CHOKED EIGHT GIRLS

Schneider, the Vienna Murderer, Confesses.

DESCRIBES THE AWFUL DETAILS

Victims Were Always Conscious When He Attacked Them-

He Accuses His Wife of Assisting Him in the Horrible Work-He Would Seire Victim By the Breast With Mis Left Band and Strongle Her With the Bight -- Practice Made Perfect.

VIENNA, Jan. 27 .- The trial of Frank Schneider and his wife Rosalle, charged with murdering eight servant girls whom they had decoyed, was continued

The skull and hair of Rosalie Kleinrath, one of the murdered girls, and the torn and bloody clothing worn by her at the time of her death, were produced by the prosecution

The sight of the grues m: objects seemed to unnerve Schneider, and be finally broke down and confessed that he was guilty of murdering Rosalie Kleinrath and the other girls.

Amid the most intense excitement the prisoner described in all its horrible details his method of strangling the girls, who were lured to their death in his house. He said that he had not employed chloroform in any instance. His victims were always conscious when he attacked them, and he was assisted in his harrible work by his wife. She, he declared, used to hold the hands of the struggling girls, while he grassed then by the neck and choked their life out. At this point the woman interrupted herhusband by excitedly shouting: 'I am, your next victim. I never took part in Medical evidence was produced to show the great strength possessed by Schnei-der. This testimony was brought out for the purpose of showing that Schneider was so strong that ht did not need the assistance of his wife to grip the throats of his victims and choke them to the poor creatures.

Schneider here volunteered to tell how the murders were committed, and dramatically went through the blood curding performance. He showed how he used to seize the struggling victims by the breast with his left hand and with his powerful right hand clutched them by the threat and thus strangled

In concluding his confession Schneider said that he had not killed the first woman he had robbed, because he had not at that time had the prastice in the method of strangling which he afterwards acquired.

MURDEROUS MESS METCHELL OLD MAN'S DARLING

Robert H. Maple's Story of Matrimonial Woes.

HE ADVERTISED FOR A WIFE,

And Obin'n'ng a Satisfactory One, Gave Ear His House and Lot-

Then Mrs. Staple, Who Up to This Time Had Been she Idel of Her 68-Year-Old Husband, Sold the House and Launched Into Entravagance-Investigation by Mr. Maple Revealed that His Wife Had a Husband or So Living, and His Suit to Recover :) is Property is Now Being Tried NEWALE, N. J., Jan. 27.—The trial of the suit of Robert H. Maple against Florence D. Maple is being held before Vice-Chancellor Green. A strange matrimonial story is disclosed.

Robert H. Maple, who lived in Neptune township, Monmouth county, is 68 years of age. In 1858 his wife died, and soon thereafter, in the same year, he inserted the following advertisement in a New York paper:

"A rare chance for a lone woman. man 68 years of age, who has lost his family, wants a companion. He has a home, and will give it to a good, worthy woman if she will be his compann for life. Her age may be from 36 to. bu years. Address R. H. M., Asbury

Mr. Maple's advertisement elicited a air. Maple's advertisement elicited a number of advertisements from women, but the one signed Florence D. Dodd secured his most invorable consideration. Correspondence ensued and a meeting was arranged. Mr. Maple found Flor ence Dodd to be a well preserved an comely woman, who as she stated, had been a widow for five years. On June 2, 1889, their relations culminated in a marriage, which was per-formed at Neptune, and four months thereafter Mr. Maple doeded his house and lot to Mrs. Maple.

With the possession of the property, Mrs. Maple adopted a course of conduct very much at variance with that accorded the old man ere his generous gift. bought other property, and launched out into extravagance.

Her excesses soon prompted the old man to hid cause for ridding himself of her, and in this he has proved very sucsful. He discovered that Florence D. Dodd was originally Florence D. Foster, and that in January, 1867, she had married one Julius Worcemer, in Brooklyn. In 1877 she had again married W. C. Podd in the same city, her first husband Worcemer being then alive. He found further that Dodd had instituted divorce proceedings on this ground and had been granted a decree, no defence having been interposed by the woman.

Maple now asks the aid of the court toward the recovery of his property.

Wouldn't Becognize His Wives.

Sanatoga, N. Y., Jan. 27.—Charles A. Barnes, who is under examination by the grand jury upon the charges of bigamy, burglary and the abduction of a child from Round Lake last summer, caused quite a scene in the court house yester-day. A number of women who claim to have been married to Barnes were brought to the prisoner's cell for the purpose of identifying him. When Barnes saw them approaching he retired to the far end of the cell, covered his head with a sheet, and said he would not exhibit himself to such a lot of women. He was then forcibly taken from his cell into a private room where he was identified by the half dozen women as their severa

NOT ALL IN GIVING.

A Few Timely Suggestions for the Re-

From the receiver's standpoint all gifts may be divided into things that we want and things that we don't want. It takes no parricular skill or grace to receive things that we want, but as, in times of general giving like Christmas, the larger part of the gifts we get are things that we don't want, that branel of receivership is worth attention. The two ordinary reasons for not wanting things are the vulgar one that they do not strike us as intrinsically desirable, and the more complex reason that we don't want to receive them from the particular giver. A general remedy applicable to reluctances due to either of these causes is to keep strenuously in the mind the happiness of the giver in giving. Remombering that you are delighted with a trifle from some one you love, because it makes you happy to have been even passively instrumental in procuring him the happiness of giving; applying the same principle, you can accept eve so costly a gift from some one for whom you care little without any irksome sense of obligation, since, of course, the giver had the best of it, any way, and it is a great deal kinder and more generous to sacrifice one's personal inclinations and accept than to refuse. Remember persistently that by receiving with due grace you secure to another person a desirable form of happiness.

After all, little children do it best They are the superlative receivers, and it is because they are that we delight to give them things. They are frankly and delightfully appreciative. Obliga-They value their gifts simply by the pleasure the; get out of them, and pre-fer a ray baby to the deed of a brick They take a jumping-jack from Mary, the laundress, and a jeweled pin from Aunt Melinda Crossus, without the least distinction of happy approval. The negrer we get to their guilessness. the nearer we approach perfection in receiving, and in all the Christmas attributes besides. -- Scribner's Magazine.
