THE SUREST ROAD TO WEALTH IS THROUGH LIBERAL ADVERTISING!

CONVENTION CALL.

To the Republican Electors of Pennsylvania:
After consultation and correspondence with the members of the Republican State Committee, and by their direction, I hereby give notice that the Republicans of Pennsylvania, by their duly chosen representatives, will meet in State Convention at Harrisburg, Wednesday, August 19, 1891, at 10 o'clock A. M., for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates for the offices of State Treasurer and Auditor General, for the nomination of eighteen candidates for Delegates-at-Large to the Constitutional Convention provided for in the Act of Assembly approved June 19, 1891, and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented.

Notice is especially directed to the fact that, in accordance with the provisions of the last mentioned act, each Senatorial district is entitled to a representation of three delegates in said Constitutional Convention, two of whom only can be members of the majority party in said district. The electors of each district are therefore requested to make proper nominations for delegates to said convention, the rules governing the nomination of candidates for State Senator to be applicable.

In this connection the Chairman desires to call the attention of Republican voters to the recommendation of the State Convention of 1882, that "they allow the greatest freedom in the general participation in the primaries consistent with the preservation of the party organization."

W. M. H. ANDREWS, Chairman.

THE SURPLUS.

A comparison of the financial statements of this country for the years 1867 and 1891 will interest the soldiers and their patriotic friends.

In 1867 the interest on the public debt was $143,600.00 and the pensions $30,000,000.

The bondholders get the interest and the soldiers the pensions.

For 1891 the interest on the public debt will amount to $28,000,000, while the pensions amount to $132,000,000.

After a long wait the money is now going where it belongs—to the saviors of the Republic.

THERE'S one thing to be said about Quay that cannot be truthfully said about Magee. Quay never defeated a Republican candidate when nominated.—Chester Times.

We would respectfully call the attention of the esteemed and good-natured superintendent of the Williamsport division of the P. & R. R., C. M. Lawler, to the back number passenger coaches used on his division, principally for excursions. Our people would like to have something better and they think the George Washington coaches would be more suitable for the Catawissa and Berks county branches.

HAZLETON is to have a street railway. But it will not be constructed with home capital. The scheme does not owe its birth to home brains and home enterprise. No; outsiders are to give the town a boom. Outside capitalists see what the home people could not see and outsiders are to profit by the jealous bickerings of insiders. Oh, Hazleton! Oh, Shenandoah!!

DEMOCRATIC clubs afford this inspiration for the patriotic young man of the United States, who believes in sustaining and building up his own great country. The Democratic idea and teaching opposes everything American. It draws its main inspiration from the British School of economies.

It opposes, as a rule, the interests of our country and would build up, enrich, give prosperity and power to other nations. Republicans, on the other hand, in their teaching appeal directly to the patriotic young man's love of country, and membership in Republican clubs is an incentive to patriotism. The Republican party has maintained the glory and greatness of the country, while Democracy is constantly opposing all great national interests and projects, and lends its sympathy to the country's enemies and opponents. It is the party of obstruction, and in thirty years has promulgated no idea that has been a success, for the advancement of the country. The patriotic young man who thinks and reflects, and who reads history, joins the Republican Associations in the true interests of his country.

FRUITLESS HUNT.

NO TRACE OF THE LOST BABE OF THE MOUNTAIN.

A BEAR MAY HAVE EATEN HER.

Startling Story That May Solve the Wilkesbarre Mystery—One More Search to be Made To-day for Her.

By National Press Association.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 24.—Barney Searfoss, who has a farm and hotel at the foot of Five-Mile Mountain, five or six miles back in the wilderness from Laurel Run, relates a startling tale that may lead to the solution of the mystery surrounding the disappearance of little Anna Frederick.

Mr. Searfoss says that about three weeks ago a black bear of unusual size, weighing, he judges, 500 pounds, appeared on the mountain near his house. A brown bear is no uncommon object back there, but a black one is very rare. A week ago last Tuesday, or just one week before the little girl was lost, this bear killed and carried off from Mr. Searfoss' farm a full grown calf. He and another man started out to hunt the bear. They found the remains of the calf, but the bear escaped them.

Three days later the bear was seen at a point between Five-Mile Mountain and Laurel Run, or within three miles of the spot where the little girl was lost. It is therefore possible, and it is believed by many, that the little girl, wandering about on the mountain-side, encountered the fierce animal and was killed and devoured.

Several parties of armed men with Wounds will start out in different directions this afternoon and thoroughly explore the whole mountain territory.

MARSH NOT FOUND.

Garside's Physician Says the Professor is Shamming.

SPRING LAKE, N. J., June 24.—There was another sensational development in the case of the alleged assault on Detective Garside, alias Freeman, while hunting for ex-Bank President M-rash. Dr. Trout, who was called to attend Garside, announced that he would have nothing more to do with Garside, as he was shamming and had imposed upon him. Dr. Trout said that he had notified District Attorney Graham of this fact.

Garside still claims that he was assaulted while trying to capture Marsh. He had ordered a pair of crutches and says he will go to Philadelphia as soon as he is able. He says that he believes that Marsh is hiding in the vicinity of Spring Lake and that Detectives Miller and Tate are in league with him. Detectives Miller and Tate have abandoned further work at Spring Lake and have gone back to Philadelphia.

Joseph Mahulski, a Pole residing on East Lloyd street, went to St. Nicholas yesterday and drew his pay for two weeks, amounting to $7.

While on his way home over this mountain he was stopped by two young men, who asked him for tobacco. Mahulski said he had none and the two fellows proceeded to search his pockets. They felt the envelope containing the pay in a pocket of the coat which Mahulski had thrown over his shoulder and one of them demanded that the envelope be given them. Mahulski remonstrated, but one of the fellows snatched the coat from his arm and ran off, followed by his companion.

Mahulski says he recognized one of the fellows as Michael, alias "Younger" flow, of this town, but he did not know the one who ran off with the coat and money. He appeared to be a professional bum.

ATTACKED A HOUSE.

Windows Smashed by Stones. The Roughs Escape.

There was great excitement in the First ward last night, owing to the bold and unlawful conduct of a party of Polish roughs. At about 11 o'clock the miscreants stormed a house occupied by a Polish family. Windows were smashed by stones, the doors were battered and kicked and other depredations were committed.

The only occupants of the house was a woman and her three small children, the husband being at work. The terror-stricken woman gathered her children about her and shouted at the top of her voice from one of the second story windows, "Police! Murder!"

Two young men named McGrail and Matthews, appeared upon the scene as one of the ruffians was about to crawl into the house through a window. After several exchanges of blows the Poles were put to flight.

The outrage is supposed to have been the result of a quarrel that took place at a christening during the day.

BARDSLEY'S STATEMENT.

It is Presented to the Court and His Sentence Suspended.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—Ex-Treasurer Bardsley, when called for sentence, read his long-promised statement. To those who expected sensational disclosures the statement was partially disappointing. The explanation went over much familiar ground. He held the Keystone Bank officers responsible for the city's loss, while confessing that he loaned to the bank the money of the city and of the State to help them out of difficulty. Allowing his explanation and reasoning to be correct, the balance for which he is personally responsible is very small. He answers the question as to the whereabouts of the missing million of money by reiterating the story of depositing it in the Keystone Bank and taking due bills for the same, and he offered proof of this.

In the course of his remarks Bardsley made reference to Bank Examiner Drew and H. H. Yard, saying he had loaned money to banks through the latter. He says the former is responsible in a measure for the city's loss, because he misrepresented the bank's condition. He also accuses him of having had financial dealings with Lucas and Marsh.

He devotes a chapter to John Wanamaker, in which he says he has no reason to think he knew anything of the bank's affairs. He states that between himself and Marsh there was no understanding of any kind.

When he had done District Attorney Graham said he desired time to examine further into the case, and sentence was, therefore, suspended.
