"PASSENGERS between Chicago and the seaboard," says the Buffalo Courier, will soon not have their present choice of fast trains unless a scheme now on foot fails. One of the east-bound roads has figured it out and claims that passenger net earnings could be increased 25 per cent. on all lines by the abolition of all but one limited train each and slower time on the balance. All, or nearly, all the general managers and general superintendents of eastern lines favor this saving, and unless the unexpected happens it will be made. The change will probably be established about the close of navigation, leaving the tracks clearer for the immense grain traffic which will then go by rail. The competition among the trunk lines for passenger travel has been so great within a year that fast trains were fast superseding the slower ones, and as the extra fare was abolished on these trains the railroads always claimed they were run at a loss. Hence

AT KEITER'S.

It is not surprising that the trunk lines have come together and made a mutual agreement to stop the sharp competition.

MAJOR McKINLEY feels so confident of his election as Governor of Ohio that he is willing to spare some of his time from the Ohio canvass, to help his Republican friends in other states. He has been to Iowa and met with a rousing reception there and gave the Iowans a grand speech. He will soon go to Boston and address the Home Market Club. If there was not a confidence in his election in Ohio that is based on strong grounds, he could not be spared from that state. Ohio is sure to give McKinley a rousing majority in November.

THE St. Louis Globe-Democrat says: "There are six states which have been created since 1888, and at least five of these will choose Republican Electors, while the Republicans will win in 1892 without these if they carry the states they secured in 1888. That is to say, Republican chances next year are highly encouraging."

TOWN TALKER!

THOUGHTS ON THIS AND THAT THREADED TOGETHER.

THEMES TERSELY TABULATED
The Tattle of the Tattlers Timely Taken and Told Typographically in a Tasteful and Tempting Tone.

A few days ago the HERALD briefly noted a swindling literary scheme that had been worked upon some of our town people. Since then it has been learned that the scheme was also successfully worked in the surrounding patches. The swindlers solicited subscriptions for a paper they called the Family Friend, charging $3 for a batch of thirty numbers and taking whatever the person called upon had to spare as the first installment. To each subscriber for the thirty numbers they promised a fifteen-dollar music box. The gudeons were plenty and they bit voraciously. In town the harvest was great, many people paying the three dollars in advance, and they are still awaiting the arrival of the "beautiful imported music box." Yatesville people fell into the trap by the hundreds and it is said the sharpers made about $25 there. The sharpers told the Yatesville dupes that their names were Charles Miller and Edward Snyder and said they belonged in Pottsville. They gave the same names in town, but to some people they gave their place of residence as Reading, while to others they stated that they were from Philadelphia. It is said they are now working the Ashland people. The dupes are entitled to no sympathy. It is about time the people of this region had their eyes open. They have been duped often enough to be put on their guard, but they seem wooden-headed and the sharpers have great fun with them. Some day they may become convinced that they cannot secure something for nothing, unless they steal it. They certainly cannot blame their home newspapers for not giving sufficient notice of defrauding schemes. The fault is with themselves. They neglect their home papers for the city publications, and thus the sharpers have a clear road. At times we are almost tempted to congratulate a sharper when he gets in his work.

It looks very much as if the story of the confession by a Hungarian at Hacketon to the Greek Catholic priest of this town, which originated in the Hacketon Standard, was a gigantic fake. It was probably one of Jack McCarthy's nightmares. A Hacketon reporter has tried to interview Rev. Andrzejewicz, the Greek Catholic priest of town, but efforts to get near the gentleman have failed. Since trouble has arisen between the priest and his congregation none but his intimate friends can get within speaking distance of him. One of his friends, who met the reporter at the door of the parsonage, said he did not think there was any truth in the story, but he would not speak positively. The Shamokin reporters are trying to locate the places where the alleged confessor buried his dead.

COLLIERY IMPROVEMENTS.
Good Work at the Kehley Run Colliery.
Glancing out one of the HERALD building windows yesterday a reporter observed a gang of workmen engaged on the roof of the Kehley Run breaker. A visit to the colliery was rewarded by an interesting discovery. The breaker and surroundings are undergoing a complete overhauling and in the course of a few weeks they will present an appearance almost new. The work is another exemplification of the untiring industry and remarkable business tact of the superintendent, Mr. Thomas Baird. Not one moment of working time has been lost during the course of improvement, which has included the substituting of new stringers, rafters, chuto partitions and frame for the breaker for the old ones, new shingles for the roof, new chutes under the lump and stowback coal chutes new shingles for the roof of No. 2 breaker, and a new roof for the slope shed. One would think it impossible to make all these improvements without the loss of some working time, but the ingenious superintendent of the colliery accomplished the work and not a breaker workman or rep-resentative received an injury. The only unfavorable feature about the undertaking was the neglect of the P. & R. Railroad Company to furnish enough cars to help keep the chutes empty.

The Misses Lessig have the largest stock of fall and winter millinery. 9-23-4t

AN ELOPEMENT!
SUDDEN DISAPPEARANCE OF A WELL-KNOWN COUPLE;
MISSING SINCE MONDAY LAST
Mrs. Barnhardt and Charley Stetler Disappear—The Former Takes the Situation Philosophically.
The gossips have a new subject to tear to pieces. Mrs. Emma, wife of John Barnhardt, and Charley Stetler, one of the young tonsorial artists of town, are among the missing.
Stetler left town on the midnight train on Monday, saying he was going to Philadelphia. Mrs. Barnhardt has not been seen since that time, and it is believed that she was a passenger on the same train.
The circumstances surrounding the barber's disappearance indicate that he has gone with the determination to locate elsewhere.
The case is not a surprising one, as the relations of the couple have been the subject of public comment for some time past. The woman is, or was, the wife of John Barnhardt, the plumber of town. The couple have not lived together for some time past and a suit for divorce by the wife has been pending. Meanwhile Mrs. Barnhardt and Stetler have been boarders in a house on Market alley. They have frequently accompanied each other in public and their carriage rides together have been numerous.
When speaking to a friend this morning Mr. Barnhardt was very philosophical. He said he had heard that his wife and Stetler had disappeared and that the report did not worry him. He also said that he could locate the couple if wished to, but he had no desire to go to any expense or trouble in the matter.

Obituary.
Mrs. Margaret Powell, an aged widow of South West street, died this morning from the effects of a paralytic stroke.

Mrs. Louisa R. Wood, an aged lady of Philadelphia, came to town on the 18th of July, last, to be the guest of her sister, Mrs. Diana Glover, of North Gilbert street, for a while. About a week after her arrival here Mrs. Wood fell and broke her leg, and while she was confined to her bed on account of the injury she contracted an attack of pneumonia, which resulted in her death this morning. The funeral will take place to-morrow morning, at 11 a. m., and the remains will be sent to Philadelphia.

Musical Burlesque.
"Grimes' Collar Door," a new musical burlesque by Thos. Addison, will be seen in Shenandoah Friday, October 2nd, for one night only. Jas. P. Mackin, the clever young comedian who is well remembered for his good work as "Glimsey, My Boy," in "A Bunch of Keys," is the bright, particular star, though the entire company is one of great strength. A good hearty laugh is assured.

Oysters are in season and the best in the market are at Cooley's. 9-23-4f

Are You Going?
The Reading Railroad will run their regular Autumn excursion to Gettysburg on Wednesday, October 7th. Tickets will be good for three days, with stop over at Harrisburg on return trip. Can return on any train on these days. Train leave Shenandoah at 6:25 a. m.; fare round trip $3.00. This is a cheap trip to one of the most interesting and historic spots in the state. Many soldiers and friends will take advantage of this offer.

Grand Concert To-night.
The celebrated De Moss family will give a grand vocal and instrumental concert in Robbins' opera house this evening, for the benefit of the Ebenezer Evangelical church. The Evening Star, of Washington, D. C., says: "The De Moss family of Oregon are in the city, and filled an engagement at the Central Union Mission. The large crowd was much delighted with their music, and the family received many personal compliments at the close."

Always go to Cooley's, South Main street, for your prime oysters. 9-23-4f

Letter Carrier Injured.
While O. C. Thomas, the substitute letter carrier was on his route this morning he passed some boys who were throwing stones at each other. One of the stones hit Thomas on the forehead, inflicting a wound that bled profusely. If the identity of the boy is established the example that will be made of him will have a tendency to break up stone throwing on the street.

"Othello's occupation's gone." He used to spend days and nights curing the flies and the rheumatism. Now he only lies down and laughs to think how easily he was cured by Serravallo's Ointment, at 25c.
