GEN. C. M. FIELD says that if the rebel flag is not allowed to be displayed at Chicago, "then let us have another World's Fair where it will be." All right, General, get up your rebel exposition, and let the world have an opportunity of shuddering at it. A fine exhibition it would be of the peculiar products of "Southern Chivalry." It ought to be held in a fac-simile of the Andersonville stockade, with a cemetery containing the bodies of 14,000 starved men as a side show. Get it up by all means, General, that the country may see what it was rescued from.

THE Dry Goods Economist says that before the taking effect of the McKinley bill the pearl button makers of this country could keep their factories running only a portion of the time. Now they have all they can do the year round, and prices of buttons are 20 per cent. lower than they were before the passage of the bill. The reports from Newark, N. J., is that the factories there are constantly extending their operations. Their greatest trouble is to find enough skilled workmen to meet the requirements of their constantly-increasing trade.

THE Republican party has never done better work than when it has had to fight hard to win. Over confidence is always its worst enemy. The result of having to fight to win is seen in the late Ohio election. That there are close states to be fought for to win next year's battle is a good thing for the Republicans. It will inspire zeal and active work. The party feel that it must work and it will work with a vim, and whenever it does, it wins. If the party felt sure of a victory in 1892 it would be in a more dangerous condition, than when

It knows it has a half dozen states it has to fight for. It will be a great battle fought on great principles and we shall win as we did in 1888. We lost in 1884 by over confidence, we won in 1888 by hard fighting just as we must and will do in 1892. Let every Republican take his proper place in the ranks and do his part towards the great triumph.

NEVER mind which one of the many good men will be the next Governor of Pennsylvania, let us give our attention of a Republican president next year.

Deserving Praise.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never had a remedy that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. C. H. Hagenbuch, Druggist.

Thanksgiving Service.

A Thanksgiving service will be held this evening at the Methodist Episcopal church. No sermon will be preached, but there will be several short addresses followed by revival services. The regular Thanksgiving sermon will be delivered on Sunday morning.

A Million Friends.

A friend in need is a friend indeed, and not less than one million people have found just such a friend in Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. If you have never used this Great Cough Medicine, one trial will convince you that it has wonderful curative powers in all diseases of Throat, Chest and Lungs. Each bottle is guaranteed to do all that is claimed or money will be refunded. Trial bottles free at C. H. Hagenbuch's drug store. Large bottles 50c. and $1.00.

They Say "Mc Too."

The Shenandoah HERALD brings out the name of our young lawyer friend MacHenry Wilhelm as the slated candidate for District Attorney, on the Republican side of the house. The party could go far and not find a more acceptable candidate. Though but a short time a resident of Ashland "Mac" has already gained a popularity here that would win him an immense vote.--Ashland Telegram.

ARE HUSTLING!

THE ELECTRIC ROAD STRETCH
ING ON TO GIRARDVILLE.

WORK THUS FAR ACCOMPLISHED.

Three Gangs Cramming Work Into Time—Track Laying Being Pushed—Wm. Penn Delighted With the Prospects.

The section of the valley lying between Dovey's crossing and the P. & R. crossing at the lower end of Wm. Penn was a scene of bustle and bustle that put life into the place.

Three gangs of men were hard at work pushing the construction of the Mahanoy City, Shenandoah, Girardville and Ashland electric railway with all possible speed. Two were engaged in grading, while the other men were busy preparing poles for erection, laying sills and rails and spiking rails.

The work accomplished yesterday was of no small magnitude. A HERALD reporter went over the ground yesterday and made notes of the work accomplished.

Thus far 2,250 yards of grading has been done. Sills have been distributed 1,250 yards and sills, rails and spikes have been distributed 600 yards. The poles are distributed along the entire distance of 2,250 yards.

The spiking of rails and filling in was commenced yesterday morning and 150 yards of this work was accomplished.

The road starts on the hill above the turn of the road at Dovey's crossing, where the 250 yard trestle is to connect it with the dirt bank over which the road will pass when they leave the borough bridge that crosses the Lehigh Valley track. Passing along the mountain side towards Wm. Penn the road gradually draws nearer the turnpike until they run side by side. About 500 yards from Dovey's crossing, near the first house of upper Wm. Penn, the electric road crosses the turnpike and runs on the right hand side of it. It runs close to the doors of the houses and so close to the narrow porch of the company store that the motor men, with a little practice, will be able to stop the cars at a point that will enable the passengers to step right from the platforms up to the store counters.

The road continues along the right hand side of the turnpike to the Wm. Penn breaker. Here there seems to be a stumbling block, but that obstacle will be removed before many days. The portion of the turnpike that runs under the breaker is not wide enough for wagons and the cars, so the Wm. Penn Coal Company is making arrangements to make new supports for the breaker and leave a clear track for the electric cars besides the turnpike. Having a clear road here the electric road will continue on the right hand side, past the boiler house, to the trestle, about a hundred yards distant, where the turnpike turns. Instead of following this turn the electric road will keep a straight line, crossing the turnpike diagonally under the trestle and striking the left hand side of the turnpike.

At the place where the electric road starts to cross the turnpike, there is a dirt bank. Foreman Charles Amour and his men had graded along this dirt bank and about 200 yards beyond it at dinner time yesterday, when the top of the bank slid down and spoiled the grading. He was obliged to take his men back to clear away the debris and restore grade, which delayed him about two hours in his grade work.

After passing under the trestle the electric road continues along the left hand side of the turnpike until it nearly reaches Bender's store, about 150 yards, when it again crosses the turnpike to the right hand side. The road then follows that side to the P. & R. railroad crossing at the lower patch, where it strikes the old Lost Creek road and goes over the swamp filled with coal dirt, under the old No. 2 trestle, and on past the Catholic church at Lost Creek and thence along the road that passes the church in the direction of Conners.

Foreman Patrick Conry started his gang of sun-burned Italians yesterday morning at Bender's store and graded to the top of the hill that leads down to the P. & R. crossing by quitting time. It was not necessary to dig deep and the grading done covered about 450 yards. But there were innumerable obstructions on this section. Coal shanties, chicken coops and small stables stood in the way. The people down that way are so anxious to have the road running that they volunteered to remove the coal and other contents of the structures, and did so, when the Italians were directed to remove the shanties to the places desired by the owners. In this way the work went on satisfactory to all.

The most formidable obstructions in the way are old telegraph poles and water plugs, but the officials of the railway company say that their pole men and a couple of plumbers will soon set them aside.

Foreman Amour took his gang to the P. & R. crossing at the lower patch yesterday afternoon and started to work eastward up the hill towards Foreman Conry's gang. Last night the entire road from Dovey's crossing to the lower P. & R. crossing was graded.

This morning both gangs started to grade across the swamp.

While the graders and trackmen are hard at work in and near Wm. Penn, a large gang of stone masons are working like bees on the foundations of the power house at Rappahannock. This is one of the heaviest pieces of work. Owing to the nature of the ground there it has been necessary to go down eight feet in some places to get solid ground. This has required considerable work, but the foundations are already peeping above.

"Come down to see our electric railway?" asked John M. Hughes, as the reporter passed him.

"Yes; what do you think of the prospect?"

"I think this road will be one of the best things the people of Wm. Penn ever had and they will patronize it well, too. Why the people will be running up to Shenandoah all the time. See what a difference it will make. If we want to go to Shenandoah now we must either walk way down to the depot at the breaker, or way up to that platform, and stand in rain or shine, waiting for a train. Then when you get to Shenandoah you have another long walk to the centre of the town. One might just as well walk the entire distance. On the other hand the electric railway passes right at our doors and in stormy weather we can stay in the house until the car comes along. Yes, it will benefit us."

John C. Glover, another resident of Wm. Penn, was met. He was all smiles. "Do I think it will be a benefit?" he asked. "Well, I know it will. Why have you people here who belong to lodges in Shenandoah to pay for our branch of the road. To them it will be invaluable. They can get to the meetings in good time now, but coming home is the hitch. They must leave the meetings too early, or must lay over until one or two o'clock in the morning, or must walk. That is where the electric railway will have a good revenue."

A Disputed Question.

Scientists and electricians cannot agree upon the number of electric volts which are necessary to cause a cessation of life in the human body; some claim that an excessive shock is more likely to cause incineration rather than instantaneous death, but if they would turn their attention to prolonging and increasing the pleasures of life, the public would hail the result with more satisfaction. For instance, the electricity generated in a wave of laughter is after all the most pleasant shock, and to see a large assemblage moved by a current of uncontrollable mirth while witnessing the play of "She Couldn't Marry Three," places beyond dispute the fact that large volts of laughter are better than volts of electricity any day.

A Donation.

Rev. William McNally, pastor of the Presbyterian church, and his wife, were agreeably surprised yesterday by receiving from the members of the congregation and friends in town a donation of a large turkey, ham, groceries, vegetables, fruits, jellies, preserve, etc., enough to fill the box of an ordinary sized wagon. The worthy couple were completely taken by surprise and the spirit with which they gave thanks to-day was no doubt of a more than mild character.

DEATH FOILED.

AN ALMOST FATAL DOSE OF PARIS GREEN.

A DESPONDENT WOMAN'S AGT.

She Was Saved at the Last Moment by the Vigorous Efforts of Two Physicians.

Mrs. David Ringheiser, residing on East Oak street, is confined to her bed by illness following the effects of a dose of poison. The woman barely escaped the clutches of death.

It appears that while her husband was absent Mrs. Ringheiser swallowed a large dose of paris green. The dose was three heaping spoonfuls. The poison had not taken effect when, later in the evening, Mrs. Ringheiser accepted the invitation of her husband to take a walk. But while out walking illness gradually stole upon the unfortunate woman. She tried to hide it, but the racking pains finally became unbearable. Her husband returned home as soon as possible and Dr. D. W. Straub was summoned. He found the woman in a critical condition and sent for Dr. J. S. Kietler. The physicians became suspicious after an examination asked the woman if she had taken poison. She said "No" and held to the denial until the physicians informed her that such was their belief and that they feared she would die. The woman then admitted taking the paris green. After a vigorous working of the stomach pump the physicians succeeded in dragging the woman out of danger.

Mrs. Ringheiser would give no cause for the act, but a friend told the reporter that she has admitted that it was family troubles.

Enjoyable Evening.

Four years ago last evening Washington Camp, No. 188, P. O. S. of A., was instituted by B. J. Yost, at that time District President of this district. This is the third and youngest camp of the town. Last evening the members of this and sister camps were treated to a literary and musical programme in celebration of their fourth anniversary. The entertainment was held in the camp room. J. H. Kurtz was the first speaker, and his subject was the new Baker ballot. His remarks showed the speaker well versed on the subject, explaining the good and evil features of the new system of voting. The subject for debate, "Resolved, That money is more powerful than law," with Edward Shearer and John Lawson on the negative, and Wm. A. Keagey and Daniel Richards for the affirmative side of the question, was ably discussed pro and con. The judges decided in favor of the negative. James Patterson sang a solo with guitar accompaniment, which was favorably received by the large audience present. Fred. H. Hopkins, Jr., entertained the members with a little war history, concluding the entertainment.

Gratifying to All.

The high position attained and the universal acceptance and approval of the pleasant liquid fruit remedy, Syrup of Figs, as the most excellent laxative known, illustrate the value of the qualities on which its success is based and are abundantly gratifying to the California Fig Syrup Co.

Rev. Hancock Vindicated.

Trouble arose in the First P. M. church at Plymouth between Rev. S. Hancock, a former pastor, and his successor, Rev. Thomas McKay. The differences were entirely of a financial nature nothing being brought out to affect the moral standing of either of the gentlemen named. The matter was brought before a general meeting of the conference at Scranton a few weeks ago and referred to a special committee. The resignation of Rev. McKay as a member of the conference has been accepted and the following resolutions have been adopted:

WHEREAS, Rev. T. McKay having conducted himself exceedingly unbecomingly as a Christian minister; and

WHEREAS, Certain damaging charges having been formulated against him, in rebuttal of which he having failed to exonerate himself; and

WHEREAS, The general committee convened at Shenandoah, November 19, to consider the case of Rev. T. McKay, and having dispatched him asking kindly his retraction and restoration, to which he unreasonably refused; and

We, therefore, in consideration of foregoing facts, and subsequent steps of Rev. McKay to revolutionize the First P. M. church of Plymouth, in view of all facts, we as a committee refuse responsibility of any debts hereafter contracted by Rev. T. McKay, and also forbid the use of the corporate name of the Primitive Methodist Church appended to any organization he may identify himself with. We, therefore, as a committee, make absolute his deposition from the ministry and membership of the P. M. connection, and therefore declare him to have no authority unordained to perform the rites or sacraments of the Christian church. By order of the Washington District Committee held at Plymouth, November 25, 1891.
