If a basket of eggs should have a fall like the one some badly informed papers are saying Quay sustained at the recent state convention, none of the eggs would break.

Don't take any stock in the Democratic yarns that there are dissensions in the Republican ranks. The party is united and never enjoyed brighter prospects for victory. Whatever differences existed were wiped out by the state convention on Wednesday. In this county it is the same. The party is now united, with but one object in view—the success of the whole ticket and it is for Harrison, Blaine, or any other good man that will secure the nomination in 1892. In state politics Quay and Magee have shaken hands. In this county Phillips, Lusch, Koch, Brumm, Wilhelm, Whitehouse, James, etc., etc., have done the same, and all are in for victory.

COUNCIL CHAT!

A LIVELY SESSION OF THE BOROUGH COUNCIL.

BROADSIDES OF PLAIN TALK.

Councilman Portz Charged With Monopolizing Authority—The Street Committee Enlarged. New Ordinance.

A regular meeting of the Borough Council was held last evening and it was a lively one. The members present were Messrs. Gable, Lamb, Holman, Amour, Conkley, Hopkins, Devers, Scheiff, Wurm, Portz and Bosteridge.

When the chairman asked for reports of the committee on roads and highways Mr. Scheiff, in the absence of Mr. Portz, said that he knew of nothing particular going on, as his business had occupied most of his attention the past two weeks.

Mr. Holman said he did not know what the committee was doing. But he did know that he had repeatedly asked the chairman of the committee, Mr. Portz, and the supervisor to fix up streets in various parts of the town that are in a bad and dangerous condition, notably South Main street, but his requests had been ignored.

Mr. Lamb said he was opposed to councilmen going out of the town to purchase articles for the borough that could be purchased of home industries.

The Chief Burgess and Mr. Hopkins, together with John Wagner, a property holder, also complained about the bad condition of some streets.

By this time Mr. Portz arrived and he said that the screens needed for the stone crusher could not be procured in town. One of the reasons was that the Tamquam had a patent on the kind of screen required.

Messrs. Wurm and Gable followed with criticisms of the street committee's methods and Mr. Gable said he would entertain a motion to increase the membership of that committee.

Mr. Portz claimed that Mr. Gable should vacate the chair if he wished to talk on the subject, whereupon Mr. Gable did vacate the chair and, addressing Mr. Lamb, said, "Mr. Chairman, if I had no authority to speak while in the chair I have now; and I move that three members be appointed on that committee."

Mr. Wurm promptly seconded the motion and then Mr. Portz jumped to his feet and asked what grounds the councilmen had for their statements that the street committee members could not agree among themselves.

Mr. Holman repeated his statements that he had asked to have things done and that Mr. Portz and the supervisor would not attend to them.

Mr. Wurm said, "When you ask a question of the Supervisor he says 'I must see the committee on roads and highways,'" and Portz and Scheiff come in here with one report, while Holman comes in with another. "Two or three old women ninety years of age would have had the stone crusher working long ago."

Mr. Gable then charged that the street committee does things without consulting council at all and there is always dissatisfaction in that committee. He added, "Mr. Portz is the man and is the council, and has been all this time and I, for one, am sick and tired of it."

Mr. Portz again took the floor, emphatically denied Mr. Gable's statements and charged him with authorizing certain work. This Mr. Gable denied and the situation was growing warm, when Mr. Scheiff said that he approved the motion to increase the committee and thought it would be a good thing. All he wanted was to have added men who could be found when wanted.

The motion to increase was finally carried and Mr. Lamb appointed Messrs. Gable, Wurm and Conkley as the additional members.

Mr. Wurm presented an ordinance prohibiting fast driving on the streets and making five days' imprisonment in the lockup, or a fine of not less than five and not more than ten dollars as the penalty. The ordinance also provides a penalty for driving through the streets without holding the reins, or walking at the head of the shaft.

Tax Collector Schmidt and Policeman Connors reported the result of the work in collecting taxes the past two weeks. The amount collected was: For the borough, $175; schools, $315; county, $112; total, $602. Collections were made from 175 Poles and Hungarians of whom 98 were arrested.

On motion, it was decided that Policeman Connors be continued in the service until the next meeting of council and that the finance committee call upon the school board and see what share of the expense it will stand.

Council also decided that it will back Policeman Connors in his work of tax collecting and that the Borough solicitor shall take charge of any suits he may get into.

J. S. Townsend, of Emerick street, presented a claim of $118 for damages sustained by a fall on an East Coal street pavement last June. The claim was referred to the law committee for investigation.

BASE BALL AT THE PARK.

The Benedicts Again Victorious on the Diamond.

Yesterday afternoon, at the Shenandoah trotting park, the second game between the married and single men of Shenandoah took place before a large and appreciative audience. The first game was won by the Benedicts by a score of 16 to 15, and they also won this game.

After the usual practice Umpire Whalen directed the combatants to take positions. Manager Doyle again won the toss and took the field.

Umpire Whalen said, "Gentlemen, I have filled the position of umpire in all the principal cities from Florida to San Francisco and am used to being roasted in the papers, but, by the great horn spoon, I'll not take any back talk from any of you players. I have come prepared. This instrument of death (producing a revolver) contains twenty charges—one for each of you players, one for the scorer and one to show you (bring towards centre field) that I mean business and will not be bulldozed. If you are ready to proceed, start the ball rolling."

At this juncture Mr. Malone (a married man) said, "Mr. Umpire, I'll not accept your conditions, and as I have left my shooting iron at home I'll retire from the game. I am not used to catching bullets in the center field."

At least one hundred married men scrambled for Mr. Malone's position, but Mr. Peters, of the Ferguson House, was honored. The game started at 3:30.

1st inning—Heisenberger was presented with first base, and went to second bag on a passed ball. He had his eye on third bag and had Scanlon held the ball thrown by Doyle he would have been out. The Umpire said "Out," but reversed his decision when he discovered Scanlon hunting the ball in the grass. Heisenberger then deliberately pulled third base. Graf, the old reliable, caught Cleary on the fly. Folmer made a beautiful running catch of Brennan's hard hit ball. Kelly received a rib rooster and walked side ways to first base. Canfield knocked the ball to Hughes and the side was out, with smiling Freddie on third base. Heffron opened up for the married men. Brennan did not admire the way Heffron struck at the ball, so he gave him first base, and he immediately stole second and third bags. Graf retired at first base. Scanlon fanned the wind three times. Hughes reached first on error of Monaghan, but Heffron scored the first run on the sacrifice hit. Doyle went to base on balls. Franey hit to Monaghan and out at first. Hughes, after stealing second and third, was left at third.

2d inning—The single men retired in one, two, three order. Monaghan on a fly to Scanlon, Muldoon on a fly to Hughes, Ramer hit to Scanlon and out at first. The married men in the 2d, 3d and 4th innings were treated to goose eggs.

3d inning—In this inning the married men became slightly rattled and the young bloods made three runs, taking the lead. Heisenberger went to first on balls and stole second. Heisenberger failed to make connections with the ball and took a sneak. Cleary reached first on error of short stop and third on error of Lawlor. Brennan out on fly to Scanlon. Kelly to first on error of Lawlor and Heisenberger crossed the plate. Cleary and Kelly home on error of Scanlon. Canfield out on the foul to Heffron. In the 4th and 5th innings the single men made one run each inning, on five bases on balls and errors of Folmer, Peters and Lawlor. During the latter part of the 5th inning the old men made two runs and their stock went up. The score now stood 5 to 8 in favor of the singles.

6th and last inning—Capt. Muldoon, with bat in hand, slipped to the plate, but when he faced Hughes in the box he changed many colors, and after striking at three balls, long after the catcher had them safely housed, he threw down his bat in disgust and said, "Boys, Hughes is again back to his old Washington firm and he must not be allowed in the box, or we are gone goosings." Folmer was then placed in the box, but another objection followed. Lawlor was the next man presented, but still an objection. Arthur Trezies, with ball in hand, entered the box, but Kelly ran out and said, "No, not for heaven's sake no! I have money bet on the game. Heffron was the next man offered, and a shout went up, "He will do; he's our man!"

The umpire said play ball, and Ramer faced the pitcher. Heffron twisted himself like a cork-screw, and away went the ball with a lightning curve and landed on Ramer's fifth rib. Ramer fainted, but after a good dousing recovered. Capt. Muldoon ordered Heffron from the box, and he left. Doyle, the old stand-by with a glass arm, pitched the balance of the game. Heisenberger, for the third time, took his base on balls. He was forced out at second by Heisenberger hitting the ball to short stop. Brennan ended the inning by flying out to Lawlor.

During the close of this inning the married men got on to Pitcher Brennan with both feet. Doyle and Folmer each made singles and Heffron and Graf each two baggers. Result of the inning—five big runs. The game now stood 8 to 5 in favor of the good old men. Muldoon said, "Gentlemen, we are tired and hungry, and if you have no objections, the game will now close and you will never have us young lads mention base ball in your presence again."

The umpire said, "So be it done."

EXCITING CHASE!

A HUNGARIAN TAX EVADER PROVES A SPRINTER

BUT THE OFFICERS RUN HIM DOWN

An Aged Woman's Serious Fall. Both Arms Broken—Patience Hinks Becomes Impatient and Stands by Bender.

Deputy Tax Collector Knobel and Policeman Connors continue to experience lively times in their work of collecting taxes from Hungarians and Poles. Yesterday they had a particularly lively adventure. They called at a house on the rocks at the south end of West street to arrest two Hungarians who evaded payment. They succeeded in arresting one, but the other, escaped from the house and ran over the rocks, down the embankment and over the railroad tracks in the direction of Turkey Run. The captured Hun was placed in the lockup, after which Connors and Knobel jumped into a gig and drove after the fugitive.

When ascending Turkey Run hill the officers saw the man they were after descending. Connors jumped out of the gig and hid in the bushes at the road side, while Knobel continued up the road. The Hun got close to where the policeman was hiding when the officer made a dash for him, but the man started like a deer down the hill with Connors in hot pursuit. Knobel turned his horse around and started down the hill as fast as it was safe. Reaching the bottom of the hill the Hun turned in the direction of the Turkey Run colliery, with Connors still in the chase. Knobel gave the horse and gig in charge of a friend and joined in the foot race, which resulted in the Hun being cornered at the rock bank of the colliery. He was placed in the lockup, but was subsequently released upon paying taxes for two years. This arrest had a good effect, for last night about twenty-five Hungarians from the rocks called at Tax Collector Schmidt's office and paid their arrears.

THE HINKS CASE.
Bender's Quasi Wife Arrested at Shamokin Yesterday.

When Chief of Police Amour met wayward Patience Hinks in Shamokin yesterday and told her that her quasi husband, William Bender, had been placed behind the bars in the Pottsville jail and that he had traveled to Shamokin to arrest her, she impatiently asked, "Why do you wish to arrest me?"

"Your parents have sworn out a warrant for your arrest on the ground that you are incorrigible," the officer replied.

"Well, suppose I won't go with you?" asked the girl as she threw back her head and half turned from Amour.

"But there is no supposing about it. You are my prisoner and must accompany me to Shenandoah."

The words "You are my prisoner" have a magical effect in almost every case in which an officer of the law is obliged to act and Patience's case was no exception. She evidently realized that no combination of stubbornness, indignation, or injured innocence can be sufficiently strong to cope with the mandates of the law and she said, quietly, "Well, I'll go with you."

Upon arrival in town Amour arraigned his prisoner before Squire Williams. Before she was asked to make any statement she said that Bender was not responsible for her conduct. She left town of her free will with another girl and sought Bender in Shamokin. She was evidently anxious to protect Bender and when asked if it was not repulsive to her to marry the man who had betrayed her sister she only answered with a smile and glance of unmistakable defiance.

She was held for a hearing at half past six in the evening. This did not disturb her and she said that everything would be all right in the end.

At the appointed hour last night Patience Hinks was before Squire Williams to answer the complaint made by her parents, charging her with being incorrigible. The hearing presented several side issues that made the case quite interesting.

Patience's demeanor changed somewhat during her afternoon stay in the lockup. She concluded to plead guilty and draw others into the muddle with her. After pleading she swore that Charles and Addie Wykofsky, a young married Polish couple of the First ward, were responsible for her conduct. That they delivered notes to her from Bender, arranged meetings at their house and on the 18th of last July and numerous other occasions, they urged her to go to Bender and marry him. On one occasion, Patience swore, Mrs. Wykofsky said, "If I were you I would go to Bender.

You don't need to take any clothing. He will buy everything for you."

After hearing this testimony warrants were sworn out by Patience's father, charging the Wykofskys with conspiring to induce his daughter to leave her home and accomplish her ruin. The Wykofskys were arrested and they pleaded not guilty, but Squire Williams held them under $800 bail, each. The wife furnished the security at once, but the husband went to the lockup.

After a consultation between the authorities and the parents it was decided to send Patience to the county jail, so that none of Bender's friends can have an opportunity to spirit her away, or influence a settlement of the case.

Just before Patience left the 'squire's office a young girl appeared and charged her with stealing a dress. This case was speedily settled by the dress being restored to the owner.

At about 11 o'clock last night Charles Wykofsky succeeded in securing bail and was about to walk out of the lockup a free man when Policeman Connors and Tax Collector Schmidt appeared at the door and demanded payment of taxes. Wykofsky expostulated, but Schmidt said it was either pay or jail and the matter was settled by the young fellow turning over his watch for security.

Patience remained confined in the council chamber all night, having her brother as volunteer company. This morning she was taken to Pottsville.

The case seems pretty well mixed, but from the confused mass the parents have moulded the theory that Bender schemed to marry Patience in the hope that the marriage would induce the parents to drop the previous suit resulting from his relations with the older sister, and that the Wykofskys conspired to aid him in the scheme.

FELL DOWN STAIRS.
An Aged Woman Meets With Serious Accident.

Mrs. Sarah Roth, of Shamokin, who is the guest of Mrs. T. C. Waters, her niece, of East Lloyd street, met with a distressing accident yesterday.

Mrs. Roth has reached this advanced age of 75 years. As she was about to descend from the second to the first story of Mrs. Waters' residence, she tripped and fell head long half way down the stairs.

She was found doubled up on the stairway and in an unconscious condition. Blood was streaming from her nose and ears, as well as from a scalp wound. Mrs. Waters, who picked her up, thought she was dead.

Dr. Straup was summoned and he pronounced the injuries serious. Both arms were broken between the wrists and elbows, the left hip was injured, the face was badly bruised, and the scalp wound required five stitches. The victim remained unconscious for over half an hour. She is being cared for at Mrs. Waters' residence.

Mrs. Roth is the widow of the late Joseph Roth, of Shamokin, and mother of Tax Collector W. C. Roth of that borough.
