HE IS A CRAZY ENGLISHMAN,

And His Aversion for Germana Demanded Blood Once a Week.

Ris Name is Henry G. Dowd, and He b Well Connected-Admits and Denies the Crimes by Turn-No Doubt but that He is the "Stasher" Who Has Terrorized a Portion of New York the Past Four Weeks-The Tell-Tale Razor-Identified by One of His Victims-Said that He Escaped From an Insane Asylum.

New York, Jan. 18 .- 'Jack the Slasher," that mysterious individual who since December 29 last, has amused himself by entting the throats of drunken men with a rasor, and has been the terror of night travelers in the Fourth Ward, was captured at an early hour yesterday morning red-handed. He inveigled his victim. a drunken man, to an unfrequented street, and then, catching the man around the neck with one hand, with the other he drew a keen razor across his throat. He then slunk away, but an officer who had been watching him for some time, and who had been unable to come up in time to save the drunken man from in jury, gave pursuit, and with the aid of Inspector Byrnes has no doubt that he has the right man, at whose door also is iaid the death of John Carson, the Baltimore ex-lawyer, and the dangerous wounding of five other men. The pri-reports name is Henry G. Dowd. He is well connected, so far as his family I concerned, but his habits have long mad him a social outcast, and for two years, at least, he has had no other home than the cheap ledging houses in the Bowery afford. He is about 43 years old and is believed to be insane.

Dawd's seventh victim is a man named Dowd's seventh victim is a man named William Miller, 45 years old, of West Third street, who was walking along James street in a drunken condition. His throat was badly out and he was taken to the hospital.

Flowd was arraigned in a police court and was from their remanded to the care of Inspector Byrnes.

All these crimes happening in the same locality, with the victims all being out in the same place, led the police to believe that one man evidently insane, was their author, and they accordingly took extra precautions to run down the midnight assassin.

Two score of detectives, under the persocial supervision of Inspector Byrnes, were placed about the Infected district, with orders to keep a strict watch and to follow and arrest any and all suspect-

Shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday morning one of these officers, Detective Masterson, was standing on the corder of New Chambers and Rossevelt screets, when he saw a strange man approach him from the opposite side of the street. The stranger had a handkerchief tied around his head, which partially concented his features.

The man came close to the officer, perried in the latter's face, evidently to ascertain if he was drunk, and then walked away. The officer followed at a respectful distance. The man haunted all the lonely thoroughfaces, and when a belief traveler approached, scanned him closely. He finally stood in a dark door-way at the corner of Roosevelt and Oak street, while the officer concented himself a little further down the street.

Soon a man who, from his staggering condition was evidently intoxicated, came along. The stranger in the door-way immediately joined the drunken man, and, after a moment's conversation, the two walked on together with the other, as before, following some distance behind. The stranger led the inebriated man through several streets, and finally into James street, which appeared to be deserted. Here the pair stopped and the officer darted into a doorway. He was not a moment too soon, for the stranger gave furtive glances up and down the errest, and then, thinking he was alone with his victim, put one arm around the drunken man's neck and with the other he drew his rusor across his throat. The drunken man dropped to the sidewalk wishout a struggle, while the assassin darted away.

The officer by this time was in close pursuit, and a lively chase followed. Other officers were signalled on the way. and all took part in the pursuit, with the result that at the corner of New Chambers and James street they captured their man.

The man struggled some, but a tap from an officer's long night stick put an end to his resistance. When caught the prisoner had one hand in his overcost pocket, and in this hand he held a razor covered with blood.

The prisoner was taken to the Oak arrest police station, which Inspector Byrnes had made his headquarters for

In the meantime an ambulance had been called and the wounded man was transferred to the hospital. He had an tigly wound in his throat and was in a semi-unconscious condition, but he maa-aged to give his name and address.

At the station house the prisoffer was closely questioned by the Inspector. He told very little, and this little was con-

He at first admitted the cutting, which he said he did in self defence, but after-ward he contradicted this and said he knew nothing of the affair and that he did not do the cutting. He was then locked up for the night.

After his preliminary examination at the police court Dowd, the name given by the stasher, was taken to Bellevus Hospital, where Clark, the man who was cut on Jan. 9, is being treated for the in-juries inflicted by the slasher. Clark positively identified Dowd as the man who assaulted him.

The man was then taken to Police

Headquarters, where he made a confession of his crimes, or some of them. He said that the impulse to kill under some discumstances was uncontrollable. He said that he wanted to kill all the Dutchmen, for whom he was seeking all

The reason for this was that a German had once ravished his mother at her he in Brooklyn. The face of the ravisher still haunted him, and when he saw a man who looked like the one he was pur-arting he tried to kill him.

'Why did you hill Carnon, he wasn't a German?' the inspector asked.

"I soulon't help it," was the reply.

Then seeing his error, he quickly corrected himself, saying he didn't kill Caronat all.

Dowd's room was searched by the police, who found blood-stained clothing therein. The sleeves of the prisoner shirt were also full of bloodstains. Th sialns were not new and could not have come from the wound of the victim of yesterday morning. The razor, however, is the strongest link connecting him with the murder of lawyer Carson, of Baltimore, who was found dead on Chrystie street Friday morning with his troat cut. As no weapon was found near the budy the police presumed that it was a case of murder. At the autopsy on Carson's body, the physicians found that the wounds had been made with a knife or rusor whose edge was slightly ragged. The weapon found on the prisoner has a jagged edge, and the physicians who examined Carson's body, when shown Dowd's rasor, said the wounds of Carson had been made with a weapor like the one before them.

Henry O. Dowd, the stasher, is an Eng lishman by birth, and is one of the children of Patrick M. Dowd, the civil en gineer who was engaged in laying out the Central Park. He is well connected on his mother's side, his mother's sister on his mother's side, his mother's sister having married Samuel N. Hoyt, brother of the late Jesse Hoyt, the famous millionaire, whose will was vigorously contested by his daughter, Mary Irene Hoyt. All who know the prisoner say they always considered him insane, and it is said that Dowd was once confined in an asylum, from which he escaped.

Among the visitors were leaders of nearly every trade organization in Lon-don, and outsidet bey could be heard exwessing in earnest tones their apprecia tion of the dead Cardinal's services to the cause of labor.

Chief Rabbi Nathan M. Adler alluded in his services on Saturday to the breadth and humanity of Cardinal Manning's mind, and especially to his cordial sup-port of the effort to obtain amelioration of the condition of the persecuted He-breage of Nussia brews of Russia.

In most of the churches and chapels there was some mention of the Cardinal as well as of the Duke. Cardinal Manning's funeral will be held at the Brighton Oratory on Thursday next. MAY BE REPRIEVED.

DENVER, Col., Jan. 18. -Dr. Graves through his attorneys, has applied to Governor Routt for a reprieve of sixty days on the ground that it will require at least thirty days for the stenographer to prepare a transcript of the case for his appeal to the Supreme Court. The affi-davits of Messrs Wells, Macon and Furman, his counsel, accompany the petition. They are similar to the doctor's affidavit and besides charge that one of Judge Rising's instructions to the jury is in direct conflict with the decision of the Supreme Court of this State. They also declare that it will be impossible for the Supreme Court to pass on the appeal Commission was sent to the Senate last before the time set for the defendant's week, says that he has decided to decline

Master Coville as Cupid.

Mr. Coville's niece, an estimable as well as a pretty young lady, has been visiting him for some time. Shortly after her coming, a clerk in one of Dan bury's leading stores made her acquaintance and became at once her devoted at tendant, very much to the delight of young Coville. The clerk is very fond of good tobacco, and smokes an admirable cigar. The portion of it that is not consumed when he reaches the house h leaves on the porch until he comes out again. The third or fourth time he did this young Coville detected the move, and lost no time in possessing himself of out of the way place. When this had been done several times, and several times the clerk had secretly felt for and missed his cigar, he began to grow suspicious and uneasy. Perceiving this, young Coville awoke to the fact that something must be speedily done to counteract the smoker's discretion, and the best way to do it was to so completely involve him in the meshes of love as to make the loss of an unfinished cigar a matter of no account whatever. With this view he put himself in the young man's way at the store. The

"She's not very well," said young Co ville.

"Why, what's the matter?"
"I don't know. I guess you know tha better'n I do," answered the youth, with a facetious wink. "I know?"

"I guess so. Oh, she's gone on you." "Shi" cautioned the clerk, looking around to see if they were unobserved "What do you mean, Billy?" And he blushed and looked pleased.

"Why, you see, she's as chick as car be when you're there, but when you ain't she's all down the mouth. She don't fix her hair, an she won't see any body, an she goes around the house sighing, an sets on a chair for an bonwithout sayin a blamed word to nobody but just lookin at the wall. To say that the clerk was too pleased

"What do you mean, Willie?" asked the flushed and agitated girl.

"I mean just what I say. He's gone sure. He got me off in one corner and he just pelted the questions into me about you. By gracious, Minnie, it's awful to see how he is gone on you. He wanted to know what you're doin, an if you're enjoying yourself, an if you're careful about your health. He'd better be looking for his own, I'm thinkin,"

The girl was pleased by these marks o devotion from the handsome clerk, but her heart failed her at the last observa-
