TWO MILLIONS IN IT

Several Claimants for the Estate of L. A. Robertson.

MATTERS VERY COMPLICATED.

Two Different Persons Are Now Acting as Administrators.

It is a Pight Between New York and Penn sylvania-II the Keystone Relatives Carry Their Point They Will Get a Magnificent Sum-Uncles, Aunts and Courins Interested.

HUNTINOTON, Pa., June 18.—The estate of Millionaire L. A. Robertsen, who died recently in Brooklyn, leaving extensive landed interests in Pennsylvania, New York and West Virginia, is about to be the subject of interesting litigation.

Certain relatives of the deceased, who will profit more liberally if they can show that Mr. Robertson was a resident of this State instead of New York, have of this State instead of New York, have had letters of administration issued by the Englistrar of Warren County, this State, so that now two different persons are acting as administrators—one under the laws of New York and the other un-der the laws of Pounsylvania.

Mr. Robertson died intestate, leaving real and personal property worth $2, 000,000.

Under the Intestate laws of New York, Under the intestate laws of New York, the surviving children of a decedent's dead uncle or aunt do not inherit the share of the father or mothor, while in Pennsylvania they do. That is to say, if Mr. Robertson had an uncle or an aunt who died before he did, leaving children, under the laws of New York the children would not share in the estate, while in Pennsylvania they would inherit the interest of the deceased parent. Such a state of facts exists in this case, and the children of Mr. Robertson's deceased uncles and aunts are therefore trying to prove that their cousin was a resident of prove that their cousin was a resident of Pennsylvania at the time of his death and not of New York. If they can suc-ceed in proving this, each will get a magnificent sum; if they fall, they will not receive a cent.

Mr. Robertson's surviving uncles and annes are anxious that their nephew's estate should be settled under the laws of New York, as the adjudication of the same there would make each of them richer to the extent of several hundred thousand dollars. No nearer relatives survive Mr. Robinson than uncles and Another interesting feature of the case Another interesting feature of the case is that if Mr. Robertson shall be declared to have been a resident of Pennsylvania, the State will collect a collateral-inheritance tax on the whole of his $2,000,000 estate, no matter where the property is located; whereas if it shall be determined located, whereas if it shall be determined that at the time of his death he was a citizen of New York, this State will collect only its 5 per cent, on the value of what estate there may be in Pennsylvania. The Mapleton tannery here is appraised at $275,000, and the Warren County property is worth $500,000.
