LOCAL LUNCHEON.

Fried peaches is a new fad. Cool mornings and evenings. In the modern sandwich no such thing as crust must appear on the bread. The shortening of daylight, both to the morning and evening, is very perceptible. The latest man living can always see work that some other person should be doing. Cantaloupes left out in the grass over night will be nicely freshened by the dew for breakfast. By the time the season is over it will be hard to find anyone in Shenandoah who hasn't been to a picnic. It is painfully evident that good many minors find out some way of obtaining intoxicating liquors. One of the most difficult tasks in the world is to convince some people that honesty is the best policy. The fashionable colors at the present time are yellow green, honey-suckle yellow and a beautiful shade of soft fawn gray.

Progress.

It is very important in this age of vast material progress that a remedy be pleasing to the taste and to the eye, easily taken, acceptable to the stomach and healthy in its nature and effects. Possessing these qualities, Syrup of Figs is the one perfect laxative and most gentle diuretic known.

Coming Events.

Height of Cruelty.

Nervous women seldom receive the sympathy they deserve. While often the picture of health, they are constantly ailing. For without sympathy from these unfortunate is the height of cruelty. They have a weak heart, causing shortness of breath, fluttering, pain in side, weak and hungry spells, and finally swelling of ankles, oppression, choking, smothering and drupes. Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is just the thing for them. For their nervousness, headache, weakness, etc., his best remedy Nervine is unequalled. Fine treatment on "Heart and Nervous Disease" and marvelous testimonials free, sent and guaranteed by C. H. Hagenbuch.

Antics of a Horse.

This morning a horse belonging to Otto Carl, the East Centre street butcher, ran away and jumped across the pavement down into the area next to Ben. Severn's grocery store, at the corner of Centre and White streets. He carried part of the fence at the edge of the pavement with him and landed on a heap of empty barrels, but, strange to say, escaped injury. He was led out of the area in a much less frisky mood than he entered it.

An Axle Broke.

As a long, loaded coal train pulled away from Pine Glen switch, near Dalano, at an early hour this morning, an axle of a car in the centre of the train broke. There is a heavy grade from the switch and before the train was stopped the loaded cars in the rear forced the forward part of the train down to the New Boston switch, nearly a mile, the broken car cutting off the heads of the bolts and otherwise causing considerable damage to the tracks. The cars were scattered across both tracks and traffic was delayed for about three hours. None of the cars were wrecked and no person was injured.

SONS OF ST. GEORGE. The Grand Lodge Adjourned at Noon To-day.

The session of the state grand lodge, Order Sons of St. George, yesterday afternoon, was taken up by miscellaneous business.

This morning the business of the lodge was closed and the delegates left for their respective homes.

It was decided that the grand lodge meet in Philadelphia on the first Tuesday of August, 1892.

A resolution protesting against the election of officers of the supreme lodge in October last, on the ground that the election was illegal, was adopted.

Nominations for the election of officers of the state grand lodge next August were made as follows: Grand President, Wm. Pooler, St. Clair; Grand Vice President, Wm. Maylin, Scranton; Grand Secretary, J. Henry Williams, Thomas Duffin and Richard Davis, Philadelphia; Grand Treasurer, James Champion, Shenandoah; Robert Stewart and Wm. Hepworth, Philadelphia; Grand Messenger, Richard Seed, Philadelphia, and E. H. House, Scranton; Grand Trustee, Wm. Bell, Erie, G. D. Kemp, Philadelphia, and E. Gray, Norristown.

The following is the address made to the grand lodge by Rev. Floyd E. West, of town:

My Brothers; for as such I think I may address you, though I am not a member of your order. It has been my experience that formal addresses of welcome on such occasions as this are apt to fall pretty flat; so I shall not follow the conventional way of telling you how extremely glad we are to have you with us in Shenandoah to-night, and how grateful we are to you for coming, and how sorry we shall be to have you go, and a lot of such rot as that; for if the members of Shenandoah Lodge have not told you that in a way no words of mine could tell you, then it would be a hopeless task for me to attempt to convince you of the fact. Let me only say then, that I am sure that the greetings of the brethren have been but the outward expressions of what were really in their hearts. I am glad to have the privilege of speaking to the members of an organization, banded together as yours is, in recognition of the great truth of the brotherhood idea. My brothers, if we are really to do any very great or telling work in this world, either as an organization or as individuals, we must come to recognize men everywhere as bound to us by ties of kinship, we must be willing to reach out a hand to help our brother man wherever he may be found. In my intercourse with Englishmen I have ever found them, as a rule, men who were ready to help their brothers everywhere, asking not if they were Englishmen, but only if they were men. I ask you to listen for a moment to the words of two old friends who are with us to-night, though we may not, indeed, see them as they look into our faces. They are memory and hope. Memory speaks to us, and what does she say, as putting her hand in ours she speaks the farewell? Her first word of caution is this, "Don't forget the small beginnings, from which have come the present grand successes." Of course, I cannot hope to tell you anything which you do not know relative to the history of your organization, but let us not forget that though organized no longer ago than 1899 or '00 in a little back room at Scranton, it now spreads abroad over the whole of this great land, and I think, has branches in the mother country as well. Secondly, Memory bids us "not forget the principles on which success has been attained." Let us continue to work upon the old lines and for the old purpose of doing good to our fellow-men. And Memory also bids us "not forget our comrades." Some have fallen and their faces are missed to-night. Let us remember those who shall be with us no more and profit by the examples they have left. And, thirdly, Memory bids us "to gain strength and courage for the future by recalling the good accomplished in the past." She calls up the cheering remembrances of sufferings that have been lightened and of sorrows that have been cheered. But we must not listen too long to Memory. The past is gone and we haven't much to do with it. Memory elicits to us, but Hope interposes, and tells us to look to the future, that there "is a grand work yet to do." All has not yet been accomplished because the membership has reached large proportions, and she tells us to "believe in the possibilities," look to the future and improve the opportunities as they are presented to you. Let me say merely this one word more, it has given me, personally, a great deal of pleasure to have had the opportunity of meeting you and talking to you to-night, and that I am sure you have indeed been welcome to our mingling town of Shenandoah.
