LONDON BALLET GIRLS.

The Vicissitudes of the Women Who Kick and Dance to Amuse the Public.

Ballet girls are sometimes married women with families of their own, though more often they are girls living at home and supporting their parents, or else longing for themselves or with some of their companions. They are frequently children of poor parents, and the rooms even of the well paid, from the few specimens I have seen, says a London writer, strike one as being by no means above the average working-class home in point of neatness or comfort.

Perhaps their constant presence at performances or rehearsals leaves them little time or inclination to attend to household duties. Those who are skillful enough and fortunate enough to get into the corps de ballet of a house such as the Alhambra have pretty regular employment all the year round, but a great number can only obtain temporary engagements in the pantomime or other busy seasons.

At other times they go on a tour in the country, live with their parents or turn dressmakers and needlewomen, and sometimes, probably, have recourse to less reputable modes of obtaining a livelihood. It is only fair to add, however, that the appearance of the ballet girls as they leave the theater very much resembles that of any other body of young women leaving a respectable place of business.

The corps of one large house has organized a benefit club for the help of its sick members. The subscription is six cents or twelve cents per week, according to earnings. Full sick pay is $3.75 a week, and lasts ten weeks, followed by half pay. Any balance in hand at the end of the year is shared out among the members. This fund has been in existence for many years.

Ask Your Friends About It.

Your distressing cough can be cured. We know it because Kemp's Balsam within the past few years has cured so many coughs and colds in this community. Its remarkable sale has been won entirely by its genuine merit. Ask some friend who has used it what he thinks of Kemp's Balsam. There is no medicine so pure, none so effective. Large bottles 50c and $1 at all druggists.

Railroad accidents appear to be unusually numerous this summer.

Brown-Davis.
The Brown residence, at Yatesville, was the scene of a quiet and interesting wedding last evening. The contracting parties were William Davis, telegraph operator at Potomac, and formerly of town, and Miss Sarah Brown, daughter of John Brown, inside foreman at Knickerbocker colliery. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Wm. Powick, of the M. E. church, of Shenandoah. There were present only the relatives and most intimate friends of the family. Miss Bella Brown, of town, acted as bridesmaid, and William Brown, of Yatesville, groomsmen. The room where the wedding took place was elaborately and beautifully decorated and the presents were many, both fancy and useful. The newly married couple will reside in Potomac, where a handsomely furnished home awaits them.

SEALED IN A CLOISTER.

Nuns in a Catholic Institution for Life Fasting and Praying.

At the Corpus Christi monastery of the Dominican nuns at Hunt's Point, a community of women were a week ago sealed in a cloister which they will never leave alive. There was little or no ceremony. The women, many of whom gave up bright worldly prospects, are to devote their whole lives to prayer, adoration of the blessed sacrament and fasting. Last week the monastery, with its beautiful chapel, was blessed by Archbishop Corrigan, of New York. The sealing of the cloister took place at 6 o'clock in the morning. All the visitors left that part of the monastery, wooden door leading from the cloister to it. This has two locks, one on the inside and the other on the outside. The mother prioress turned the key in the inside lock, and one of the sisters, who looks after the outside affairs of the monastery, locked the other one. As long as the monastery stands and is used by the nuns no visitors will be allowed to pass through that door. It will be opened to receive a new member of the community. Even Archbishop Corrigan will go into the cloister only once a year, when he makes his annual visitation. He must be accompanied by two or more priests then. Whenever any of the nuns are taken sick the physician who is to attend the patient, in order to enter the cloister, must have a permit from the archbishop and the prioress. Even when a nun is on her deathbed her relatives will not be allowed to go into the cloister to see her. After the sealing of the cloister Archbishop Corrigan gave a benediction in the chapel.

Cloistered communities, like that of the Dominican Nuns of the Perpetual Adoration, are very scarce in this country. The Carmelite Nuns, the first order of religious women established in this country, and the Trappists, have rigorous and severe rules like those of this order. The American branch was established in Newark thirteen years ago by nuns who came from France at the request of Bishop Corrigan. Their prioress was the present prioress of the Hunt's Point Monastery. The Newark community has prospered, and it has its full quota of sixty nuns. The life of the nuns is of remarkable severity. They rise at 5:30 a. m. and are in the chapel at 6, when they say that part of the office called "prime" and "terce." Meditation and mass occupy the time until 8 o'clock, when they have a light breakfast. From that time until 10:30 they are engaged in making various articles for use at the altar. As the nuns never eat meat and have a long fast from September to May, their diet is very simple. An hour's recreation after dinner is followed by an hour of profound silence. Each nun sleeps on a board about 5 feet 6 inches in length and 3 feet in width. The habit is worn during sleeping hours; in fact, it is only taken off for change and for the bath.

Oh, What a Cough.
Will you heed the warning? The signal, perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50 cents to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves Croup and Whooping Cough at once. Mothers do not be without it. For Ladies Back, Side or Chest, use Shiloh's Purging Plaster. Sold by C. H. Hagenbuch, N. E. corner Main and Lloyd streets.

A Rapidly Rising Actress.
This is a picture of Miss Adele Farrington, who has signed to join the Matthews & Smyth "Hoss and Hoss" Company next season. She is a charming actress and possesses a very beautiful contralto voice and is one of the most valuable additions to what promises to be by far the most important of the farce-comedies on the road, including, as it does, Charley Reed and Willie Collier as the two stars; that very clever girl, Louise Allen; May Yohe, besides a number of others, all very good; and the subject of this picture, Miss Farrington, is an actress who has made phenomenally rapid strides in her profession, for she has only been on the stage one year and is already among the higher pale.

I Was a Fool.
Yes, they said I was a fool not to try Sulphur Bitters for Rheumatism, from which I had suffered over two years; but I had tried so many doctors and medicines without getting relief that I was discouraged. I am now on my fourth bottle and almost cured. I was a fool that I did not try that wonderful remedy before.—G. G. Pratt, Manchester, N. H.

STRAW HATS show the way the wind blows, but they don't show what hard blows we have been striking at straw hat prices. Some hats are dear at any price. These hats are cheap at double the money. If what covers your head is not becoming, get a straw hat. It is the best of your attire and is easily thrown away. (Come and see how you will look in one of our straw hats. There's no use in giving any further description of them than to say this—they are stylish. We cut the price down because we want to cut our stock down. Another big bargain in hats is our $1 black straw hats.
