The miners of Byron colliery, near Shamokin, owned and operated by the Black Diamond Coal Company, of Philadelphia, are on strike for an advance of wages.

An effort is being made by Manager Heckman, of Shamokin, to organize a Coal Region League for next season. It is the intention to have all the home players, and no one can participate in a game unless he has resided in the circuit at least thirty days.

ON HIS KNEES.

John Gowanski Within an Inch of Death. John Gowanski, a Hungarian nearly 70 cars of age, had a most remarkable es spectrom death on the Philadelphia and Reading railroad Sunday evening. As the passenger train due here shortly after clock was passing Shenandoshi City col liery the engineer noticed a man on the track in front of the Road's houses. The whistle was blown, but the man seemed unable to get upon his feet. He was in a kneeling position between the two tracks, his knees recting on the edge of the ills supporting the rails upon which the train was running. The engineer continued to blow the whistle and reversed his engine, but was unable to stop the train sefore reaching the man. G-wanski suc seeded in keeping his body in an upright position and as the train passed him his face scraped along the side of the cars The incident caused great excitement or The cool nights are having their ef-fect on the foliage, and the leaves are beginning to fall. The beautiful sea-car passed him Gowanski fell across the rails. After the train was stopped some passengers went back to the prostrate form They found the man badly intoxicated and when his true condition was learned they marveled that he had succeeded in main taining an upright position until the train passed. It was certainly one of the most narrow escapes.

"My Colleen."

"My Colleen," an Irish comedy drams by James A. Herne, author of "Hearts of Oak," will be presented in Shenandoah for the first time Thursday, Sept. 24. The play comes heralded by the press as the best and purest Irish comedy drama before the public. The author receiving univer sal commendation for his unconventional pure and life-like treatment of Irish peasantry question. The play depicts the struggles of an Irish peasant prosecuted by the steward of a rich landowner, whose plans of revenge are presented by the devotion of a big-hearted Irish lad. The piece is a beautiful story intensly interesting. In the part of Jerry Doyle Mr. Farrell has undoubtedly created the strongest character he has as yet given on the stage. The songs which have made him so well known he sings nightly, also introducing with Jennie Leland, a captivating soubrette, their latest success Whisper." The company is first class, while the scenic effects are the most elaborate as yet seen in an Irish production.
