ITALIANS ATTACKED

American Laborers Drive Them from a Camp.

CLUBS AND KNIVES USED FREELY

The Fight Did Not Last Long and the Foreigners Fled in Terror.

Their Departure Followed by a Scene of Pillage—Several of the Rioters Arrested—The Italian Consul Indignant Over the Attack on His Countrymen and Demands an Immediate Official Investigation.

St. Louis, June 23.—There is great indignation among the Italians over the race riot which occurred between the laborers employed by Contractor Workley at the chain of rocks where the new water works are being constructed.

One Italian was dangerously stabbed, over 20 of his fellow-countrymen driven from the camp and their valuables and money confiscated by the gang of American and other laborers making the attack.

The riot was primarily caused by the admittance into camp of a lot of Italian laborers, and the report that Contractor Workley had gone to Chicago for more crew, creating a feeling of jealousy against the employment of Italian labor.

The laborers were paid off and congregated in a saloon just outside the city limits, where they remained gambling and drinking hard whiskey until the entire party were crazy drunk.

The Attack on the Italians.

About 1 a. m. the party broke up and started for their sleeping quarters. On the way over some one suggested that they "drive over the d—d Dagos." The idea took like wild fire, and the drunken crowd rushed into the tents of the foreigners, armed with sticks, clubs, knives and whatever else they could lay their hands on.

The fight did not last long. The Italians were to get a disadvantage, and after a brief resistance they fled in terror, leaving behind all their belongings.

A Scene of Pillage.

They carried away Catalia Francisco, one of their comrades, fatally wounded by a stab in the breast. The Italians made their way to this city, where they reported the matter to the police, and Francisco was taken to the City Hospital, where his wounds were dressed. At the camp their departure was followed by a scene of pillage. Their valises, bundles and packages were broken open and stolen.

Several Arrests Made.

A rigid investigation was immediately begun by the police, and the following arrests were made: Edward Manley, J. H. Jones, Michael Cahill, Wm. Blair, Wm. Brooks, Fred Leader and John Shiller. These men profess ignorance of the attack on the Italians and say they were awakened by a commotion and merely aided in driving from the camp the disturbers of their slumbers.

Italy to be Informed.

Italian Consul Domenico Ginnocchio is indignant over the attack on his countrymen and will doubtless begin a correspondence with his government on the subject. He has demanded of the chief of police protection for the Italians, and also an immediate investigation of the riot.

A REIGN OF TERROR

Startling Facts About the Revolution in Chili.

BALMACEIDA CALLED A TYRANT.

Horrible Punishment Inflicted on Men Who Sympathize with the Rebels.

Tacks and Pins Driven into a Man's Fingers—A Soldier Finds a Poor Fellow's Hands to a Jelly—No Two Persons Can Stand and Converse on the Streets—Laborers Forced to Wear Tags.

New York, June 23.—Many startling facts in connection with the revolution now raging in Chili, which throw light upon the ferocity and despotism of Balmaceda, are now given to the public for the first time.

The three gentlemen—two of whom are prominent Chilians—from whom these facts are obtained have just arrived in New York. They have witnessed the revolution from its inception, and speak from actual knowledge.

Balmaceda Termed "The Tyrant."

The combined stories of the three men show that Balmaceda is well termed "The Tyrant." In Santiago, where his headquarters are, no one dares to utter a word against him. He has caused a cross of red to be painted on all the houses of people whom he suspects are not too loyal in sympathy with him, and into these marked residences his police and soldiers go at any hour of the day or night. They ransack the rooms on the ground that they are looking for revolutionists who are supposed to be hidden there. The people in these houses are forbidden to lock their doors.

No one is allowed to ride on horseback through the streets after 5 o'clock in the afternoon; no three persons are allowed to walk the streets in company at any time of the day, and no two persons can stand and converse on the streets. It is a veritable reign of terror for all who, either through fear or interest, have fallen to catch their fortunes with Balmaceda.

The streetkeepers and all who employ laborers have to furnish each with a tag showing that they are regularly employed, and by such a merchant at such a place. If the laborer is caught on the street going to or from his work without this tag he is grabbed up by the soldiers of Balmaceda and impressed into his service. This system exists in Valparaiso also.

Tacks Driven into a Man's Hands.

One of the gentlemen referred to was walking along the street past a jail yard. He heard some terrible shrieks from some one on the other side of the wall. He inquired of a soldier the cause and was told that some of Balmaceda's soldiers were punishing a man who had refused to work for him by driving tacks and pins into his hands and fingers. The next day he saw a horrible punishment meted out to a Chilean who had been heard to say that he was willing to work his hands off for the revolutionists.
