AFFAIRS CAUGHT HASTILY.

What News Gatherers Take a Moment to Tell About.

Very little ice heaved yet. The boys are snow balling. The afternoons are perceptibly longer.

The ice cutting came to a sudden end last week.

Revival meetings continue in many of the churches.

Take things as they come, and give them up as they go.

"A man's deeds live after him." So do his mortgages.

The photograph of the microbe of the grip should be hung in the rogues' gallery.

Now that the January thaw is passed we ought to have some steady winter weather.

The church services and prayer meetings are being affected by the grip epidemic.

Most people laugh, not when they want to, but when they think people imagine they ought to.

A pickpocket may be very expert at his business and yet be considered as just "getting his hand in."

Every time a girl elopes with her father's coachman some other fellow is saved from getting a mighty poor wife.

The jeweler has drills so small that they can bore a hole only one-thousandth of an inch in diameter through a precious stone.

The religion that proposes to sell oyster soup by the dish whenever the church wants money is not the kind that the devil is afraid of.

A Surprise.

Keep your eyes on this local, Kosgey, the photographer, will have his new opening in a few days and will have something interesting that will surprise the people.

Closing Out.

At great bargains, a first-class line of second hand stoves, ranges and heaters; both double and single heaters, and every stove warranted. Call and see them, as they will be sold at a sacrifice, to close out the stock, at No. 131 South Main Street (Brennan's building), Shenandoah, near Steam Laundry. 12-30-11

"NEW HAMPSHIRE."

The New Steamer of the Stonington Line.

The steamer "New Hampshire," the second of the two twin steamers being built for the Stonington Line, at Wilmington, Del., was launched at Harlan & Hollingsworth's yard on January 16th. The steamer "Maine," the sister ship of the "New Hampshire," was launched on October 31st, last, and is now well along towards completion.

As the first propellers to be put into service on Long Island Sound, these vessels are exciting much interest among shipping men, as it is expected that, if successful, they will bring about a revolution in Sound travel from the old-fashioned side-wheeler to the more modern propeller.

These two vessels are to be alike in every detail; their general dimensions are: Length on water line, 302 feet 7 inches; length over all, 310 feet; beam molded on load water line, 44 feet; width over guards, 60 feet; draft, 12 1/2 feet.

The passenger gangway is well aft, and leads to a social hall extending the width of the vessel. On the forward side of this is the grand stairway and to the rear a ladies' cabin.

The grand stairway leads to the main saloon, which is a magnificent apartment 243 feet long in the clear, and will be decorated in white and gold with beveled plate glass mirrors, etc. The front of this saloon will be occupied by large parlor six rooms finely furnished with brass bedsteads, and the occupants of these rooms will have a fine outlook.

Above this and reached by a stairway from the forward saloon will be a gallery deck. The front of this house is on a circle which will be made into an observation room with nearly the entire front of glass. Sliding doors shut it off from the dining-room, which is reached by a passage between staterooms two on a side. The location of the dining saloon on this deck is a unique idea which cannot fail to be popular, especially on warm summer days when the dining-rooms on the lower deck, which is where it is located on almost all Sound boats except those of the Providence and Stonington lines, become extremely hot and stuffy. The pantry, kitchen, barber shops, smoking-room, etc., will also all be on this deck. Over the gallery is a pilot house, which will be extra large and will contain all the latest appliances for safe navigation.

Two handsome domes light the main saloon. There is an annunciator service from every stateroom, and a special service between the officers' quarters.

The steam heating service is connected with both the main and the donkey boiler. The saloons will be heated by radiators and the staterooms by continuous pipes. All the plumbing will be first class. The steamers will be lighted by electricity, about 600 lights being installed on each vessel, side and stern lights being also electric, and a search light will be mounted upon the pilot house. The main engine of these steamers will be an inverted, direct acting, surface condensing, triple expansion engine with four cylinders 28, 45, 51 and 61 inches in diameter, with 42 inch stroke. The propeller is of cast iron, left-handed, four bladed, and 13 1/2 feet in diameter. Four Scotch type boilers will be installed in each vessel. These will be 13 feet 6 inches in diameter and 11 feet 6 inches long, and will be made of steel having a tensile strength of 60,000 pounds to the square inch. Each boiler has three corrugated furnaces, 45 inches outside diameter, comprising 274 square feet of grate surface.

The boilers will be worked at a pressure of 160 pounds to the square inch.

Blowers with a capacity of 20,000 cubic feet of air will be put in, and the fire room will be arranged for forced draft. This will be another novelty on Long Island Sound. It is not definitely decided that forced draft will be used, but the blowing platform will be installed and the system used if it is found advisable.

The steering gear will be the Williamson combined hand and steam gear.

There will be seven water-tight compartments in each vessel, insuring perfect safety in case of accident.

The steamers will carry besides the full complement of life rafts, boats, etc.

Both of these vessels will be finished by next May, and will take their places on the Stonington Line at the opening of the next summer season.
