JACK THE SLASHER

Latest Victim of the New York Cut-throat.

CARSON MAKES THE SIXTH.

A Fear-Created Akin to That Caused by the Whitechapel Atrocities.

The New York "Jack" Has a Fondness for Slashing Drunken Men's Throats—His Previous Crimes—The Police Without a Clue—History of the Man Carson—He Had Been a Lawyer in Baltimore—Two of His Sisters the Wives of Judges.

New York, Jan. 16.—The finding of the dead body of John Carson, a former Baltimore lawyer, on Chrystie street, with a fearful slash across the throat, has created an excitement not unlike that created in London by the doings of the notorious "Jack the Ripper." Carson is supposed to be the sixth victim of the mysterious fiend dubbed "Jack the Slasher" on the lower East Side. Residents of the Fourth and Seventh Wards are terribly excited over the bloody deeds of this mysterious desperado, who appears to roam about at night and seek out drunken victims for his ready razor.

Although Carson is the first death resulting from the murderous weapon of the "Slasher," there have been five other men, more or less, seriously cut about the neck in that locality within the past two weeks. No less than fifteen detectives are hunting for the murderer, who is still at large.

Carson was a man of good family. One of his sisters is Mrs. Annie Sanderson, of Paterson, N. J., wife of Judge Sanderson, and another is Mrs. Mattie Benzinger, wife of a Judge living in Baltimore. Carson met with business reverses a year ago, and has since been employed as a canvasser and been traveling through New England.

He made his headquarters in this city and had been drinking heavily for the past week. About 1 o'clock in the morning Watchman Schmidt found him on the stairs of the Germania Hotel asleep. Clerk Wedding was called, and although he recognized Carson, decided to turn him away. Carson had paid $1.50 on Tuesday for a week's room rent in advance. The clerk paid back seven cents of this amount and told the guest to go. Carson, who had registered as "John Chester," staggered down the street and disappeared. His movements from this time until he was found dead cannot be traced.

The operations of "Jack the Slasher" are briefly chronicled in the blotter of three police stations and the Chambers Street Hospital. The first victim was James Heffin, 34 years old, found in Bayard street, December 29, with an incised wound in the neck, which he said was inflicted by an unknown man from behind. He was in Bellevue Hospital two weeks.

George Wilson, or Stevens, of Brooklyn, was the second victim. He was found on January 3 by a policeman on the Oak street station near Catherine ferry with an incised wound in the face which he said was made by a man whom he could not describe.

The third victim was John Clark, of Elizabeth, N. J., who received an incised wound in the neck January 4 while in Mulberry street. An unknown man did the cutting. Clark is still in Bellevue Hospital.

Louis Lawson, a sailor, was the fourth victim. He was cut in the face Jan. 8 by an unknown man while in Peck Slip.

Victim No. 5 was Edward Christensen, a Swede, who went to the Old Slip police station a week ago, and said that a man whom he had never seen before had slashed him in the throat. His wound was in recovery.

The wounds inflicted upon these five victims and the dead man Carson, were similar, and all were evidently made by a razor or a keen-bladed knife. Every gash was semi-circular and was probably made by the same hand. All of the victims were poor, so that robbery could scarcely have been the motive of the "Slasher." Not a penny was found in the pockets of young Carson. He had seventy-five cents when turned away from the Germania House, but he might have spent that amount for liquor before he met his fate. All of the living victims of the "Slasher" were so drunk as to be unable to furnish a description of their assailant.

Horrors of the Wreck of the Andrews' Opera Company Train.

BRainerd, Minn., Jan. 16.—Conductor Ball of the special train on the Northern Pacific conveying the Andrews' Opera company, which was wrecked near Jonesville, says the sight was the most appalling he had ever witnessed.

The wife of Manager Andrews and Miss Wallace are the only ones dead so far, but it is feared that several others, who were severely burned when the sleeper took fire, cannot recover. About twenty were injured.

The shrieks and moans of the women could be heard half a mile away. Miss Douglas, when brought from the car, was literally enveloped in flames, her hair being on fire. Many of the women were nude, but were wrapped up as they were taken out. Mr. Andrews rescued his little baby, and his wife was safe. He is wild with grief.
