BURIED HIM ALIVE. Awful Death Agony of a Farmer Near Erie, Pa.

HE GNAWED OFF HIS FINGERS. His Flesh Torn Until He Scarcely Resembled Human Being.

He Had Lain in a Trance for Four Days—The Horrible Discovery Made in Transferring the Remains from One Plot to Another—The Body Had Turned Around in the Terrible Struggle.

ERIE, Pa., Oct. 27.—Two weeks ago Farmer George Heidecker, of Greene Township, apparently died very suddenly of what was supposed to have been heart failure. The remains were buried four days later from St. John's Lutheran Church, of this city, and temporarily interred in a neighbor's lot in the Erie cemetery pending the purchase of one by his family.

The transfer was made yesterday, and when the remains were exhumed the casket was opened at the request of his family, and a horrifying spectacle was presented. The body had turned around, lying on its face, and the interior of the casket bore traces of a terrible struggle with death in its most awful shape.

The distorted and blood-covered features bore evidence of the horrible agony endured. The clothing about the head and neck had been torn to shreds, as was likewise the lining of the coffin.

Bloody marks of finger nails on the face, throat and neck told of the awful despair of the doomed man, who tore his own flesh in his terrible anguish.

Several fingers had been entirely bitten off, and the hands torn with the teeth until they scarcely resembled those of a human being.

THE FIGHTING FACTIONS. Parnellites and Their Opponents Come to Blows.

CORR., Oct. 27.—Redmond and John O'Connor, M. P., with bands and a crowd of partisans, went to Black Rock last night answering Cannon & Mahony's challenge. They marched boldly into the parish. The Anti-Parnellites were waiting for them with trailing coats and whistlers.

The meeting of the two parties was attended by great excitement. The Anti-Parnellites showered sticks and stones and mud on their opponents. The Parnellites, who were armed with stout blackthorns, remained firm and steady under the volley of mud, and, after the first attack, charged and routed their opponents.

Then the victors held their meeting on the field, while their enemies skulked away with brained and bloody heads. The meeting was very enthusiastic, and after the Parnellites returned jubilant to Cork.
