Wallack To-night.

This evening, in Ferguson's theatre, Mr. Jas. H. Wallack will produce his favorite equitvian success entitled, "The Mountain King." "The Mountain King" is the title of play that pleases all classes. The interest commences as soon as the curtain goes up, and from that time on it never ceases. It is of the sensational order, but at a rate the dialogue is far, very far, above the average of plays of its class in literary quality. It is cleverly constructed and presents a number of stirring situations and climaxes. It is well acted, the cast being unusually strong in the several parts, and there isn't a word in it to bring the blush to the cheek of the innocent. Virtue suffers in the second act, but triumphs in the fifth, while villainy, which is successful in the beginning meets with ignominy and retribution in the last. Mr. Wallack, as Bart Sweeney, has a part well suited to his style of acting and never fails to bring rounds of applause from the audience. The wonderful acting horse Balder, Charger, Texas and Pete are unequaled as equine actors and perform wonderful tricks during the progress of the play. The new scenery is handsome and the mechanical effects are novel and ingenious.

Clerk Toolie Rebuked.

In the report submitted to the court at Pottsville on Saturday by the grand jury was the following: "From the evidence presented before the Grand Inquest we are led to believe that in the conduct of some of the county officers, the business is conducted in a manner that has occasioned a personal encounter between the officials and cast a stigma upon the fair name of the county. The grand inquest has returned a true bill in the case involved, and hope that the business of the county can be so arranged as to prevent such occurrences in the future." The case of County Commissioner DeTurk against Toolie will be tried to-morrow.
