AFFAIRS CAUGHT HASTILY.

What News Gatherers Take a Moment to Tell About.

New time tables are in operation.

About time to get ready for winter.

Hair ornaments are more showy than ever.

Sleighs and cutters will soon be taken down from their places in the loft.

A sermon is short to a woman who wears a new bonnet for the first time.

Our merchants are doing a good fall trade—especially those who advertise.

The cooler weather makes an improved attendance at the churches.

The next large gathering in town will be the annual teachers' institute.

It will soon be time to look up candidates for the coming municipal election.

The harvest time for the plumber will soon be here and he'll get in his heavy work.

The gobble of the Thanksgiving turkey is heard above and beyond the campaign rooster.

There is one lucky thing about spotted children—we never have them in our own family.

To the Traveling Public.

If you are contemplating a trip to the West, or southwest, the question naturally arises, which is the best and most economical way in which to make the journey.

This information you can ascertain by sending postal to me answering the following questions: Where are you going? When are you going? Who will you start from? How many will there be in your party? What freight and baggage will you have to ship? On receipt of this I will write or call upon you prepared to furnish maps, time tables, and full information regarding routes, low rates of all classes of tickets, land pamphlets, resort books, Hot Springs guide, etc.

The Missouri Pacific Railway and Iron Mountain Route is noted for its superb through car service. Pullman Vestibule Built Sleeping Parlor and Tourist Sleeping cars, also Palace Reclining Chair Cars free, are run on all through trains. Ask for tickets via this popular route, and correspond with me before completing arrangements for your trip. J. P. McCann, Eastern Traveling Agent, No. 607 N. Main St., Elmira, N. Shaking Carpet.
Shaking a carpet is a feature of home cleaning which thoroughly enlists the attention of the man of the house. It is done after dinner. The reason the woman selects this time is because he is dressed and has to go back to business again without a chance to change his clothes. He carries the carpet outdoors. It is not rolled up, it is in a wad shape and he gathers it up in his arms and starts for the door, with one end of the carpet dragging between his feet. He scorns to stop and roll it up. He has got his arms full. It presses into his bosom and leaves rifts of sand and grit on his shirt front, it bulges into his face hot and dusty, and fills his mouth and nose and eyes.
Then the long end gets under one foot as he is going down the back stoop, and the other foot mounts up the breadth, and he stumbles, but catches himself, and prevents falling to the ground on his face by deliberately yet blindly jumping off the stoop. He finally gets the carpet on the line. It is very warm. There is a breeze from the west. He steps on the west side of the carpet and hits it a lick with a stick; instantly the wind turns sharp around to the east, and he is engulfed in dust. He darts around to the east side, and he hits it another lick; the wind veers around to the west simultaneously, and he is plunged into a sneezing fit, which seriously threatens to dislocate his neck. Then he pauses and looks around uneasily. He sees that a carpet has the same effect on the wind as a sieveful of coal ashes, and he doesn't understand it. He gets a clothespole and stands around at the north end, and hits the carpet a terrible rap; the wind promptly sails around to the south, and catches him full in the face with a pint of dust before the pole has fairly left the carpet.

He doesn't stop to reason now; he would be a jackass if he did. He grasps the pole with all his might and madly smashes it against the carpet, and dances around the line and coughs and sneezes and swears. After that it is pulled down, and the hired girl, with the strength of an ox, takes hold of an end with him, and they proceed to shake it. His hands are in blisters across the palms, and his fingers, aching with the grasp on the pole, can seem to find no hold on the wool and warp. At every other shake they glide off, starting the nails and causing his arms to tingle clear to the elbows; and every time he picks up that carpet he does it with renewed energy and a weaker backbone.
The most we can hope for a man in this position is that he is not a deacon of a church and the hired girl a member of it. J. M. BAILEY.

SAVES FUEL LABOR FOOD MONEY,

FOR SALE BY
R. A. DAVENPORT,
No. 6 South Jardin Street.

ANTIQUITY can be traced in almost any thing but hats. If the head is out of date the rest of the body is pretty sure to follow suit. Nobody but a millionaire or a genius can afford to wear ancient headgear, and even they take a good many chances when they do it. It will cost you no more to be up with the times than it will to be half a mile behind them. Everything about our $1.50 hat is handsome but the price, and $1.50 for such a hat can scarcely be called any thing but a ridiculous low figure. The same can be said of our 25c neckwear. Our line of gents' furnishing goods is the lowest priced in the market.
