and leather markets."

THEIR FIRST WHITE MAN

Black Tribe Living on Mornington Island Just Discovered.

Sydney, N. S. W.—Probably the last black tribe who had never seen a white man has been discovered on Mornington island, in the Gulf of Carpentaria. The first white man they saw was R. B. Howard, chief protector of aborigines in Queens' land, who came in contact with them after two days searching.

The blacks, he says, were in a very primitive state. They did not know the use of tobacco, and would not eat bread, meat or even sugar, although they readily tasted anything given, to them. There was no sign whatever of disease, and although emaciated in appearance, they were strong and agile.

Building on Sand.

In New York nearly all the tall office buildings have their foundations on the quicksand, in it, or under it, and as a rule they are more difficult, dangerous and costly to build than anywhere else in the world. It is required to provide absolutely safe separate supports of from 50 to 100 columns, 15 or 20 feet apart, each carrying loads of from 100 to 2,000 tons. Thirty feet below the surface the sand is found, compressed to a hard, dense mass which, undisturbed, will carry safely a load of 6,000 or 8,000 pounds a square foot. When, therefore, the building is not too heavy, and there is no expectation of deeper foundations being built alongside, the new foundations are often laid on the surface of the sand, which has from one-half to the whole of its area covered with them.—Century Magazine.

Where Wives Are Riches.

The only thing which drives men and boys to work in central Africa is the desire to buy wives. Who buys but one makes no headway and remains poor through life. An industrious woman can support herself and husband—little or nothing more. She can accumulate no surplus. Who stays at work doggedly until he buys a second wife is fixed for life. What the second woman produces beyond the rown support is wealth for him. He never needs to work again. A man's wealth is computed by the number of his wives. My nearest neighbor in the High Kasai was follooms; he had a dozen wives. The greatest neighboring chief, Ngombe, had 34. These men were poor compared with the great chiefs of the upper Kongo, where one man was indicated to me as having 600 wives.—Red Book Magazine.

Why the Needle Points North. Why the Needle Points North.

The magnetic needle comes to rest pointing north and south because the earth acts as if it were a great magnet. A compass needle would come to rest pointing lengthwise of a bar magnet placed under the influence of the earth. For this reason we think of the earth as a great magnet. The North Pole and the North Star have no influence over the compass needle.
