CONGRESSMAN O'NEIL'S VIEWS.

A prominent officer of the army, who received a letter from one of the naval force at Valparaiso yesterday said: "In six weeks a detachment of the army will be moving on Chili. I thoroughly be-Heve what I say."

The officer quoted has exceptional opportunities for knowing just what the sentiment of the people of Chili is a manifested to the officers of the United States vessels in the harbor of Valparalso, and is undoubtedly honest in the

In view of the crisis which is evidently approaching, it is interesting to note the approaching, it is interesting to note the gradual concentration of the new may in the direction of Pacific waters. The gunboat Bennington has just arrived at Montevideo, and the Atlanta will reach there to-morrow. The flagship, Chicago, the Fessex and the Yantic are alrendy there. The Philadelphia, Concord and Kearsage are in the West Indies, ready to sail southward at any moment.

Many Democratic Members are growing restive under the delay of the Executive in communicating the Chilian correspon-dence to Congress, and some of them be-lieve that the time has come for Congress

Representative O'Neill, of Massachusetts, called on Chairman Blount of the Foreign Affairs Committee and told him that he had it in his mind to introduce a resolution asking the President to inform the House whether the press representa-tives of Col. Remy's investigation on the Baltimore had been officially authenti-cated and declaring that if they had been, a casus bell existed between the United States and Chill.

United States and Chill.

Mr. Blount cautioned Mr. O'Neil to be careful, reminding him that war is a serious thing and declared that the the initiative ought to be taken by the President, not by Congress.

Mr. O'Neil replied that ordinarily the President ought to take the inlative, but while he had faith in the patriotism of Mr. Harrison he believed he was surrounded by influences tending to restrain him from asserting the dignity of the United States. He said that he, for one, and many other Democratic members of Congress, believe that the time has come Congress, believe that the time has come for the United States to declare before the world that her flag and her seamen were to be respected in every part of the

The President has practically determined on the form of his special message concerning Chili, which it is now ex-pected he will send to Congress not later than Monday next. There is no doubt that this message, together with a review of all the correspondence in the case, would have been sent to Congress last week had it not been for certain private advices which the president at the time received from Valpavaiso. This was to the effect that Chili was then on the brink of another revolution, and for that reason it might be as well for the United States to defer an appeal to Congress for further authority for at least a few days. This the President decided to do.

Attempted to Kill Her Traducer.

NYACK, N. Y., Jan. 14.—Mrs. Charles Pine, a well-known and highly respected lady of Haverstraw, heard she had been slandered by Michael Walshaver, the proprietor of a tailoring establishment in the place. She procured a revolver yesterday and went into Walshaver's store. On espying the object of her search she drew the pistol to fire when it was grasped by an employe who turned the barrel toward the ceiling into which its contents were discharged. The prompt action on the part of the employe probably saved Walshaver's life.

Arrested for Innkeeper Dunham's Murder, NEWARE, N. J. Jan. 14.—Superintendent of Police Brown yesterday took into custody in Paterson George W. Fuller, enstody in Faterson George W. Fuller, suspected to be the murderer of William Dunham on Christmas eve. Fuller was locked up. He has been examined in the case before and was discharged by the Prosecutor, satisfying that officer with an alibi. The evidence against him is very strong, but also very cir-

WORK OF CONGRESS.

Essierday's Proceedings in the Senate and House of Representatives.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14,-There was a lively two hour session of the House yesterday. Mr. Holman, of Indiana, offered a resolution denouncing the granting of subsidies or bounties of eash, land or credit as impolitic, unjust, and in violation of republican institu-tions, and that Congress should vote no tions, and that Congress should vote no money except "to carry on the several departments fregally, efficiently and honestly administered." The House seconded a demand for the previous question by a vote of 154 to 80, and then Mr. Holsan asked unanimous consent that it might be debated. This was given, and it was agreed that the debate should cover two hours on a side. On motion of Mr. Breckenridge, of Kentucky, the debate was postponed until

Mr. Martin, from the Committee on Mr. Martin, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, presented a resolution providing for Friday night sessions to consider pension bills.

Mr. Bland introduced a resolution asking the Secretary of the Treasury to tell why, if there was money to pay the 4 1-2 per cent, bonds as they became due, he has assumed to continue them at 2 per cent. Next Saturday was set apart for consideration of the bill to regulate the whole matter of public printing, and Saturday, Jan 30, for eulogizing the late Hon. L. C. Houk, of Tennessee.

A number of bills were introduced, among them one to abolish the $100,000, 000 reserve; to give each Representative not a Chairman of a Committee a clerk. declaring Oct. 12 the anniversary of the discovery of America and a day of national thanksgiving, and one to repeal the sinking fund law.

There was almost a scene in the Sen-ate between Mr. Cockrell, of Missouri, and Mr. McPherson, of New Jersey, over a New Jersey public building bill. The difficulty was smoothed over, and the Senate before adjourning succeeded not only in passing that bill, but several other from the calendar.

NEW JERSEY LAW MAKERS.

A Large Number of Bills Introduced in the Legislature Yesterday .

TRENTON, Jan. 14. - There was a short ssion of the House of Assembly this morning. The only work accomplished was the introduction of bills. The most important was that of Assemblyman Cole of Camden, who amends the Meenante's Lien Law so that all liens must be filed in four months. The State Federation of Trade have authorized their legislative committee to fight all amendments to the Mechanics Lien Law and be-fore this bill passes there will have to be everal hearings.

Edward Stokes, an Assemblyman from the prohibition county of Chmberland, which was made well by the creation of a county excise commission, introduced a repealer of the act which creates the ounty excise boards.

Assemblyman Engard introduced a bill asking the State's consent to erect a bridge between Camden and Philadelphia over the Delaware river.

Bill for the Representation at Chicago Introduced in the Senate.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 14.—Senator Cantor introduced a World's Fair bill in he Senate yesterday. It was ordered to third reading, ordered printed and re ferred to the Committee on Finance. The expenditures for the purpose of a New York exhibit shall not exceed $300,-

The bill provides that: Chauncay M. Depew, John Boyd Thacher, Gorton W. Allen, members of the World's Columbian Commission, and three others to be appointed by the Governor, are constituted the General Managers of the exhibit of the State.

hibit of the State.

The Governor shall appoint a Board of District Commissioners for each judicial district of the State, consisting of three persons. Such Board shall, under the direction of the general managers, per-form such service as may be prescribed by the general managers, for the purpose of securing a full and complete exhibit of the resources, products and general development of the State, within their respective districts.

These officers are to receive no compensation beyond actual traveling ex-penses, and will make all preparations for a creditable representation of the State at Chicago and for the naval parade to be held in New York harbor in April,

A Cotton Firm in Trouble.

Philadelphia, Jan. 14. — Joseph H. Coates & Co., dealers in cotton and yarns in this city, are in trouble and their paper has gone to protest. The firm con-incted a business with many branches here and in Europe. The firm was rated at $400,000. Their embarrassment is attributed to the continued heavy decline in the price of cotton, and their in-ability to market the immense quantity they are carrying.

A Patriot's Ignoble Repulse.

He was a stranger to Danbury, and somewhat inebriated, we are sorry to Where he came from and where ne was going were facts that did not transpire while he was among us. His first appearance was in the bank. There was an old gentleman at the patrons desk laboriously indorsing a check. stranger went up to him and slapped him on the back without ostentation. The old gentleman's pen was just in the act of completing the tour of the letter

Z. The jar sent it up to the northwest corner of the paper, and thence drove it into the desk. The writer turned about in unmitigated astonishment.

What do you want, sir?" he demanded, with his spectacles reeling around on the end of his nose from the effect of the shock.

"I come to see you about Taylor," said the stranger. "Taylor? What Taylor?"

'Zach, of course; president, you know," explained the stranger, with an agreeable smile. "Lays down there now not a stone to mark his grave, by Jinks!" and the stranger's face suddenly grew serious.

"What do I know about that?" said the old gentleman, grabbing up the pen. "Ain't you going to do anything about "demanded the stranger, catching hold of the desk to steady himself. "Go way! you're drunk!" pettishly ex-claimed the old gentleman, discovering this and the horrid scratch on the check both at the same time.

"Drunk yourself, you ale foolf" re-torted Mr. Taylor's friend, looking about for the man who stood back of the connter when he came in. Not seeing him, however, he gave the old gentleman a cordial invitation to go soak himself, and departed. The moment he got outside of the door the cashier of the bank appeared from under the counter and gazed absently at the ceiling.

The stranger next went into Morrill's toy store. Mr. Morrill, who is a thin, tall person, was endeavoring to sell a lady a horse and wagon artistically constructed of tin and elaborately colored. "Good afternoon," said he, with a merchant's seductive smile. "How are ye?" responded the stranger 'Are you the proprietor?"

"l am." "Glad to see you. Will you just step one side a moment? I want to see you on special business.

Mr. Morrill took the newcomer to the end of the room, and then looked anxiously at him. "You are nicely fixed here, I imagine, said the stranger, peering around. "Dolls with yaller hair, painted dogs, primers, tops, etcettery. Did you ever think," he suddenly added, "that while you stood in the midst of all this glitter, like a god in a barrel of ice cream, the grave of President Taylor has no stone to mark the spot?

"You'll excuse me, sir," said Mr. Morrill, nervously glancing toward the waiting lady; "but you spoke of a matter of importance.

"Ain't it a matter of importance that the grave of the illustrious dead should be hid away under weeds like a bag of stolen apples?

"I know, sir." said Mr. Morrill sooth-ingly, "but you see I'm very busy just at present, and while I naturally feel a deep interest in Mr. Taylor's affairs, still there's a lady here to purchase a horse and wagon.

"Of course you are a man of feeling," gracefully complied the stranger. "Just rimme ten cents, and I'll see that Zach laylor has an obelisk over his mound be ore night.

"You'll have to excuse me;" and Mr. Morrill moved back to the lady.

"Ain't you goin to give me ten cents, you old shrimp?" demanded the stranger, with an uncomfortable rise to his voice. "What do you mean?" gasped the mor-tified and greatly astonished merchant.

"I want ten cents for the illustrious yelled Mr. Taylor's friend. "You go out of this store, or I'll put you out," threatened Mr. Morrill.

"You'll put me out, will you, old flat stomach?" derisively snorted the stran-"You'll pick me right up an drop me in the gutter, I suppose, you old lath, and the grave of a president as bald as your skull. Gimme ten cents, I say, or I'll cut off your ears and shove you under the door."

ler the door."

Mr. Morrill was struck dumb with horror.

"By Godfrey!" suddenly ejaculated the stranger, smiting his forehead in a paroxysm of grief, "to think of Zach Taylor down there waiting for an obelisk—a little, tiny obelisk—and his only cuthorized agentsnapped up by two quarts of bones in a borrowed suit of clothes!
