A WORD TO REPUBLICANS.

The hope of the party lies in the expansion of a stalwart Republican press. The Republican who reads or otherwise helps to support a Democratic journal to the exclusion of one of his own party newspapers is untrue to the Republican cause.

Resolved, That we tender our hearty thanks to the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company and its officers, Messrs. A. P. Blakie and P. J. Ferguson, Esq., for their kind accommodation afforded us last week on the occasion of our attendance at the County Institute at Shenandoah.

A Very Handsome Number.

This week's issue of Frank Leslie's Weekly is exceedingly striking. Among the interesting pages we find photographic scenes of the recent terrible earthquake in Japan. One of these pictures shows a road near Gifu, where the cracks in the surface are wide enough for a man to stand in, and are three feet deep. There is also a page of pictures of Washington life, and, by the way, we notice that Frank Leslie's Weekly is the only paper in the country which devotes a page to Washington matters as well as to foreign illustrations every week. Another magnificent page represents the Italian opera in New York City.

Grand Musical Treat at Ferguson's Christmas Day.

The celebrated to be given at Ferguson's theatre on Christmas will surpass all musical and literary events of the year. I will be an appropriate closing of the entertainment, ear. No expense has been spared to make it such and the people of town should show their appreciation of it. Prof. James Sauvage and his son, Tenzo, of Newark, N. J., Llew Herbert, of Scranton, Prof. J. W. Parson Price and wife, of New York, Rev. Fred Evans (Ednyfed), of Philadelphia, will be among the distinguished people who will be present. Mahanoy City and Centralia will send choirs of not less than 60 voices to wreathe the prize from the home choir. Male troupes from several parts will cross swords with home parties and the Grand Cornet Band will compete against visiting organizations for the $100 prize. Master Richard H. Jones, the wonder of violinists, will take part in the concert with the distinguished people above mentioned and, on the whole, a treat never to be forgotten will be given the people of Shenandoah for Christmas Day.

All forms of Rheumatic diseases and kindred pains and aches quickly disappear under its magical influence. Try it. Have you any form of Rheumatic disease? If so, you will find the genuine imported Anchor Pain Expeller your best friend.

The Witch.

The play which commences to the opera house this evening will be found worthy of its audience. It is the celebrated colonial drama, "The Witch," and its star is that sincere and sympathetic actress, Miss Marie Hubert Frohman. Of the production in New York City the World says: "The Witch" is a genuine drama. It is in five acts and it does not suggest either 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' or 'Shenandoah,' a fact that is rather surprising when it is remembered that 'The Witch' is American. The drama deals most interestingly with old witchcraft days in Salem, Mass., and tells a really pathetic love story with a wealth of picturesque and apparently accurate coloring. The subject of the play is one in which we have all felt the pique of interest. It is one that puts us, moreover, upon very good terms with ourselves, for it shows us that with all our little pet superstitions enlightenment in two centuries has swept away a thousand degrading beliefs with the energy of a cyclone."

Christmas Ball.

Do not forget that the fair of the Phoenix Fire Company will be closed by a grand ball in Jobbins' opera house on Christmas night. Come and have a merry Christmas and dance. 12-22-91

CASES AT COURT

IN WHICH TOWN PEOPLE FIGURE AS PRINCIPALS.

REGULAR PHASES OF THE SUITS

A Polish Grocer Receives a Sentence But Gets Off Easy. An Old Case Recalled.--The Sentences.

The case of the Commonwealth vs. Stine Skrobol, who was convicted of assault and battery and larceny, was called up before the court yesterday. District Attorney Koch called the defendant up for sentence, and after statements made by counsel on both sides, Judge Bechtel sentenced Skrobol to pay the costs and a fine of $25.

Skrobol's case was a complicated one. Some time ago Constable Thomas Tosh went to Frackville to attach household goods belonging to a man who was going West before settling a bill due Skrobol for groceries. Tosh seized the goods at the Frackville station of the P. & R. railroad where they had been carted by a wagon from town. Tosh got in hot water when he seized the goods as the woman who owned them flew into a passion and started to pound him. After a struggle Tosh succeeded in placing the woman under arrest and had her put under ball on two charges, one for interfering with an officer and one for assault and battery. The woman subsequently settled the suits and went West. Tosh brought the goods back to town and placed them in a storage house owned by Skrobol. The attachment case was to be heard before Squire Williams, but Skrobol did not appear and an order releasing the goods were given. Constable Tosh went to the storage house, but the Skrobols refused to let him take the goods. When Tosh persisted in his efforts Skrobol and his father assaulted him. Tosh then had the father and son arrested on two charges, assault and battery and larceny as bailiffs. They were convicted at Pottsville, but failed to appear for sentence. The court then issued a capias against them. Upon their arrest under the capias Philip Yedinski gave bail for their appearance before the Pottsville court on Monday, December 14th. On that day the two men again failed to appear. On the night of that day Constables Tosh and Phillips went on a quiet hunt for Skrobol and his father and after a search covering several hours the two men were landed in the lockup, but not until the younger of the men made a desperate hand to hand fight with the constables against going into a cell for the night.

Taking all these circumstances into consideration Stine Skrobol cannot complain that the sentence he received was a severe one.

ON DECK AGAIN.

Some Things "Old Miner" Has Never Heard Of.

I cannot recollect of ever hearing of a miner stealing $50.00 from his fellow man in the next breath.

I never heard of a miner owning a private palace car, and, strange to say, he has never had the honor of accompanying a railroad king in a car along a gangway.

I have never heard of a miner who has worked every day dabbling in stocks in Wall street.

I have frequently seen miners "rob" gangways and "skip" pillars, but I have not seen any of them skip to Canada.

I am sure that not one of the hundreds of Congressmen in Washington bathing with the silver question ever owned an iron drill.

It is said there are thirty thousand millionaires in the United States. Not one of them ever picked slate in a breaker.

Last week the cars were slack, on account of the latest fad--the nine-hour system. It really means this: You have nine hours to enjoy life out of the twenty-four, so with the aid of an old fan I ground out these few lines of machine poetry:

He has been digging dusky diamonds
For many and many a year,
And has not amassed a fortune,
Nor become a millionaire,
And now he is old and weary,
His locks are graying gray,
He has no consolation,
His count'ning night day:
That when he shall cease digging,
To diamonds here below,
As long as he lives he'll dig,
When all good miners go,
They all will be forgiven,
And every thing made straight;
"Old Miner" will be happy,
Inside the golden mine,
He never will feel weary
In climbing the golden stair;
The light will be repulsive
To all that enter there.

OLD MINER.

Commendable.

All claims not consistent with the high character of Syrup of Figs are purposely avoided by the Cal. Fig Syrup Company. It acts gently on the kidneys, liver and bowels, cleansing the system effectually, but it is not a cure-all and makes no pretensions that every bottle will not substantiate.

Coughing Leads to Consumption.

Kemp's Balsam will stop the cough at once.

A Busy Man.

Fred. Keithan, the old reliable confectioner and baker, is one of the busiest men in town just now. He is kept busy day and night manufacturing confections to supply the large holiday demand made upon him. He is consuming hundreds of barrels of flour, sugar and other ingredients necessary for his products weekly. Mr. Keithan has the reputation of making as pure candy and as good bread made anywhere in the state. He is prepared to supply balls, parties and private families with ice cream at short notice.

TOWN TALKER!

THOUGHTS ON THIS AND THAT THREADED TOGETHER.

THEMES TERSELY TABULATED.

The Tattle of the Tattlers Timely. Taken and Told Typographically in a Tasteful and Tempting Tone.

Superintendent Thomas Baird will gladden the hearts of the Kehley Run employes by paying them before Christmas, thus giving them an opportunity to enjoy the holidays with shakels in their pockets. It is understood that the P. & R. C. & I Co. will do the same thing. It is such acts that encourage workmen and solidify them in the interest of their employers. The arrangement of this early pay, of course, means extra expense and more work for the operators, and that makes the act so much more laudable.

I see the old red bridge over the Lehigh Valley railroad at the eastern outskirts of town is in process of demolition. It is understood an iron structure will replace the old one and that the members of the Red Bridge Mutual Benefit Association will not have so comfortable quarters in the future as they have had in the past.

"Mahanoy City, Dec. 19, 1891. To Squire Monaghan: Do not marry Thomas Moore and Mary Horrigan. Unlawful. Notify all other squires."

"MRS. HERRIGAN."

The above paragraph was published in the HERALD of Saturday last. It was received by Squire Monaghan Saturday afternoon. I learned yesterday that the couple mentioned were married on the morning of that day by Rev. Powick, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, hence the notice not to marry failed to have effect. It is understood, from subsequent information, that Mary's mother, who sent the dispatch, was opposed to the union on account of a difference in religious belief, Thomas having one and Mary the other.

Many of the recently arrived Hungarians have already become quite Americanized. As I was walking along Lloyd street yesterday afternoon one of them stopped me and said:

"Wanterbuynicerringer?"
"What?"
"Wanterbuynicerringer?"
"You want a drink?"

"No, no. Ring, ring. Buy ring," said the Hun, as he opened a dilapidated pocket book and extracted one of those good old-fashioned 18-karat rings that go with each prize package sold by fakirs on the street corner.

"How much?" I asked with an air of a would-be purchaser.

"I sellin' to you for one tollar, cost me tree and a half tollar," was the Chinese-like response.

As I handed the ring back and walked away the Hun followed with the offer: "I sellin' you for half tollar," but I hastened my speed, shuddering at the thought that the Hun had taken me for a hayseed. These fellows are becoming too much Americanized.

In Saturday's HERALD was published a communication from "A Mother" complaining that a gambling den was being kept in full blast in a basement on one of the principal streets of town and that boys were patronizing the place. "A Mother" will, no doubt, be pleased to learn that the man who was running the establishment has suspended business and left the town yesterday afternoon. Score another for the newspaper as the great advertiser, the HERALD in particular.

The Cardocks Captured.

Another interesting Polish case before the Pottsville court yesterday was that of Joseph and Annie Cardock, man and wife. Several months ago Policemen Amour and Neiswenter went to the Cardock residence to arrest the couple on a charge of assault and battery. The door was locked upon them, but the officers succeeded in gaining an entrance. Mrs. Cardock, in her desperate efforts to escape arrest, jumped from an upper story window to the street, a distance of eighteen feet. She escaped injury and was captured, with her husband. The two were indicted and released on bail. They then left for parts unknown; they were located in Hazleton last week and Policemen Conners brought them to town on a capias. Yesterday, the court at Pottsville fixed bail for the husband at $2.00 and bail for the wife at $1,000. The latter furnished the security, but the husband was unable to do so and is in jail.

It is the second of a series of three which is bound to make a sensation.
