CONVENTION CALL.

To the Republican Electors of Pennsylvania:
After consultation and correspondence with the members of the Republican State Committee, and by their direction, I hereby give notice that the Republicans of Pennsylvania, by their duly chosen representatives, will meet in State Convention at Harrisburg, Wednesday, August 19, 1891, at 10 o'clock A. M., for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates for the offices of State Treasurer and Auditor General, for the nomination of eighteen candidates for Delegates-at-Large to the Constitutional Convention provided for in the Act of Assembly approved June 19, 1891, and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented.
Notice is especially directed to the fact that, in accordance with the provisions of the last mentioned act, each Senatorial district is entitled to a representation of three delegates in said Constitutional Convention, two of whom only can be members of the majority party in said district. The electors of each district are therefore requested to make proper nominations for delegates to said convention, the rules governing the nomination of candidates for State Senator to be applicable.
In this connection the Chairman desires to call the attention of Republican voters to the re-convening of the State Convention of 1882, that "they attain the greatest freedom in the general participation in the primaries consistent with the preservation of the party organization."
WM. H. ANDREWS, Chairman.

TO FIGHT THE INDIANS.

Two Moberly Men, Youths Start Out on a Patriotic Mission.
Dime novels seem to do their deadly work in the West as well as the far East. The latest victims of the Indian killing mania are John and Willie Parker, of Moberly, Mo. They had been ardent readers of Indian stories and longed to bask in the smiles of Sadowah, the heroine of the Apaches, whoop wonderful strategy in ten seconds saved 6,000 white men from being scalped. They accordingly purchased a supply of bowie knives and horse pistols and then proceeded on their Westward journey. They swooped down on the city of St. Louis last week and proceeded to load up on tangle foot—a "Denver Bill, the meat ax of the Canon." A St. Louis cop took the youngsters into custody. The latest news received from them is to the effect that they had been thoroughly spanked by their mamma, who took them home to Moberly.

SENT TO PRISON!

A HUNGARIAN HOUSE SNEAK IN LIMBO.

HE IS A DANGEROUS CHARACTER.

He Struggles With a Constable and Threatens Him With Death. Had Not Worked for Two Years—Committed.

At a late hour last night Constable Selbert observed a man acting suspiciously about the residence of Casper Bernatus, on Strawberry alley. The man disappeared upon catching sight of the Constable, who hid near the place to await his developments. A few minutes later the man returned and entered the house of Mrs. Annie Albusta, residing next door to Bernatus' house. He was discovered by the woman, who cried out for police protection. The burglar ran out of the house and, at the corner of the building, picked up his shoes, he having left them there so he could walk about barefooted. Constable Selbert gave chase and overtook the man on Lloyd street. He walked him back to the Albustas and Bernatus houses to see if he boarded at either of them, but nobody could recognize the man. The burglar then became aggressive and when asked why he had opened the door and removed window sashes of the two houses mentioned he replied, "Not you please you — I smash you head for you, you — You swear for me I kill for you." A struggle followed, the Constable finally overpowering the man and fanning him before Squire Walker. There the burglar said his name was Mike Rockchocker, that he was a Hungarian 28 years of age, had a wife in Austria, Hungary, and that he had not worked for two years. He was sent to the Pottsville jail in default of $1,000 bail.

WE ARE BEHIND.

Town Capitalists Are Letting Opportunities Slip.

The Hazleton and Mauch Chunk papers are now turning their attention to the discussion of methods by which to secure independent of coal mining for several years past the HERALD has kept the subject before the people of this section and what has been laughed at by our people is now taking root in adjoining sections. Why should the proposition to have large factories in and around Shenandoah be scoffed at? Because we have the coal beds here is no reason why the industrial field should be restricted to the mining and preparation of coal. The great manufacturing industries of England are located in the very centre of the coal fields. A factory with an abundance of coal at its door has a good foothold upon which to compete with the factory that must pay the cost of hauling fuel several hundreds of miles to its furnaces. Labor is plentiful here and the railway facilities are of the best. Why, then, should anyone say that the coal fields are not proper places for factories and that the industries cannot be made profitable outside of the cities. The non-progressive people hold full sway in this town for a number of years, but the local government was gradually transformed by the infusion of new blood until finally, on December 4th, last, the Borough Council took an advanced step by passing a resolution that all new industries employing a number of hands created or started in the borough of Shenandoah be exempted from payment of taxes for borough purposes for a period of ten years. This step should have been followed by the organization of a Board of Trade and a liberal distribution among capitalists and manufacturers of circulars containing a copy of the resolution passed by Council, together with a description of the town, its location and its advantages. For some unknown reason this was not done, but it is not too late to do so now. Capitalists are more likely to step into a town that shows enterprise than they are to interest themselves in a place that shows indifference.

There is an industry not far from Shenandoah that can be brought into the town with little effort. It is located at present in a place where both fuel and labor is scarce. It brought here it will give employment to a large number of men and women and boys and girls. Mahanoy City has struck out ahead of Shenandoah in the establishment of a large brewery. A prominent gentleman of town says that the brewery will be watched and if it proves a paying investment one will be started here. This is encouraging, but not altogether satisfactory. While our people are holding out to let others show what pays they are losing the advantages that fall to the lot of those who reach the field first. Shenandoah has held back too long already. The establishing of a brewery here was agitated years ago, but people winked and smiled at the idea. Now Mahanoy City has one and some of our people are saying, "There must be money in it after all." Let some of the moled men of the town bestir themselves and try to get to the front.

A Town Traveler.

EDITOR HERALD.—Our early job was, and is, on the N. B. & O. R. R. at Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, one of the best equipped and best regulated lines in the country. Lovers of nature do not find the two hours which they are compelled to wait at Mahanoy Plane in the least monotonous. The village is small, but the surrounding country at this season of the year is beautiful. Miles of woodland with its soft, green foliage; hills with their rough and rugged edges, making a picture that would entrance the eye of an artist. Our train arrives and within a few minutes we are again on our way, leaving far behind us the dusky diamond region, soon finding ourselves surrounded by beautiful farms. What a beautiful picture! Fields of waving corn and golden grain ripening that the harvesters may go forth and reap what they had sown. And what a pleasure it is to view this delightful sight from the comfortable seats in the luxuriously upholstered cars the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company places at the disposal of the traveling public. Shortly after dinner hour we arrive at Williamsport where many of us change to the Fall Brook Coal Company's Railway to Corning. I was agreeably surprised by the trip on this line. The coaches are fitted up for complete comfort and convenience of the passenger and the crews of the trains are perfectly elegant. They are kind and courteous to both old and young and one experiences an inexpressible sense of pleasure while under their care. Arriving at Corning we left the Fall Brook line, regretting that it did not extend to our destination. We are now touring in Northern New York and hope to be in Shenandoah again before long. K. J.

Doing Well.

P. J. Cleary, the young man who recently embarked in the leather findings and shoemakers' supply business and opened a store on West Centre street, has already built up a very gratifying trade. Mr. Cleary deals in the best stock in his line the market affords and his prices are as low as those maintained in the cities. Give him a call. An examination of his stock will be of benefit to those interested in the goods he handles.

MINERS STRIKE.

NOTTINGHAM COLLIERY TROUBLE GROWING SERIOUS

THE CRISIS WILL COME NEXT WEEK

The Knoxville Miners Make an Agreement for Sixty Days.

Rev. Sutherland, of Hazleton, Convinced.

Plymouth, July 24.—While as yet there has been no trouble with the Plymouth collieries of the Lohigh & Wilkes-Barre Coal Company beyond the strike of twenty men at Nottingham, as already reported, there is every reason to fear that grave trouble will shortly arise.

The men have two grievances, first, the importation of Polish and Hungarian labor and, secondly, the announced intention of the company to pay no attention to the two weeks' pay bill which goes into force to-day. It is certain that within the past two weeks between 300 and 400 Poles and Hungarians have been brought here for this company. There would seem to be only one explanation of their coming.

The company having decided not to comply with the two weeks' pay bill are prepared for any attempt on the part of the miners to coerce them by a strike. This naturally aggravates the dissatisfaction of the men. While no organization worthy of the name exists to-day, already there are evidences of preparation for the forming of one. It has been decided to call a mass meeting of the miners and laborers of Plymouth some time next week, when the question will be discussed, and what action shall be taken will be decided upon.

HORRIBLE SCENES IN PARIS.

BLOODY-MINDED MEN AND ARABIAN WOMEN ARRESTED.

Paris, July 24.—Horrible scenes have been witnessed during the past week on and about the Place de la Requette, where criminals are executed. The lowest of the low have assembled there every evening and have passed the night waiting to witness the execution of the murderers Berland and her accomplice Duce.

On Saturday morning the execution was postponed on account of the marriage of Executioner Debrier's son and assistant to the daughter of a provincial executioner. Since that time, Sunday morning excepted, the voyous and their cohorts, as well as a number of people of a better class, have gathered each morning, singing, shouting, fighting and using obscene and profane language. This morning the crowds were more riotous than usual, and the police charged the crowds, making many arrests.

The gargolies, cafes and other public resorts of the neighborhood have throughout the week been doing a booming business, and when the police had cleared the streets they had quite a task in clearing out the most disorderly of these drinking places. Here, again, many arrests were made and hideous drunken men and drink-sodden women, yelling and fighting, were escorted to the police stations.

A Convicted Clergyman.

Eric, July 24.—The protracted and highly sensational trial of Rev. H. E. Sutherland, the Hazleton preacher, resulted to-day in a verdict of guilty. Sutherland, who had sent the alleged obscene circulars through the mail, was so certain of acquittal that he went back to Hazleton last night. Sutherland, as it was shown, had pursued his presiding elder, Rev. John Donahue, unrelentingly with a merciless and heartless series of circulars signed "Nemesis." He did not spare the innocent family of his clerical enemy, but attacked Mrs. Donahue in the most heartless manner.

Will Hold off Sixty Days.

Knoxville, Tenn., July 24.—To-night brings the state officials and miners of East Tennessee twenty-four hours further along than yesterday, but the public has no more definite news about what is to be done than heretofore. All day to-day the Special Miners' Committee has been in consultation with the men it represents. Late this afternoon a decision was arrived at whereby the miners agreed to submit to the return of the convicts to the mines for sixty days, provided the troops were not sent with the prisoners.

The P. & R. Co. are building two new side tracks on the Gerber siding, which extend from the depot to the -ignal tower. An addition has been built to the stone bridge to widen it sufficiently to take the new tracks. When completed these tracks will be used for storing the laid-over cars which are at present left standing on the town tracks in the centre of Main street, where they are a nuisance, as they compel people to take quite a walk around to cross the street.

At a special meeting of the School Board on Wednesday evening all of the teachers were re-appointed and the teachers, Grammar school and Primary school at Gilberton, were filled by the appointments of Joe O'Boyle and Miss Lillie Evans, respectively. Miss Julia Farrell, Primary school teacher at Gilberton, was transferred to the Primary school in West End, made vacant by the retirement of Miss Ferley.

THE BEST SNAKE STORY

IT COMES FROM THE STATE FAMOUS FOR ITS DOUGLON WALKER.

Kentucky is famous for whiskey and snake stories—not that there is any affinity between them, although a drink of Blue Grass bourbon is said to have a stimulating effect on the drinker's visual powers. The following story, told by a delegate to the Baptist Association which met in Kentucky last fall, to a reporter for the Crawford (Ga.) Herald, is given as the best snake yarn extant, and one can almost see the bouquet of the bourbon in it.

He and his uncle were sitting by a creek-side, in the State of Kentucky, fishing, and were surprised by seeing a black snake dash out of a thicket, and running to a weed standing near them, bite a leaf from it and quickly return. This he did several times, when their curiosity being excited, they followed him to see what he meant by such strange conduct, and found him engaged in a fearful fight with a moccasin several times his own size. As often as his antagonist succeeded in biting him he ran to the weed for his antidote and was at him again. At length the uncle pulled up and removed the weed to see what the snake would do. He soon came again, and, finding his remedy gone, he looked eagerly from side to side a perfect picture of despair, and fell stone dead on the spot. The moccasin, already badly disabled, they dispatched.

SNAKE TWENTY FEET LONG.

A DETROIT MAN CAUGHT IT IN HIS FIG-STY.

On the banks of the Cedar River, about one mile northwest of Gladwin, says the Detroit News, a farmer keeps quite a number of hogs and pigs, which run in the field at their pleasure. A short time ago he began to miss some of his young hogs. Night after night some of them would come up missing. He searched the neighborhood, but to no avail.

Then he shut them up in a tight pen, but still the depreddations went on, until at last he set a guard to watch for the thief.

Night wore away and no one molested the pigs. It was just at the break of day, and as the watchman was about to seek repose, he heard a commotion among the hogs, and on approaching near to get a sight of the burglar he saw a monster snake crawling away from the pen with a shout. With a stout ironwood hand spike he killed the snake, and when measured it was found to be nineteen feet seven inches long. The snake will be stuffed and presented to the Detroit Exposition Company.

RAIL MISHAPS!

A LEHIGH VALLEY FIREMAN KILLED AT DELANO.

HIS BODY TERRIBLY MANGLED.

An Aged Polish Woman Struck in Town and Amputation Follows—Death Will Very Likely Take Place.

William Shacker, employed as extra fireman on the Lehigh Valley railroad, was recently killed at Delano this morning. Shacker had turned a switch for his train and stepped from one train to another without noticing the approach of a caboose and engine. He was knocked down and crushed beneath the wheels of the engine. When his body was picked up it was a horribly mutilated and unrecognizable mass. The deceased was a widower thirty years of age.

AN AGED WOMAN STRUCK.

The Victim's Life Probably Lost for a Chicken.

Mrs. Pauline Kingman, an aged Polish woman residing in Robbins' row, opposite the end of Coal street, to-day met with an accident while trying to save the life of a chicken that may cost her life.

The chicken was on the Lehigh Valley railroad as the 7:40 a. m. east-bound passenger train was leaving the Lehigh Valley Depot. The woman ran upon the track to drive the chicken off and as she did so the west-bound passenger train due here at 7:41 rounded the curve at Emeric street. The woman then tried to reach a place of safety by retreating the west-bound track and was struck. The train was not running fast at the time and it simply threw the woman to one side, but as she struck the ground she rolled over and her left foot fell over one of the rails, the wheels of the first car passing over it.

Drs. J. S. Kistler and G. M. Hamilton were summoned and examined the woman, crushed below the ankle and the scalp was gashed in two or three places. The scalp injuries were not of a serious character.

The doctors decided, after a consultation, that the only chance to save the woman's life rested in the immediate amputation of the foot and the operation was performed, but the advanced age of woman, coupled with the shock occasioned by the accident and operation will, in all probability, result in death.

At 11 o'clock this morning Dr. Hamilton and Kistler completed the amputation of the foot and at last accounts the victim was doing as well as could be expected.

The woman is 67 years of age. She arrived from Poland only three months ago and lived in Robbins' row with her husband and son.

Don't fail to visit the museum in Ferguson's theatre building. 7-22-91

Reckless People.

It is surprising how some women are carried away by curiosity. Where the most danger hovers there they seem to flock in reckless haste, neglectful of the safety of themselves or those guided by them. This morning no less than half a dozen accidents were barely averted after the aged Polish woman was run over at the Emeric street crossing. Women and children flocked in droves over the tracks to Robbins' row, where the victim was being cared for, and Gatman Hawley and the crews engaged in switching freight and other cars on that part of the road were kept busy warning them against crossing in front of engines and cars. There is no more dangerous section of the Lehigh Valley railroad than that between Emeric and Bowers streets, and people should exercise the greatest caution when crossing the rails of that section.
