BUT FOR THE EXTRA SESSION.

It is about time for the Republicans to return thanks to Governor Pattison for calling that extra session.

But for the extra session the public might have thought that the Democrats had something new to bring forward against Republicans, something that the Republicans themselves had not already brought to light.

But for that extra session Governor Pattison would never have made that little blunder of $288,232.00.

But for the extra session Attorney-General Hensel would not be charged by a Democratic paper with dividing a fee of $20,000 in the tax case of the state against the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad.

But for the extra session the Democrats might have gone on trying to make people believe that the Republicans were hiding something.

But for the extra session the people might not have known that at every point the Republicans were anxious to press the investigation.

But for the extra session the Govern-

GLEANINGS BY THE LOCAL CORPS OF REPORTERS.

WHAT THE SCRIBES SEE AND HEAR

Is the New Water Works Movement an Undertaking of the People or a Clique?—Let the People Know.

Recently some people in town were very anxious that the HERALD should declare itself on the movement to establish new water works. The HERALD did so, placing itself on record as in favor of water works to be owned and controlled by the people. The HERALD retains that stand and now asks the parties who are engineering the affair to let the public know what they are doing. To say the least, the actions of the people who were appointed to arrange a plan of procedure are not such as to create confidence. A mass meeting of the citizens was held in Robbins' opera house to discuss a proposition to establish public water works, and a committee was appointed by that meeting to meet a committee of council to formulate a plan of action. A HERALD reporter has attended all the meetings of the Borough Council since that public meeting was held and has not been able to hear anything on the water question. No report has yet been made to council regarding the public meeting, and no committee has been appointed to meet and act with the committee appointed by the citizens.

Now, these are the facts. But, notwithstanding that no report has been made to Council, and notwithstanding Council has not appointed a committee to act in the matter, two star chamber meetings have been held in the Council chamber by the citizens' committee and some councilmen. A HERALD reporter has twice applied for admission to the meetings in order to give the public some information as to the progress of the project, but each time he has been informed that the meetings were of a secret character and it was not desired that the public should know what was being done.

Now, then, if the proposed new water works are to be public property why should not the public be informed as to what is being done in the matter? Why has not a report been made to Council on the public meeting held? Why is the borough not represented at the meetings by a committee appointed by Council? Why did the committee fail to report the result of its meeting, or say something about it, at the last regular meeting of Council? When and how were councilmen who have been attending the star chamber sessions appointed a committee by council, if they are acting as such? Who are filling the positions of president and secretary of the joint committee? In short, what has become of the public water works movement?

THIS is what M. M. L'Velle, Esq., of Ashland, fired at Jack Toole when they met in town the other day: "Judge Green is one of the most impartial and able judges in this country."

A FULL Republican vote at the polls next Tuesday will land Judge Green and the rest of the Republican candidates to the front with splendid majorities.

ALL BUT WADLINGER. Seven Democratic members of the Independent Judiciary Committee have addressed a communication to the editor of the Chronicle stating: "Moreover we emphatically reassert what we have repeatedly declared to all of our friends and to all inquirers, that we are Democrats, and favor the election of the entire Democratic ticket from top to bottom, except Mr. Wadlinger; not simply because it is the Democratic ticket, but because we believe all the other candidates on the ticket to be worthy, competent and honest men, and good and reputable, consistent and faithful Democrats, and therefore entitled to our support as Democrats—which support we cordially accord to them."

Pronounced Hopeless, Yet Saved. From a letter written by Mrs. Ada E. Hard, of Groton, S. D., we quote: "Was taken with a bad cold, which settled on my lungs, cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Saviour, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all, eight bottles; it has cured me, and thank God I am now a well and hearty woman." Trial bottles free at C. H. Hagenbuch's drug store, regular size, 50c. and $1.00.

GOOD FOR JOHNSON.

He Votes Our Sentiments Regarding McCreary.

Capt. George W. Johnson, formerly of Iowa, but now of St. Clair, has written the following letter to the Philadelphia Inquirer and we say "amen" to all the sentiments expressed in it:

"In regard to the 'Golden Spoon' of George D. McCreary, Esq., permit me to say that I have been personally acquainted with the family for thirty-one years, at which time they were residents of this county. I was a resident of Shenandoah at the time of the great conflagration there on November 12, 1883. The next day George D. McCreary and Wm. Hunt, Jr., appeared upon the scene and urged the importance of at once appointing a committee to meet a similar one there for the purpose of immediate relief. Hon. M. P. Fowler, Daniel J. Williams (Chief Burgess) and myself were the committee who went to Philadelphia, met (at that time) Mayor King and others, to whom the necessities of our people were made known, and when we left Philadelphia that evening it was with the knowledge that abundant supplies had been purchased. The prime mover and indefatigable worker was George D. McCreary, and he continued to visit our town at intervals until all necessity of outside assistance had passed away. I know that I voice the feelings of scores in this neighborhood when I say that they are sorry they have not an opportunity to vote for him at the election for State Treasurer, Schuylkill county, and Shenandoah in particular, has a kind feeling and a warm spot for George D. McCreary. To defeat such a man for the office of Treasurer of the county and city of Philadelphia would be a disgrace and a shame, and a sad commentary upon the actions of those who have always been clamoring for reform and honest politics. We in old Schuylkill have no doubt of his triumphal election. So much on our part for George D. McCreary and his 'Golden Spoon,' from which many of our people suffered during that cold November of 1883, when without food or homes he came to their relief. Yours truly,
"GEORGE W. JOHNSON.

Field's Minstrels. A. G. Field's Minstrels, which appeared at the opera house Friday night, played to one of the largest audiences ever gathered in the building. The show was up to its usual excellence, and no one was heard to utter a disparaging word. The "Phantom Patrol" was one of the most pleasing spectacles ever presented on the Washington stage, the maneuvers being executed with machine-like exactness. Jimmie Wall also deserves special praise. His intense humor brought down the house. Mr. Joe Lewis, the Apodal Wanderer, seemed to be all joints.—Reporter, Washington, Pa. Field's Minstrels will appear at Ferguson's theatre on Friday evening.

A. L. Tilden and the Catholics. From the Pittsburgh Times. It is said that the political farmer from Erie county, in one of his campaigns for County Commissioner, gave great offense to the Catholic voters there by certain severe strictures on their faith, and to set himself right this year he sent his daughter to a Catholic parochial school at Harrisburg, where she now is.

"Mother, can I go out to fish?" "No, no, my little sonny. You know you've got a swollen foot. My precious little honey." But they got a bottle of rivation Oil, and he went and caught an eel, and ate it like a man.

A Surprise. William Shugars, of North Jarden street, one of the pioneers of the town, having been a constant resident since 1864, passed his 65th mile stone last night and was tendered a surprise party by his children, Mrs. Fulwells, of Allentown; Clinton Shugars, of Frackville; Mrs. Jane Summons, of Danville; Mrs. Annie Hess and Frank, John and Charles Shugars, of town. The visitors were unexpected and the surprise was a complete one.

Children Enjoy. The pleasant flavor, gentle action and soothing effects of Syrup of Figs, when in need of a laxative, and if the father or mother be constive or bilious the most gratifying results follow its use, so that it is the best family remedy known and every family should have a bottle.

Inquest Postponed. In consequence of the absence of an important witness the inquest in the case of John Millonowicz, the Plymouth man who was killed at the Lehigh Valley depot Sunday night, could not be concluded last night. The jurors will meet again this evening.

MANY ADMIRERS.

HOW BEATRICE COLLINS ESCAPED FROM READING JAIL.

OFFICIALS ASSISTED HER FLIGHT. They Had Become Enamoured of the Beautiful Counterfeiter. The Investigation Causes Much Adverse Criticism.

READING, Pa., Oct. 28.—There is not even a little abatement of the intense interest in the mystery surrounding the sudden disappearance from the supposed-to-be county stronghold of the slippery Beatrice Collins and "Butler" John Miller a week ago. Nor is there as yet the slightest clue as to their whereabouts. It is not that the outraged public is so extremely anxious to have either or both of them back, but there are at least a few people who would like to know just how slickly they got away. Much adverse criticism has been heard of conducting the investigation in secret, and, in view of the many repeated instances during the past ten years where wrong-doers in Berks County failed to get their just deserts, there are few people who have any hopes of the matter ever being thoroughly investigated. The refusal of Watchman Rhoads to appear before the committee is but natural, and it is a mooted question whether any one can be compelled to submit to examination. Of course his refusal was by the advice of his counsel. It is known that Beatrice had a goodly number of male callers during her sojourn in our midst, and within the past few days there have been many rumors connecting her name with those of a number of well-known and more or less prominent officials and others. Some of her jewelry is still in the city, and there are people who know where to lay their hands on it. One of the rumors was that certain parties are greatly exercised over the fact that the police are on the trail of "Butler" John and they are afraid he may be captured and give the whole snuff away.

Of course, Rhoads is awaiting trial on the charge of aiding the prisoners to escape, but there are not many who would bet their last dollar that anything more than talk will ever come of the whole thing. The people have lost confidence, and it will require a great deal to restore it. To hear that the whole business was cleared up would sound like a fairy tale.

Beatrice in New York. New York, Oct. 28.—The reward of $1,000 offered by the authorities of Reading, Pa., for the arrest of Beatrice Collins, alias Mrs. Ada Gilbertson, alias Ada Nevin, the beautiful young woman who escaped from a Reading jail a few days since, has excited the interest of the New York detectives, who are searching high and low for the counterfeiter.

Mrs. Beatrice Collins has been traced to this city, but the clue to her whereabouts has been lost. The police are reticent about the case, and it is likely that they have more information than they are willing to make public.

It has been definitely learned that she boarded the 5 o'clock train at the Reading depot, and went to Philadelphia, alighting in the latter city at Columbia avenue. Here she inquired as to the departure of the trains for New York and boarded one. She is undoubtedly safe in hiding in this city.

Mr. Howells' New Novel. It is announced that Mr. Howells' new novel will not go to the Harpers, as has been the custom with all that the novelist has written for some years past, but that it has been bought by The Ladies' Home Journal, of Philadelphia, and it will be published in that periodical. Mr. Howells has been induced to make this change of publishers for his next novel because of the financial inducements offered by the Journal management, and of the enormous audience which his work will command through this periodical. The story is one distinctly for girls, and will portray the life of a Western girl in New York City.

THE SUNDAY PARADE.

Compliments Paid to Some of Our Townsmen.

A writer to the Ashland Telegram under the nom. de plume of "Snapper" comments on Sunday's proceedings as follows: "It was a much bigger crowd than Shenandoah had anticipated, even with all its advertising. There must have been at least seven or eight thousand people on the streets and at one time it seemed that they were all congregated at the junction of Main and Centre streets and then it looked as though there was ten times that many. I formed one of a party of about twenty who stood on the awning at the Ferguson House, and saw the procession go by. It was a splendid sight to see from, and we all took our hats off to Proprietor Hutchinson for his kindness when it was all over. That reminds me to say that since Mr. Hutchinson has taken hold of this hotel it has bomed away up, and taken a walk with the traveling fraternity that is equal to the best of them. Well so it should. He is a thorough gentleman and a capable hotel man, always alive to the interests of his guests. I'm not saying this because he didn't chase me off of his awning, but because the people who know him told me so, and I believe them. Ed. Hunter, who is rapidly becoming one of the prominent citizens of Shenandoah, lives at the Ferguson House with his family. He is the cashier of a profitably equipped little bank as can be found in any of the interior state towns, and it is on a safe and solid business footing. He and his wife entertained a number of friends yesterday, and they looked at the parade from his third story windows."
