

IS HE THE RIPPER?

Various Theories Regarding "Jack the Slasher."

BOTH RELIGIOUS FANATICS.

Many Believe that Maniac Dowd is the Murderer of Old Shakespeare.

The Case of Amer Ben Ali Recalled—Points of Resemblance Between the Whitechapel Fiend and the New York "Slasher"—Dowd Indicted and if Declared Crazy Will be Sent to Auburn—Statement of Hoyt, the Banker.

New York, Jan. 19.—Some strange theories are cropping out on the East Side now that the murderous maniac called "Jack the Slasher" has been put under lock and key.

Is Dowd the Slasher, now imprisoned in the Tombs, the man who murdered and mutilated the woman known as "Old Shakespeare," in the East Side Hotel in April last, and was Amer Ben Ali offered up as a vicarious sacrifice?

It was on the morning of the 24th day of April last that the horribly mutilated body of "Old Shakespeare" was found in a room on the top floor of the East River Hotel. The crime startled New York, and puzzled Inspector Byrnes and his men.

Many people believed that the murder was committed by London's original "Jack the Ripper." But Inspector Byrnes, after a search of several days, arrested an Algerian named Ben Ali, alias Frenchy. From the very beginning there was not one word of direct evidence showing that Frenchy did the murder. But the detectives were together a mass of circumstantial evidence against their prisoner.

He protested his innocence, and his counsel worked hard to counteract the strong pressure brought by the Police Department, but the odds were too great, and the jury found him guilty of murder in the second degree. He was sentenced to life imprisonment, and is now in Sing Sing suffering from a crime which, in the opinion of many, he never committed.

The detention and capture of Henry G. Dowd, the murderous crank who was caught, razor in hand, early Sunday morning after he had cut the throat of William Miller, a German, who was drunk at the time, has rekindled interest in the murder of "Old Shakespeare."

Many of the men and women who dwell on the East Side openly express their opinion that the man who butchered the helpless old woman last April and the man who in less than a month has backed the throats of seven drunkards, are one and the same individual, and they say furthermore that Henry J. Dowd is that man.

The advocates of this new and startling theory go even further, and state that there are good reasons to believe that Dowd and London's Jack the Ripper are one and the same.

According to the London police the terror of the Whitechapel district was a religious fanatic who imagined it to be his duty to kill and mutilate all abandoned women.

Dowd is also a religious fanatic. His little room in the lodging house at No. 54 New Chambers street was littered with blood stained tracts when the detectives made their examination.

When brought before Inspector Byrnes at Police Headquarters a few hours after his capture, he talked in a wild strain about the evils of intemperance.

Dowd was indicted yesterday by the grand jury of assault in the first degree. If found irresponsible on his trial he will be sent to Auburn.

The police denounce unparingly the conduct of the wealthy relatives of their prisoner in supplying him with money and letting him run at large when they knew he was crazy.

Samuel N. Hoyt, the banker, who married an aunt of Dowd's, was seen this morning. He appeared a trifle worried, but professed that he had nothing to do with the man.

"Dowd's mother," said Mr. Hoyt, "was a sister of my wife. Both are now dead. The man was always a ne'er-do-well and good for nothing, and he never had any sympathy from me.

"The statement that I paid her rent through a man named White is absolutely untrue. I do not even know the man White, and I never gave Dowd a penny for any purpose.

The last time I saw him was two years ago. He appeared to be insane then. He should never have been permitted to get out of the asylum and go about cutting people's throats. Some one is to blame for this. I cannot say whom. I had no interest in the fellow."

Carsons Buried at Baltimore.

Baltimore, Jan. 19.—The remains of John Carson, the lawyer who was murdered on Friday morning in New York, a victim of "Jack the Slasher," were buried here this afternoon. Only the immediate members of the family were present.

Death of Colonel Crownsfield.

Boston, Jan. 19.—Col. Benjamin W. Crownsfield, of Boston, died yesterday in Rome. Colonel Crownsfield was a Harvard '58 man, and served with distinction in the Civil War. He was a member of the St. Botolph Club, the Humane Society of Massachusetts, and president of the Realty Company.

The Great Chess Contest.

HAVANA, Jan. 19.—The eighth game of the chess match resulted in a brilliant victory for Tschigorin, who won after twenty-three moves. The Russian played a two knights' defense. The score is now Steinitz 3, Tschigorin 2, drawn 3.

TRYING HER FOR MURDER.

Mrs. Cerro's Fatal Quarrel With Frank Lombardo in Elizabeth.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Jan. 19.—Mrs. Anna Cerro was placed on trial here yesterday for murder, in stabbing to death Frank Lombardo on the night of October 31.

Lombardo and the Cerros were tenants in the same house. Both were Italians, and kept cheap lodging houses.

Lombardo, it is said, boasted to Michael Cerro of intimacy with his wife, and thus caused her to become his deadly enemy. He afterward reduced the rates for lodgers from 15 to 10 cents a night, and this added fuel to the flame.

The night he was killed Lombardo came home intoxicated and met Mrs. Cerro in the yard. She says she made an assault on her, and that she stabbed him with a stiletto. The weapon was thrown into the Elizabeth River and has not been found. Seven witnesses testified yesterday for the State. It is thought the woman will be convicted of manslaughter only.

Newark's 434 Small-Pox Case.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 19.—The forty-third case of small-pox was reported to the Board of Health of this city last evening. It was that of an Italian girl named Ferris, 3 years old. The premises have long been occupied as lodging houses, and were patronized by thirty or forty Italians nightly. Fears are entertained that the disease will spread still more.

Well-Known Italian Shoots Himself.

THIACA, N. Y., Jan. 19.—Charles Schallowitz, a well-known business man of this city, shot himself through the head in the afternoon. Financial embarrassment is said to have been the cause. He leaves a wife and several children.

NEW GRAVES TALE

Alleged Startling Disclosures of a Witness.

CLAIMS HE SENT THE WHISKEY.

While Intoxicated the Man is Said to Have Made a Remarkable Statement.

Reputed Corroboration of the Story by Persons Who Heard the Man Talk—Startling Developments to be Given the Public Shortly—Letters that Will Prove Mrs. Latimer's Testimony—A Sensation Caused by the Report.

DENVER, Col., Jan. 19.—The friends of Dr. Graves claim startling disclosures will be given the public shortly. Detective Keith and three operatives have been diligently striving to determine who sent the bottle of whiskey, on the theory that it contained pure liquor when mailed and the stuff was doctored in Denver.

It is held that an affidavit has been signed by several persons who were in Herb Roothery's saloon on Seventeenth street, between Champ and South streets, a few days ago, when one of the witnesses against Graves became intoxicated and talked freely. He spoke of his acquaintance with all parties in the case, and as the minutes sped by his volubility increased.

He had plenty of listeners, for the topic was uppermost in the public mind, and every word was eagerly listened to. He did not meet with any interruption, and as the effect of his potations became more apparent, he grew bolder in his assertions, until he startled his audience with the statement that he himself had bought the whiskey and mailed it to the Denver address.

The story has created a great sensation here and, although doubted by some, is claimed to be correct by people who were in the saloon.

A couple of letters have not been expected to-day from Montana which the defence claim will corroborate the statement of Mrs. Latimer that had feeling existed between Mrs. Barnaby and the Worrels, and several more individuals are also sleuthing for criminal evidence.

TROUBLE OVER A CORPSE.

The Hard Time of a Wife to Obtain Her Husband's Body.

WINSTED, Conn., Jan. 19.—A week ago A. M. Peck died in Morris, Litchfield County. His wife, living in New Haven, sent for the body, but Peck's relatives in Morris determined that he should be buried there.

Mrs. Peck, attempting to take her husband's body to New Haven, was met by the refusal of Town Clerk Randall to grant the required permit. Mrs. Peck therefore procured a writ of injunction restraining the relatives of Peck from interfering with the removal of the body, and on Friday followed it up with a mandamus to compel Randall to issue the permit.

Yesterday the case came before Judge Roraback in the Court of Common Pleas, and he rendered a decision ordering Clerk Randall to issue a permit for removal. Peck's body will be buried in New Haven.

Prominent Erie Official Dead.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—W. F. Turf, Assistant Superintendent of Motive Power of the Erie Lines, is dead at the Imperial Hotel of pneumonia. He began his railroad career with the Pennsylvania Company, subsequently becoming master mechanic of the Bee line, retaining the same position after the consolidation of that road with the Big Four.

He was placed in charge of the Erie shops at Huntington, Ind., about a year and a half ago, and in January, 1891, was made assistant superintendent of motive power. Owing to the continued illness of Mr. Ross, his superintendent of motive power, he has practically performed the duties of that position during the past year.

Destructive Fire at Cortland, N. Y.

CORTLAND, N. Y., Jan. 19.—Fire early in the morning on Main street, near Groton avenue, destroyed a considerable portion of the business section. John Day, grocer, in whose store the fire originated, was burned out as were also the following: Mrs. Darby, hair dresser; Miss Miller, dressmaker; Miss Miner, hair dresser; Mrs. Penney, dry goods; Mrs. Van Hoesen, dry goods; G. L. Frutkin, photographer; Dr. F. Fennel, optician; Wescott, photographer. The cause of the fire is unknown. The loss aggregates $60,000, fully insured.

Du Chailin Has the Grip.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Paul B. Du Chailin, the African explorer, has been lying here sick with grip for a month, and no one except the family with whom he was staying knew anything about it. He has been living in the heart of the residence district, attended by a noted physician, while Massachusetts people have been telegraphing high and low because he failed to keep his engagements. He expects to be able to get around about the beginning of February.

Prof. Joseph Lovering Dead.

BOSTON, Jan. 19.—Prof. Joseph Lovering, A. M., LL. D., is dead, aged 78 years. Prof. Lovering was Hollis professor of mathematics and natural philosophy at Harvard, of which university he was a graduate in 1833. He was also a director of the Jefferson Physical Laboratory, and in 1878 connected with the U. S. Coast Survey. Three years ago he was made professor emeritus and deeded active college work.

Rev. Dr. Purvis Declines.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 19.—Rev. George T. Purvis, D. D., has declined the call to the pastorate of the late Dr. Howard Crosby's church. Dr. Purvis, who is pastor of the First Presbyterian Church at a salary of $1,000, preferred to remain where he is, notwithstanding the fact that he could have increased his income $1,000 a year by accepting the call.

What Caused the Barr Tragedy.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 19.—The report of the inquest on the death of Geo. E. Barr, late proprietor of the Hotel Warwick, filed by Judge Busworth, states that Barr committed suicide after killing his wife, and that the mutual affection existing between a certain boarder at the hotel and Mrs. Barr was what caused the tragedy.

NEW YORK'S SOLONS.

Cases of the Senators in Contempt—Assembly Matters.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 19.—In the Senate last night the names of the three suspended Senators—Erwin, O'Connor and Saxton—were omitted from the roll calls. Before the session Senator Roesch, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, announced that his committee, to which was referred the cases of contempt, would meet and act upon the question to-day.

Senators Saxton and O'Connor, of the Senators in contempt, were not present when the session opened.

Senator Parker presented with the report of the Commission on Electrical Punishment an additional number of reasons why newspaper representatives should not be permitted to witness executions.

Gov. Flower sent a memorial notice of the death of the Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals, recommending a memorial session of the Legislature and suitable action on his death.

During the introduction of bills Senator Aspinwall offered a resolution that the three Senators suspended from the roll be declared purged. The resolution, after considerable discussion, in which the Senator accused the Speaker of gag law and unfair treatment, was tabled.

A large number of bills were introduced after which the Senate adjourned until this morning.

In the Assembly the McClelland Enumeration bill came over from the Senate and was referred to the Ways and Means Committee without comment by any one.

A message was received from the Governor announcing the death of Chief Justice Ruggers.

The Speaker appointed as the committee on the part of the Assembly to take action, Mr. Sulzer, Mr. Guenther, Mr. Shields, Mr. Husted and Mr. Stranahan. As a further token of respect, the House adjourned till to-day, after a large number of bills had been presented.

The Mind's Mysterious Workings.

In the Marchioness of Dufferin's Canadian Journal there is an account of one of those "coincidences" which Dr. Weatherly is at much pains to explain away: You remember that I told you that a poor man servant of ours was drowned at the Mingan. As we knew nothing about his people we were unable to communicate the news of his death to them, so D. ordered any letters that might arrive for him to be brought to himself. The first of these—which we have just received—was from a servant girl to whom he was attached at Ottawa, and was dated exactly seven days after the accident. In it she said: "I have been in my new place a week and I like it very much, but I had such a dreadful dream on the day of my arrival. I dreamt that you and Novell were upset in a boat together, but you were drowned." As the spot is in an uninhabited region on the coast of Labrador, more than five hundred miles from Ottawa, without either telegraph or posts, it was impossible that she should have received the news of her lover's death when this letter was written.

Immense sharks.

Banking sharks, which at maturity measure from thirty to forty feet in length, are easily approached and harpooned, and on the west coast of Ireland as many as five hundred have been taken in a single season. The liver often weighs as much as two tons, yielding six to eight barrels of oil. A few years ago, when sharks' oil was of greater value than it is at present, the oil from a single full-sized specimen would often realize from two hundred to two hundred and fifty dollars.

On the Old Boston and New Haven Turpines in the Southern Part of New London County, Conn., is an old milestone, noticed and now grown, that was set there by Benjamin Franklin. When the highway was laid out Franklin got the job of setting his milestones, and he did it in an original way. He set out from Boston in a comfortable chaise that he had built, and a gang of men followed him with a team that conveyed the stones. Franklin's vehicle had a peculiar machine that marked the miles according to the revolutions of the wheels. He drove all the way between Boston and the Elm City. This historic stone is alongside of the John Champion farm in Lyme.
