A WESTERN WRINKLE.

The following article, taken from the Hazleton Sentinel, and changed so as to apply to Shenandoah, is true as gospel.

It is a familiar advertisement that we want to use to illustrate our text: THERE IS BUT ONE PORTLAND, Oregon, and it is best reached via Chicago and St. Paul over the through Sleeping Car Line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and Northern Pacific Railways. For further information apply to the nearest ticket agent.

Did you ever see any railroad ever advertise that there is but one Shenandoah, Pa?

Did any railroad ever put a sign up anywhere in Pennsylvania, telling you how you might get to Shenandoah, Pa., how much it would cost and what route to take?

We want to drop the old Eastern We want to take a leaf from the Westerners if we ever expect to build this town up. There isn't any use setting down and waiting like loafers for the town to grow.

In securing the people of this town to vote for a city charter, one substantial advance has been made. We have a great deal yet to do. You cannot change the people of a town by ordinance. You cannot, by changing the name, make a city man out of a countryman over night. What can be done is to, by a general and a concerted movement, instill a spirit of advance and of progress into the people; show them that it is only by push, by hard work, by intelligent voting into power of broad minded men and not narrow-minded little politicians that we can get out of the rut.

There must be no warfare against a class or classes. There must be no classiness. Every man would be benefited in due proportion as the town would grow, no matter what his business may be.

An association of earnest citizens with modern ideas could get this town out of the rut it is in so hopelessly. It has advantages that other places are without. It has, on the other hand, disadvantages that other places are, happily, without. It has a population that is not easily moved. It has the objection always brought against coal region towns that is said to be undermined. It has never had what might be called a stable local government, certainly not one that had the real power to help along the cause of progress.

Happily the last objection has been removed. The "undermined" scare is without real foundation. Our population is steadily being thoroughly mixed up and that is one encouraging feature, for, where one class or one nationality is largely in the majority there never can be any progress. It takes all sorts of men to make a good town just as it does the world.

Briefly we need to, first, set about securing a thoroughly competent local government to begin the city with.

Then we want to advertise our advantages.

And then we want to make an organized effort to get some benefit for all from our advantages.

It should be in Every House.

J. B. Wilson, 371 Clay St., Sharpsburg, Pa., says he will not be without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, that it cured his wife who was threatened with Pneumonia after an attack of "La Grippe," when various other remedies and several physicians had done her no good. THE RAMBLER!

A COLUMN OF PITHY AND INTERESTING PARAGRAPHS.

GLEANINGS WHILE RAMBLING.

A Paragraph or Two on the Water Question—The Days of Pump-dorm Recalled to Mind. Electric Railway.

The water question has brought to mind the time when people had to depend on pumps for their regular supply. I recall a scene on West Centre street, opposite the old United States Hotel, where the town pump was located. At times the string of men, women and children with tin and wooden buckets, pails, jugs and every conceivable receptacle, was a long one and many a workman's dinner was delayed in consequence.

My attention was called the other day to the amount of water running to waste. The authorities consume an immense amount of water and the saloons, which are not small in number, have also become quite a tax on the supply. But, with all this, there is no danger of a short supply.

A new water company will not, in my opinion, interfere with the old company. My impression is that by the time the new company is ready for business there will be demand sufficient to keep the two companies going. It is my honest belief that Shenandoah will spread, that it will have annexed districts and that all the supply both companies can furnish will not be more than will be required.

A drummer told me yesterday that the electric railway will be a blessing to his fraternity. He says his class of people, alone, will turn considerable money into the coffers of the company. Drummers, he said, will be able to canvass the whole of the Mahanoy and Shenandoah valleys in a day, whereas it now takes them several days.

There is considerable complaint by the United States officials against the influx of Jewish exiles. England does not want them and that government is doing all it can to assist the Jewish Alliance in shipping them to this country. It is not unlikely that the United States government will call a halt and demand an explanation in the near future.

The woods have been full of gunners for several days past, but, fortunately, no serious accidents have been reported.

To-morrow will be the eighth anniversary of the great local fire of '83. Those who were in the town on that dreadful day will never forget the heart-rending incidents. Thank God, there has been no recurrence of the catastrophe.

Here is more evidence of the value of property in town. The Newhouse property was sold the other day for $7,700, netting the late owner a very nice profit on his investment. The new purchaser will take possession April 1, 1892.

Gratifying to All.
The high position attained and the universal acceptance and approval of the pleasant liquid fruit remedy, Syrup of Figs, as the most excellent laxative known, illustrate the value of the qualities on which its success is based and are abundantly gratifying to the California Fig Syrup Co.

Kept Busy.
Our job rooms are just now crowded with work, the presses running steadily all the time. This fact is an evidence that the merchants of Shenandoah appreciate the fine work that we turn out. When they leave an order with us they feel satisfied that it will be executed in the latest style of the art, and at city prices.

Big Deals for '91 and '92.

There is no business which admits of so many wonderful innovations as the theatrical business. The present age might appropriately be styled "The Realistic." Men with vast capital have entered the field and their rivalry and spirited competition have called forth the most astounding results. The public crave amusements as one of the most essential necessities of life, and are so thoroughly educated as to the merits of what is good or bad that it pays best to cater to them by presenting only what is certain to be stamped as "O. K."

One of the most colossal theatrical enterprises which will open in New York City early in August, is the great comedy drama, "She Couldn't Marry Three," for which extensive preparations have been carried on during the summer. The scenery will eclipse anything presented in New York during recent years, and with the magnificent company of selected artists, is sure to make an instantaneous and unqualified success. After its New York opening it will be sent across the Continent to San Francisco with the entire New York cast, and it is unanimously conceded by newspaper and theatrical critics that among the big deals for '91 and '92 will be found "She Couldn't Marry Three."

He is selling men's double-soled leather boots for $1.75, and the best rubber boots for $2.25. BOROUGH ITEMS.

GLEANINGS BY THE LOCAL CORPS OF REPORTERS.

WHAT THE SCRIBES SEE AND HEAR

The Electric Railway Company is at Work and There is Nothing New to be Given the Public at Present.

Local correspondents of the Philadelphia and New York papers are busy sending away dispatches concerning the progress of the electric railway. They manage to string out several chapters, but the fact is there has been nothing upon which they could base their statements.

Mr. Eberle, the superintendent of construction, has been busy the past week consulting with the Girard estate officials and is now in Philadelphia making his report.

J. R. Coyle, Esq., the attorney for the company, was seen by a reporter yesterday. He said, "I have no news. Things are progressing nicely and the construction of the road will soon be under way. Mr. Eberle is in Philadelphia and I expect he will return to-night. His return will be a signal for operations."

Mr. S. S. Shaw, of Philadelphia, is registered at the Ferguson House. He is to be Mr. Eberle's assistant. He said this morning that he sent a large quantity of tools to be sharpened at Plopper's blacksmith shop, preparatory to the commencement of work within a few days.

THE COAL WASHORIES.

How They are Developing in This County.

The Pottsville Chronicle publishes the following interesting article on the coal washeries of the county:

The new washery at Gilberton is about finished and will be put in operation in a few days. This washery is owned by Baldall Brothers, of town, and was erected by Contractors Christ and Heiser.

It is the largest coal washery in the county, and cost $22,000. The banks which will be washed by this concern are very rich and will give 100 cars of good coal a day.

The coal washery business is rapidly gaining a prominent position in the coal trade of Schuylkill county. There are in operation at the present time seven washeries owned by individuals and the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company. These washeries are all located near old culm banks, which contain many thousands of dollars worth of coal, dumped there before improved mining machinery was introduced to win all the coal from the dirt.

The Beddall Bros. washery is the best that has been built in this region, and will give the best results.

The Sydney Coal Co. has a very large washery at Gilberton. It has been in operation over three years and is now superintended by John G. Scott, an able mine foreman, who was superintendent at the Lehigh Valley Company's York Farm colliery until his eyesight gave out.

This washery has already "washed" one large and very rich culm bank and is now at work on another. In October 5,778 tons of coal were shipped from this washery. A washery is built like a breaker, only it is not so large. It is fitted up with jigs, screens, scutes, pockets, loading tracks, and there is always a great demand for boys to pick slate where one of them is located.

The Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company has one washery at the Knickerbocker colliery, Shenandoah, which has a capacity of 60 cars a day. There is another at Glen Carbon which turns out the same quantity. The company erected one at the Lincoln colliery culm bank, which turns out 40 cars a day. The old Brookside breaker has been turned into a washery, and when it is started it will send out 60 or 60 cars of coal a day.

At Middleport a washery is in full operation and doing big business. There is also one on the Girard lands at Girardville, owned by Kester & Co., which cleans about 35 tons daily.

The quality of the culm banks varies. The one now being worked by the Sydney Coal Company at Gilberton is very good, and the percentage of coal sizes is about as follows:

Buckwheat coal.....30 per cent.
Pea coal.....25 per cent.
Chestnut coal.....17 per cent.
Stove coal.....28 per cent.

All of this, however, is only 60 per cent. of the culm. Some of the others are much richer. A number of new washeries are to be erected in different parts of the county during the coming year.

No Better Medium.

A glance at our advertising columns will show the readers of the HERALD that the business men of town know the best medium through which to reach the reading public. A daily paper, as an advertising medium, is far superior to the Sunday papers. John Wansmaker, who believes in the use of printers' ink, never uses the Sunday papers. He desires to reach the public every day in the week, and therefore uses the dailies. If you want your announcements read by the public, place them in the columns of the HERALD. It enters nearly every household in Shenandoah, and is steadily increasing in circulation.
