The well-known specialist, Dr. Franklin Miles, says such girls are more or less hysterical, nervous, very temperamental, unbalanced; usually subject to headache, nervousness, impetuosity, immoderate crying or laughing. These show a weak nervous system for which there is no remedy equal to Restorative Nerve. Trial bottles and a fine box containing many marvelous cures, free at C. H. ## THE HOLY COAT OF TREVES.

Considerable Excitement Over the Approaching Exhibition.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The approaching exhibition of the Holy Coat of Treves is causing considerable excitement not only in that city, but throughout Germany. The garment is said to be a veritable seamless mantle that was worn by Jesus Christ, and it has been an object of veneration for centuries.

The coming exhibition will be the first in this generation, and only the fourth time the garment will have been shown within the past three centuries, and the event is naturally awaited with great interest by Catholics in all parts of the world.

In the year 1810 the first Napoleon annexed to the garment being shown publicly for the second time, but in giving his sanction he added that the working of miracles was to be forbidden on that occasion. The last exhibition was in 1884, and the mantle is said to have been the medium of numerous miracles at that time.

The German authorities will not permit any utterances reflecting on the relic, and the assistant editor of a newspaper published in Sillesia has been sentenced to imprisonment for two weeks for remarks that were published, alleged to be disrespectful, in regard to the Holy Coat.

The people of Treves are making immense preparations for the influx of pilgrims. The railway authorities have already had three new temporary stations erected, with spacious waiting and refreshment rooms. Extra rails have been laid by the tramway companies, and about 1,500 citizens have applied for licenses to start temporary beer saloons and public houses. The police have also requested the public of leaving cities in Europe to send expert detectives to assist in the detection of thieves and peddlers. Many pilgrims are expected from America.

The German authorities will not permit any utterances reflecting on the relic, and the assistant editor of a newspaper published in Sillesia has been sentenced to imprisonment for two weeks for remarks that were published, alleged to be disrespectful, in regard to the Holy Coat.

FIVE DAYS IN A TRANCE.

A Curious Case of Suspended Animation in Pennsylvania.

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa., Aug. 3.—Mary Bradley, a pretty 16-year-old daughter of Farmer Bradley, of Hills of French Creek, recently lay in a state of suspended animation for five days. At first she was pronounced dead, but her family hoped otherwise and resolved to watch over her until they were sure. In the course of time a life-like tint overspread the girl's face and then relays of watchers were supplied at the bedside night and day without cessation.

Finally, on the afternoon of the fifth day, the watchers noticed her bosom heave slightly and her lips tremble. Next she breathed a long-drawn sigh and then tossed her arms about and slowly opened her eyes. At first she was dazed, but gradually her senses returned to her. She seemed to have awakened from a refreshing sleep.

"I've had such a wonderful dream," she said. "I dreamed that I had died and had gone to Heaven. Oh, it was such a beautiful sight! Sweet music, angel voices and happiness there. All seemed so blissful. It was like sitting in a great cathedral and listening to divine music with one's eyes shut. Angels crossed me and danced about me, although I was in the air. The lights were not bright and dazzling, but soft and low. Oh, I wish I could have remained there always."

Miss Bradley has now fully recovered. The doctors ascribe her cataplexy to physical conditions favorable to suspended animation.

Death from Hydrophobia.

SAGINAW, Mich., Aug. 3.—Morris Godfrey, the 17-year-old boy afflicted with hydrophobia as the result of a dog bite on July 4, died yesterday in great agony. He was unconscious between fits of raving until an early hour yesterday morning, when the spasms increased in length and violence, finally producing death. From the first he called frequently for water, but no sooner was it brought than he was seized with convulsions and he was unable to take a drop. A dog bitten by the same animal that attacked Godfrey is now sick and, with the offending brute, has been shut up and will be used by physicians to experiment on.

BOSTON, Aug. 3.—It is now more than two weeks since the murder of Christie Warden at Hanover, N. H., and the assiduous labor of the most skillful detectives has been altogether in vain. Had Frank C. Almy, the murderer, flown from the scene on wings he could not have baffled his pursuers more effectively.

CAMERON AND QUAY.

The Pennsylvania Senators Meet and Discuss the Political Situation.

Mount Joy, Pa., Aug. 5.—Senators Cameron and Quay spent Saturday night and Sunday very quietly at Donegal, where Senator Cameron owns 800 acres of as productive land as can be found. It is the same old farm house made famous by the many important conferences held there when old Simon Cameron took such a prominent part in Pennsylvania politics.

The distinguished gentlemen had a number of calls during the day from political and business acquaintances, but all, they were able to enjoy a quiet session. Both, while exceedingly pleasantly, refused to tell just what they were doing, but Quay admitted that they had been talking of Pennsylvania politics. He was asked in reference to the report that Thomas Dolan was to succeed Dudley as treasurer. "As to what the members of the committee intend to do," replied the Senator, "I have no the slightest idea. I do not know of any such arrangement, but nevertheless it may be true."

Mr. Quay was also asked regarding the proposed resignation of Chairman Andrews and the selection of his successor, but he declined to know nothing of the organization of the committee.

Every one who called at the house asked the Senator about that Washington dream, of which he talked in Philadelphia last week. He then said that he dreamed that "Blaine was coming." This remark, taken in connection with the news well known preference of the Senator for the Maine man, was a theme on which every one took occasion to speak. The Senator smiled pleasantly as he simply remarked: "Funny dream, wasn't it?"

Senator Cameron refused to talk of his conference with Quay, but from one of the Lancaster politicians, who dropped in and out during the day, it was learned that the two men are in perfect accord in regard to a Presidential candidate; that they are both for the same man. It was also learned that Quay and Cameron have arranged for another conference in Washington some time about Sept. 1.

DREW TWO PENSIONS.

She Was a Widow of an 1812 Veteran and Also a Dependent Mother.

POTTSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 3.—Mrs. Mary Hastenstie, an aged widow of a veteran of the war of 1812, and mother of a soldier for the Union, has become involved in a novel legal tangle through drawing two different pensions from the government at the same time. For over half a century she has been receiving a liberal pension as the widow of John Hastenstie, who served in the war of 1812, and in addition, since 1879, she has been steadily drawing a second pension as the dependent mother of Eli Hastenstie, who fought in the suppression of the rebellion.

United States pension officials have been here looking up the facts in the case. Mrs. Hastenstie herself admits them. She claims, in defense, that persons whom she trusted informed her prior to 1879 that she was entitled to two pensions, and that she followed their suggestions. The pension officials, wishing to deal leniently, have requested that she refund to the Treasury about $3,000 surplusage within three weeks, otherwise the case will be placed in the hands of a United States marshal for prosecution.

A Girl Arrested as a Hotel Thief.

The McLaughlin Murder.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—The police think they have the murderer of the murder of William McLaughlin, who was shot in front of 416 East Eighty-ninth street Saturday night, and are now looking for George H. Halley, son of William Halley, who is now under arrest. It is alleged that McLaughlin while in Halley's house offended the latter's youngest daughter and was taken to task for it by George Halley, whose disappearance leads to the suspicion that he did the shooting.

An Exact Reproduction of the Old Convention Where Columbus Straggled.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The Committee on Foreign Exhibits of the World's Columbian Exposition have recommended the erection at Jackson Park, Chicago, of an exact reproduction of the old convent of La Rabida, Palos, Spain.

It will be remembered that this convent is more closely associated with the life of Columbus than any other building in the world. It was here that he applied for bread and water for his child, and it was here that he was furnished shelter for two years while he was developing his theory of a western passage to the Indies, and it was here that he lived while preparing for the voyage, and in the little chapel attached to the convent he attended mass on the morning he sailed. Here, too, he sought refuge again upon his return from the discovery, and here he always found a comfortable and hospitable refuge in the days of his trouble and anxiety.

It is proposed to make the reproduction exact. It will be of the same dimensions, of similar material, and wherever there is a blemish or a broken tile in the original they will be reproduced. The work will be done under the direction of Mr. Franklin W. Smith, a wealthy and enthusiastic amateur architect, who lives in the Moorish villa "Zorayda," at St. Augustine, Fla., during the winter, and in the Pompeian villa at Saratoga during the summer.

Mr. Smith has had more experience in the reproduction of ancient architecture than any other man, and renders his services without cost to the Exposition.
