The Miscreants Send a Letter to His Father By a Little Companion -- Mrs. Waterbury Prostruted and it is Feared She Will Lose Her Mind-The Father Will Pay the Money as Soon as the Little One is Freduced and Make m THERE .

New York, Feb. 3 .- Ward Waterbury, the eight-year-old son of Charles P. Waterbury, a wealthy farmer of Pound Ridge, Westchester county, who was kidnapped by unknown men while on his way to school, has not yet been heard from.

The boy left home carrying his lunch basket and his school books, at 8 o'clock in the morning. As he did not return at the usual hour in the afternoon, his mother felt anxious about him. The boy had always been punctual in returning bome from school, and when supper time came his father started out to search for him. He first passed over the road leading to the schoolhouse and then through the woods which skirt the highway. repeatedly shouted at the top of his voice the name of the missing son, but received no response.

The father returned home worn out by his weary search. When he got home he found his nephew, Charles Waterbury, waiting for him with a letter, which the nephew said had been given by a stranger with instructions to deliver it to Charles F. Waterbury. It road as follows: "Sin: Unless you are prepared to de-liver the sum of $6,000 in cash as a Iver the sum of $0,000 in cash as a ransom to us, you will never see your sen again. The money to be at Miller's bridge, in front of Miller's mill, one mile east of Bradford Courthouse, at midnight The-day.

Internight (needay, There was no signature to the letter, Mrs. Waterbury, who read the letter over her husbadn's shoulder, screamed "My poor, dear, little Ward!" and sank to the poor, near, little wardt and sank to the floor in a faint. It was a long time before she could be restored to conscious-ness. Mr. Waterbury, although much shocked at the kidnapping of his son, did not lose his presence of mind. He closely questioned his nephew regarding the appenrative of the man who had given bins the letter. him the letter.

He said an unknown man had given him the letter. The man was driving a one-horse wigon and two others were walking behind it. He saw something in a blanket lying in the bottom of the wagon, but thought nothing of it.

The nephew could not give a detailed description of the kidnappers and merely could say that they were shabbily dressed and one of them had a beard. Waterand one of them had a beard. Water-bury, after hearing this story, started for New York, but before leaving sent Nehemian Searles, a nearby neighbor, to White Plains to notify Sheriff Daffy of while radius to holdy such band of the kiloapping of his son. The sheriff sent Under Sheriff Pugsley and Deputy Sheriff Hart to Miller's bridge to be on the watch there at the time mentioned in the letter when the cidnappers wanted the $6,000 paid over to them. The sheriff gave his men orders to them. The sheriff gave his men orders to arrest any stranger seen lottering about that place. The sheriff smen un-doubtedly reached their destination, although they had to take a long drive from Bedford station. Up to this morn-ing nothing had been bend from them. It is said that five or six years upo a man maned doe Hinemonic worked for Mr. Waterbury as a horn hand, and finally disappedred with a valuable horse belonging to his employer. Hitchcock was alterward concurred the story goes, and was senteness to a term of here years and was sentenced to a term of here years' imprisonment in Sing sing prison. INHUMAN TREATMENT. Agitation in Germany Over Revelations a Peculiar Instances of Crnelty. BEBLIN, Feb. 3 -The Socialist journal "Vorwarts," has published an order is aned by Prince George of Soxony, to the Twelfth Army Corps, requiring the offiters to stop the inhuman treatment of the men by non-commissioned officers, and the paper discusses the subject at some length. It mentions some cases where men were kept at the arm or knee drill till they had performed the movement nearly 2,000 times, or till they had fainted. In one instance a recruit, who had become bathed in sweat in consequence of the exertion, was mable to continue.

A sergeant thereupen poured a jug of cold water over him and then thrashed him till the whip broke. The recruit's legs were covered with welts and as a result of the treatment he had received he ad to be carried to the hospital, where he lay in a high fever. he lay in a high fever. Sergt, Lohel fractured a man's collar bone by leating him with a riffe. He afterwards tried to commit suicide, fearng that he would be found out. In addition to his other cruelties Sergt.

Pflug compelled several of his men to chew dirty socks, and forced other re-cruits who failed to stretch their knees properly at drill to lie across two chairs in a certain position. He would then sit upon their unsupported knees until they screamed with pain, when he would have them gagged. He would also slap their

SAYS HE WAS BETRAYED.

Murderer Fitzsimmons Gives the Police No Credit for His Capture.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 3 -Fitzsimmons, the notorious Pittsburg burglar and mur dever who was arrested in this city, says that the police of this city are not entitled to any credit for his arrest.

He claims to be the victim of treachery. He says that some time ago he befriended a man in Pittsburg who is now a resident of this city. He, Flizzimmons, had called on the man here and that man had betrayed him to the police in order to get a part of the reward that hung over his head.

Fitzsimmons seems quite proud of his famous escape from the Allegheny County jall. He refuses to make any statement just at present, but would do so in the form of a letter to the press later on. He consented, however, to speak in relation to the murder of Detective Gilkinson.

He declares that at the time of the shooting he did not know the detectives who had come to his how the betectives who had come to his how to arrest him for the Homestead burglary, but thought they were two of a gang of Italians who were at work in the neighborbood, and that they had sense in sense the set that they had come to assault his wife. He thought at the time that he was simply defending the honor of his home, and says that the idea of cold-blooded murder never entered his head.

Hope of Saving the Eider About Abandoned.

WAVES DASHING OVER HER.

All the Orew Except the Captain and Twenty Men Taken Off.

A Report that She is Breaking Up-Experis Say that Her Back is Broken and that there is No Chance of Her Being Able to Float -- Taking Off the Mails -- The Landing of the Crew of the Ehler a Wierd Scene-Desperate Struggles of the Lifeboats.

LONDON, Feb. 3 .- It was hoped last night that the government and other tugs would be able to pull the Eider off the Atherfield at midnight, but all attempts in that direction have failed. Throughout the night a high wind prevailed, raising a heavy sea, which caused breakers to sweep almost continuously over the Elder. The result is that her position this morning has changed decidedly for the worse. Her bow has risen out of the water and her stern has sunk lower.

The steamship's propeller during the night was carried away; this morning Captain Heinecke signalled that the size of the leak in the Eider's bottom had increased and that the water was gaining rapidly upon the crew in spite of their ceaseless efforts to keep it down.

It then became apparent that the Eider must, almost beyond a doubt, become a complete wreck, and her lifeboats were got ready to take off the crew when the got ready to take on the crew when the word to abaudon ship should be given. Seventy-six bags of mail have been landed and a number of the crew have also been sent ashore in the local lifebonts. The Elder's officers no longer attempt to dany that she is doomed; they now declare that she is full of water, except in the forepeak which is lifted up by the rocks upon which the steamship is fast. Experts who have examined the Elder as she rests on the rocks have expressed the opinion that her back is broken, and that there is absolutely no hope of saving her All the crew of the Eider have been taken ashore except the Captain and twenty others, who remain on board in the forlorn hope that something may be done to float the steamer. The landing of the crew of the Eider lost night was a weird and picturesque scene. A powerful electric light aided the moonlight in casting a bright glace on the waters and guiding the lifeboats. Vast crowds lined the cliffs to gaze on the spectacle, and by their cheers or their slience showed how the incidents of the rescue affected them.

The Atherfield boat nearly capsized saveral times in the balling surf, the oars bending under the strain. But the crew bending under the strain. But the crew kept their heads, and the boat soon righted under their powerful stroke. The lifeboats landed the men within seventy five minutes from the time of lannching. The lifeboats and their brave crews did not delay a moment. The German saliors were helped out on the beach, to be received with hugs and kisses by the other Germans who had gone before. Within five minutes the lifeboats were off again for the Eider. The surf boiled around, and over them, often hiding them from view, and every reappearance was greeted with a cheer from the cliffs.

The trip was accomplished in safety, the last mails on board being landed as well as 125 of the crew. Very little con-fidence is felt in the ultimate rescue of the vessel, although the captain is still sanguine of being able to save her.
