more American." And yet the editor of that paper, it a labored editorial, gives, his reasons for refusing to accept the nomination. Is this effort, on his part, a desire to be more American? In our humble opinion, instead of becoming more American. it is but the stepping stone to desertion of American principles, and the acceptance of the idea that niggers shall rule America, instead of the ruling sentiment of the American party, that 'Americans shall rule America.

For ourself we have taken for our guide the American Piatform of principles—and the nominees of the American party, and are resolved to stand or fall with them.— Clarion Banner
