REGION 'ROUND.

A Budget of Interesting Articles on all Topics.

This information is gleaned from a book the Board of Directors of the City Trusts carried with them during their trip through this region this week: "The largest producer of these collieries is the Wm. Penn, which in 1890 had a total of 28,558 tons, and the first eight months of 1891 produced 174,084.39 tons."

Secretary Theo. F. Barron, of the Ashland Board of Trade, has been corresponding with several parties recently in connection with the leasing of the defunct shirt plant. He has hopes of locating a woolen factory that will give employment from 75 to 100 hands.

A soap swindler has gullied people in Bloomington and neighboring towns selling a worthless compound for $2 and promising to send a law book to all purchasers, free of charge, which he never does. He may work around this way. Keep an eye open for him and make it interesting for him if he does.

Whether it be a "T" rail or a flat rail, the fact remains that Ashland is willing to hold the advent of the electric railway with joy. We need a boom and it will come with the cars.—Ashland Telegram.

George Chinnell, who won name, fame and a little money and became one of the most noted short distance sprinters in the country, has been working in the mines at Blackwood, near Minersville, lately. Last week he met with an accident by which he had one of his feet crushed, and it is thought the injury will result in his retirement from the track.

The man who has neither character nor honor to wound is usually sensitive in the region of the pocket book. The report that the price of coffee is coming down ought to please every husband, even if his wife keeps on making it hot for him.

As marriage has always been considered a lottery, isn't it possible that the publisher of a paper who publishes wedding notices could be indicted?

AN UNWILLING BRIDEGROOM.

He Wants to be Rid of a Wife He Claims Was Forced Upon Him.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 23.—Charles Van Leuven, an Albany lad, about 18 years of age, according to his own story just made public, claims that he was forced to marry Bertha Winnie, also of Albany, last November. She is 24 years old. Van Leuven's mother, who keeps a hotel, began suit for the annulment of the marriage last July, and the referee who heard the case reports in favor of annulling it.

Van Leuven says he first met Bertha at a dancing school in this city. They often danced together, but finally she made her intentions to him so evident that the members of the class began to make fun of him. Then he tried to get rid of her, but she would not be cast aside. About the middle of last November, according to the lad's narrative, he visited Bertha's home upon her invitation, and there, under threat, he was compelled to marry her.

Miss Winnie's story is to the effect that the young man made violent love to her, and that he practically compromised her by his marked attentions. He asked her to marry him and she consented. Afterward he tried to break the engagement, but the entreaties of herself and mother prevailed and the wedding took place. Charles has seen his wife only twice since that fateful November night, almost a year ago. Bertha says the reason is that his mother keeps such a close watch upon him.

A SUIT AGAINST SPOONER.

President Sanford of the Adams Suing the Former Vice-President.

New York, Oct. 23.—Henry Sanford, the new President of the Adams Express Company, has begun a suit against Clapp Spooner of Bridgeport, late Vice-President of the Company. The summons inquires Spooner that if he does not answer judgment for $396,905 will be taken by default. In that suit, Judge Patterson of the Supreme Court, has granted an attachment against Mr. Spooner's property in this State on the ground of non-residence. Mr. Sanford made the affidavit upon which the writ was issued.

He makes the same charges against Spooner that he did against John Hoey. It is charged that Spooner, Hoey and others bought an interest in the New York & Boston Despatch Company, the Kingsley Express Company, and Union Express Company on March 25, 1882, for $73,000, and sold it to the Adams for $350,000. They acquired the remaining interest in the three companies on March 13, 1888, for $80,000 and sold it to the Adams for $500,000. Mr. Sanford alleges that Spooner and his associates, in fraud of the rights of the Adams Company, appropriated $396,905 of its funds.

Connecticut's Treasury Fight.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 23.—Marvin H. Sawyer filed his replication in the Superior Court yesterday in his case against E. Stevens Henry for the State Treasuryship. In it he denies the defendant's allegation that no one "has been found by the General Assembly to have been legally chosen as his (said Henry's) successor in office, and no person has been qualified to enter upon the execution of the duties of the office as his successor." The plaintiff, though, admits that he has filed no bond with Morgan G. Bulkeley. Mr. Sawyer concludes by calling E. Stevens Henry a usurper, and asks to have him ousted from the office.

The Bridge Gave Way.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Oct. 23.—A span of the bridge now in course of construction over the Potomac River at Hancock, Md., gave way in the evening and precipitated two representatives of the Groton Bridge Company of Ohio, named Smith and Stone, and a Mr. Blakell of this city, 60 feet into the river below. The water in the river was comparatively shallow and Mr. Stone, who came down head first, was instantly killed. Mr. Smith fell on his side and received probably fatal injuries. Mr. Blakell was lucky enough to strike the water feet first and received only severe bruises about the legs.

ANTIQUE can be tolerated in almost any thing but hats. If the head is out of date the rest of the body is pretty sure to follow suit. Nobody but a millionaire or a genius can afford to wear ancient headgear, and even they take a good many chances when they do it. It will cost you no more to be up with the times than it will to be half a mile behind them. Everything about our $1.50 hat is modern and the price, and $1.50 for such a hat can scarcely be called anything but a ridiculously low figure. The same can be said of our 25c neckwear. Our line of general furnishing goods is the lowest priced in the market.
