DAMON AND PYTHIAS

James White and His Bosom Friend Spencer.

THEIR MANY EXTRAVAGANCES.

They Had a Common Purse and Spent from $25,000 to $50,000 a Year.

White Had a Fortune of Half a Million, and Left Spencer an Annuity of $10,000 a Year—The Executors of the Will File an Accounting and Say That All They Can Find is $3,000—Spencer Says He Will Sue for His Rights.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The executors of the estate of James Moss White have filed an accounting of the estate, and thereby cut off Harvey Spencer, jr., to whom was bequeathed a legacy of $10,000.

James Moss White, a Princeton graduate, was a young man of extravagant tastes, which he was enabled to gratify on a fortune of half a million.

While in Lenox, in 1881, he met Harvey Spencer, jr., and they became warm friends. They traveled together all over the world, and enjoyed the delights of Paris in each other's company. Under Spencer's influence White became more quiet in his tastes, and settled down to take life in a more serious way. Still, he spent money freely.

White's uncle, David Wolfe Bishop, finally induced him to sign a trust deed on all his property. This he did because he needed ready money. Then Mr. Bishop told Spencer he would allow him $4,000 a year for his services in looking out for White. But this proved inadequate. The young man spent all the way from $25,000 to $50,000 a year, and had everything they could buy, including a $30,000 yacht, and they got into debt besides.

Then White proposed to share his bank account with Spencer. The latter did not object, and White told his banker to honor Spencer's checks for any amount, as if his funds hereafter were to be Spencer's.

The two began to live in most extravagant style. They had expensive clothes, two establishments where they entertained lavishly, horses innumerable and everything that tends to make a young man feel that he is enjoying this life.

One day, however, White caught a cold, and before he could realize it his lungs were congested. Then an abscess formed on his lungs. It was necessary to perform an operation, and as there was a chance of his being fatal, White was told to make his will and settle his affairs.

This he did. The will was drawn on March 21, 1898. It provided that all debts outstanding in the names of White and Spencer should be paid out of the estate, and that Spencer should receive an annuity of $10,000. John Jay White was the residuary legatee.

March 25 had been set for the surgical operation. White was in good spirits and no evil result was looked for. He had a fine constitution, and had never been ill in his life. He was walking to the operating table, when in an instant a fit of coughing seized him. The abscess burst and he was choked to death in the presence of the doctors who had come to rid him of his trouble.

Spencer had the body of his friend embalmed and brought to this country.
Then he heard the will read making him one of the legatees. But Mr. Bishop informed him that there was nothing for him, as White had, by the deed of trust, surrendered everything he owned.

Since then Spencer has tried in vain to get the money left by the will. He argues that White was of unimpaired mind when the deed of trust was drawn.
Mrs. White, mother of the dead man, refuses to see Spencer, and the executors of the will have put him off time after time, he alleges.

Spencer's lawyer, William R. Wilder, of the firm of Rudd, Hunt & Wilder, says the time for action is now at hand.
The accounting, which was filed makes no mention of Mr. Wilder's client, and does not deal with the bulk of the estate. The sum of $2,000 is all that is mentioned in the accounting, and that is all that the executors will admit that White left when he died.

Spencer is a young man about town, living at the Harper, 234 Fifth avenue.
He says he will sue for his rights.

MADEIRA'S EXHIBIT.

BRANDON, Pa., Feb. 13.—Fourteen-year-old Willie Putnam put the muzzle of an old revolver, which he supposed to be harmless, to his temple, pulled the trigger and received a bullet in his brain.
He died an hour later.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—A report has been received at the Department of State from the United States Consul at Funchal, Madeira, in which is transmitted copies of the acceptance by the government and the municipal council of the invitation of the President of the United States to take part in the Columbian Exposition.

This is the first time in the history of the government of the Madeira Islands that a direct invitation has been received from the government of any foreign country. Such matters having always been transmitted through Lisbon, and on this account they feel very grateful and will be very fully represented at Chicago, both by delegates and the different productions and industries of the island.

Not least among the articles of interest will be a table made from the timbers taken from the house in which Columbus lived for many years before setting out on his voyage, which resulted in the discovery of the New World. The house was removed in 1877, but photographs of it were taken before that time.

Mr. Cleveland to Hunt Deer.
WILMINGTON, N. C., Feb. 13.—D. M.
Finger's yacht Oneta has arrived here and Mr. Finger will arrive next week.
Ex-President Cleveland will join him, and both will be the guests of Pembroke Jones, one of the most prominent men of Wilmington. In company with a large party they will spend several days hunting deer in Brunswick county, where game is remarkably plentiful.

Her Child Choked to Death.
CHARLESTON, W. VA., Feb. 13.—Mont

JAMES FAIR'S DEATH

D D Bi-Chloride of Gold Kill the Young Man?

SO HIS PHYSICIANS DECLARE.

It was an Inordinance Debiker and Tried Many before to Break the Habit.

SOME TIME AGO HE HAD HIS PALATE HYPNOTIZED AND IMAGINATION TOOK THE PLACE OF WHISKEY, BUT HIS OLD CRAVING RETURNED AND HE TRIED THE BI-CHLORIDE OF GOLD TREATMENT, WHICH AFFECTED HIS HEART AND HASTENED DEATH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 13.—The death of James G. Fair, jr., is attributed by his doctors directly to bi-chloride of gold treatment.

Fair had a superabundance of flesh and and had shown signs of fatty degeneration of the heart. He drank inordinately and was always trying new schemes to cure the liquor habit.

Not long ago he had his palate hypnotized and force of imagination took the place of whiskey for a few weeks, but when the appetite returned he drank worse than ever.

The Keeley cure came along and young "Jimmie" was among the first to try it.
He declared it had effected a cure, but his friends noticed his listlessness.

Now the doctors say stychina, which enters so largely into the so-called bi-chloride treatment, affected his heart and hastened death.

His younger brother, Charles, is also a dipsomaniac, who has been sent on a long sea voyage several times, but nothing seems able to eradicate the desire for whiskey.

Ex-Senator Fair has more ready money than any one in Frisco. His real estate is worth no less than $200,000, $500,000. He is piling up millions with his hair which he can trust to manage his great fortune when he leaves it.

THEY ARE RECONCILED.

Col. Lindley's Illness Ends the Differences Between Himself and His Wife.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 13.—Last December Col. A. F. Lindley, of the 150th Regiment, and a leading merchant of this city, separated from his wife.

The quarrel was bitter and it endured in the wife applying for a divorce, which action was pending until a day or two ago. Colonel Lindley was taken ill and placed in the Hudson River State Hospital for the insane. He became very ill and sent for his wife, who went at once to his bedside, where a reconciliation was effected.

Mrs. Lindley is now in constant attendance upon her husband, who is expected to recover.

The affair has excited considerable interest hereabouts because of the bitterness of the estrangement, stories of which at one time abounded in the newspapers.

FRANCE AND RUSSIA CONSPIRE.

They Want the Sultan to Insist on the Khedive Going to Constantinople.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—A dispatch from Vienna says that Khedive Abbas requires that the Sultan shall send him a firman formally recognizing and confirming his authority, and that Abbas has sent a message to this effect to Constantinople.

The Sultan's reply has been that the Khedive must come in person to receive the firman.

To this Abbas objects, as he thinks the Sultan might take occasion to extort some concession. It is claimed that France and Russia are intriguing against Great Britain at the Sultan's court, and have inspired the course of that potentate in regard to the Khedive, and that the issue has become a trial of strength between the powers concerned.
